CORBETT IS COMMENDED.

If any candidate on the republican state ticket is elected, that one will be State Superintendent Corbett, and it will be largely because the people despise contemptible campaign methods, especially when employed against an efficient public officer.

On investigation we find that the raing in question was sustained instead of reversed, and in no case has a single decision of that officer been overruled by the courts during the present administration.

We find that Mr. Corbett is very popnlar among teachers and school officers and they speak of his work as strong and progressive. We believe the foolish charges against him have been trumped up by a little clique of per-sonal enemies, and we regret that any of the people's party papers should make the political blunder of giving them publicity. UP TO THE SAME OLD TRICKS.

The Democratic state central commit-tee of Nebraska has just put in circulation, at so late a day in the campaign that it was hoped the fraud would escape detection, a pamphlet printed in the German language which reprints all of the exploded forgeries and fakes of the campaign. Utterances of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Blaine, McKhiley, and thers, are garbled so as to misstate their position. Then the old Pinancial News forgery is trotted out again to do service in a new dress, and the Bismarck letter which was printed by the silver press under a forged translation, is put out as new and original and genuine.

Although the pamphlet is issued by the Democratic state central committee, the evidence exists that the expense printing was borne by Guy Barton of Omaha, a life-long Republican until this year, and manager of the Omaha melters, owned by the Omaha and Grant Smelting company, with smelters at Denver and Omaha. Mr. Barton's nterest in the matter, and his unusual generosity, are explained by a conversa-tion had with him by a close friend since the campaign opened. He was pany owned nearly one million ounces of silver; that if the price of bullion advanced under free coinage, the rise in not advance, the company could pay its employes in dollars costing but fifty-two cents; and that, figured from this standpoint, he would be "in it" either way.

The Democratic state central committee and "Silver Baron" Barton may be good teachers for the Nebraska voters, with their fakes and forgeries and stale chestnuts, and they may be able to fool a few of our German citizens, but the great mass of them are too intelligent to e caught in such manner.

for re-election. He is well equipped, both by education and experience, for the position, and the best proof of his ability and good character is shown in the fact that he was nominated for county clerk of Harlan county four times unanimously, and generally elected. He has given the state an economical administration. A part of his economies was the saving to the state in the publication of the constitutional amendments to be voted on at the approaching election. Under the law he could have printed the amendments so they would have cost about $80,000, this sum to be distributed among Republican newspapers, but he was prudent and careful in this as in other matters, the result being that the publication will cost the state about me-half of that amount. Under his pruning knife the incidental expenses of the last legislature were about $9,000 less than they would have been by following old precedents. As keeper of the "great seal" and the records of the state Mr. Piper has in every way proven himself worthy of a great public trust.

A Farmer's Political Speech. Some Laucaster county farmers were recently discussing the money question and endeavoring to get at the cause of low prices of farm products. Captain Baird, himself an old farmer, listened for a long time and then joined in, as follows: "Boys. let's see if we can't get at the facts right here among ourselves, without calling in any evidence from outside of Lancaster county. Let's don't take anybody's word for anything that we don't know by our own observation. All of you remember that during the three years of drouth, covered wagons were moving out of the state. and some of the men who owned land began to be afraid that there wouldn't be renters enough. Renters around here thought there would plenty of farms to rent and so they didn't hustle for the leases. How did it turn out?" It was remarked that land was scarcer than ever and that some farmers in the neighborhood hadn't been able to find a foot of land to rent for this season. "Now what is the cause?" asked the captain. "Here we have all seen such competition for land as we never saw before, and farming we all know isn't profitable. Why? Since the election n 1892 hundreds of men in Lincoln have been thrown out of work. They were busy before in building houses, making public improvements, working in factories and on the railroads. All at once they find there is no more work to do. They needn't go to other towns, for the same thing is true everywhere. They have to live, and so they have been flaxing around and renting farms out from under you renters out here. Horses are cheap, and they have fitted themselves out for farming, and here they are, competing with you for land and selling grain instead of buying, as they did when they were at work in

A hum of approval followed this telling point. One of the farmers said: "I have heard a lot of speeches about silver and everything, but nobody ever made the case so clear as Captain Baird." Others agreed with him that

Cheap John, and a Nasty One. "British" is still generally synonymous with "good and dear," though there are signs that the reputation for excellence enjoyed by British goods abroad has suffered to some extent. Forsign competition is driving British trade out of all the old markets. - Textile Mercury, May 23

'This ebullition of loyalty on the eve of her majesty's birthday is perhaps excusable, but how far from the truth! The world over the word "British" is now synonymous with "cheap and nasty," especially in those classes of shod-dy goods that savor of "pig manure," "urine" and "liquid zinc." These admixtures afford one of the reasons why "foreign competition is driving British trade out of all the old markets.
