—Whitmore Bros. living near Valley have made a great success in raising chinchy this year. They planted five acres and have received a yield of about ten tons per acre, for which they received at the factory $10.50 per ton.

—Don't forget the Firemen's dance and auction Halloween eve, Oct. 30, '96, at the Masonic hall, for benefit fund to entertain the Nebraska State Volunteer Firemen's association, which meets at Columbus in January, 1897.

—Call on C. C. Hardy for all kinds of wood work. He can please you in any kind of repair work; makes furniture to order, and repairs any kind of musical instruments at fair prices. Shop three doors west of J. H. Galley's store, Elevator street. 17

—James Lantrike succeeds Bert Osterhout in the restaurant business. Tim McCarty of North Platte takes Mr. Lantrike's place as superintendent of the U. P. bridge gang. Mr. Lantrike takes charge of the restaurant the first of the month.

—Messrs. Otto Kohler and Fred Nyfler of Ellensburg, Washington, were in the city last week, returning home in the latter part of the week. The gentlemen were here making arrangements to feed about 2,500 sheep near town, somewhere near the river.

—At the ministerial association, resolutions of respect were adopted for Rev. Moore and Rev. Lacy, who remove from the city. Rev. Moore residing in Omaha and traveling for the Britannia Encyclopaedia and Rev. Lacy continuing his studies in Omaha.

—Tuesday night of last week the Bodewig elevator at Humphrey burst, letting out about 10,000 bushels of shelled corn onto the U. P. tracks. A force of railroad hands were immediately sent to work and the track was clear by Wednesday afternoon.

—Albert Stanger started this Tuesday for Colmar, Alaska, called father by a cablegram telling of his father's sickness. Mr. Martin Stanger is now 78 years old and it is supposed he is seriously ill from the cablegram sent, although it was not so stated.

Next Wednesday evening,

October 28, the republicans will have a rousing rally at Platte Center. John H. MacColl, candidate for governor, Ross L. Hammond, candidate for congress, and Hon. J. E. Frick will be present and speak for republican principles.

The Columbus McKinley club, the Columbus Ladies' McKinley club and the Drum Corps will be there. A special train is to leave the U. P. depot at 6:15, and return at 11 p. m., and the fare for the round trip will be 45 cents.

—It is this year before eight o'clock Tuesday evening, Oct. 27, be sure to attend the meeting at Manssancher hall, this city, where S. C. Gray, by invitation of the Ladies' McKinley club, will address his fellow-citizens on the political issues from a business man's standpoint.

—Joseph Hengeler is a candidate for supervisor, by position, in the Fifth district. If he should happen to be elected, it is against the party nominees, there is no doubt but he would make a good official. He is one of that class of men who believe in doing right, wherever placed.

—Sometimes communities get so tired of petty thieves that they very suddenly take a notion to put a stop to their nefarious business by quick and effective means adapted to the circumstances. The thieves heretofore may well believe that the danger-point for them has been reached.

—Grace Episcopal church, Sunday Nov. 1, a. m., Saints Day—Liturgy and Holy communion, 11, with sermon, "Ought we to Pray for one Dead?" Monthly musical service, 7:30, evening prayer chanted, special music by choir; sermons, "Songs in the Night." Every-one made welcome.

—John Groteschen and Miss Matilda Wilke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilke, were married at the home of the bride's parents Thursday morning, Rev. Frank officiating. There were more than a hundred invited guests present to witness the ceremony and participate in the festivities.

—Friday night last J. M. Honahan's store on Olive street was broken into and the thieves, not content with taking goods as they came to them, hunted up the most valuable articles they could find—eight pair of ladies' fine shoes worth $3 a pair. This is about the twelfth time thieves have stolen from Mr. Honahan.

—S. C. Gray, republican candidate for state senator, and C. J. Garlow, republican candidate for county attorney, will speak at Creston Friday evening, October 30; Mr. Garlow and W. M. Cornelius will speak at Barrows, Saturday evening, October 31. Let everybody turn out and hear the truth from a republican standpoint.

—Peter Salestrom of Chicago called at THE JOURNAL office a few minutes Monday on his way to visit old friends in Walker township. He gave us a glowing account of affairs political in Illinois and assured us that McKinley would carry the state far ahead of Bryan.

The people are anxiously longing for property and good government.

—Prof. Wm. Sweeney, bandmaster of Buffalo Bill's Cowboy Band, accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Col. Cody and daughter Irma, were passengers on the fast mail Monday evening on their way to North Platte. Mr. Sweeney will join Buffalo Bill and a party from the east next month on a hunting trip to the Big Horn basin in Wyoming.

—We are informed that the hog thieves have a rather novel method of disposing of the inconvenient squeal of the hog that is being taken—they use chloroform, and Mr. Porter is so much under the influence in a short time that he is readily accomplished with out the alarming squeal of the hog giving notice to the owner that his pens are being robbed.

—Judge Kilian of the county court held that John Seipp had violated the law in regard to the sale of liquors, (sec. 21, chap. 50), and held him under bond of $100 to appear at the next term of the district court, to answer the charge, Carl Rohde being surety. The further order was to destroy the 134 kegs of beer found. It is understood that an appeal will be taken.

—James Elrod, an old soldier of Madison county, was here last week before Dr. Martyn to be examined for pension. He is an ardent populist. While in the city he was asked if he hadn't voted four years ago to be Hoke Smithed, and his answer was "yes." When asked if he was going to vote again to be Hoke Smithed, he replied, "excuse me, the doctor is waiting for me."

—We send out with today's JOURNAL two supplements containing mainly speeches of Major McKinley to visiting delegations at Canton. Among miscellaneous articles of the supplements will be found Archbishop Ireland's letter, written not as a prelate of the church, but in his private capacity as a citizen. Both supplements contain many important and interesting features.

—G. W. Turner returned home Sunday night, from his summer's sojourn with the musical department of Buffalo Bill's Wild West. The show disbanded for the winter at Mohrsville, Missouri, on Saturday. The past season has been one of the most successful financially in the history of the show. They gave exhibitions in 122 different places in 15 states, and traveled a distance of 10,000 miles.

—While the drum corps were returning from the debate at the Drinnin school house Monday evening, some hay in the bottom of the wagon caught fire, drums and drummers were flying around quite lively for about one minute, but our brave fireman, Chas. Miner heroically caught up a horse blanket and soon smothered the flames. No damage except some slightly blistered drum heads.

—In the last days of the campaign look out for roboracks of different kinds, forged speeches and letters, or other sensational matters designed to catch the unwary or influence the wavering. Republicans have the best cause in the world, their candidates are good faithful men all along the line, and there is no reason why the nominees of the party should not receive every vote of their party's adherents.

To the Voters of Platte County:

It has been a custom ("more honored in the breach than in the observance") for nominees to office in this county to come to a house to house canvass, and some of my friends have criticized me for not doing so. To you, all, I wish to state that as much as I would like to visit you, as a neighbor and friend, it has been impossible for me to do so without neglecting my office duties.

I take it for granted that the taxpayers regardless of party, who are interested in the county's affairs, will investigate for themselves and vote for those whom they believe to be best fitted for the positions they may be nominated to fill, regardless of personal solicitation or political bias. The office of county attorney is not a political one, and should you see fit to elect me to fill that office I have no political positions to offer or hold out to you, and all I can promise is to fill the office to the interest of good government and the taxpayers.

Respectfully, C. J. GARLOW.

—Mrs. J. D. Stires has just received from the publishers copies of a three-act farce entitled "Masonry Exposed" by means of the X Ray, of which she is the author. The play takes about an hour and a half for presentation, and from reviewing the work, we should consider it very good, indeed. The play is to represent the secret workings of the Masonic order, in a ludicrous manner, and is especially amusing to that fraternity.

—Harry Newman has very strong objections to thieving parties entering his cornfields and hunking backward and forward along the very best parts of the fields. Thieves who are not satisfied to take the corn rows as they come, are not entitled to very much consideration when it comes to shooting, and will probably find themselves filled with bigger shot than if they had been a little more considerate of the rights of the corn-owners.

—Ghordis Stull, an old-time resident of Columbus, but who for a number of years past has lived at Marengo, Ill., arrived in the city Wednesday at 10:45, having left his home the day before at 3:45 p. m. We believe that he still owns his old farm homestead in Polk county. Mr. Stull looks in excellent health. He gives it as his opinion that the majority for McKinley in Illinois will be something to be proud of, but he thinks it will be a close contest for governor, Algebe being shrewd and thoroughly unscrupulous.

—At Bohet Thursday evening last, C. J. Garlow made a speech of unusual length and strength to a large assembly of voters, and he was listened to with marked attention. Postmaster Davis of this city who happened to be present, was called upon for a speech and tried to excuse himself by saying that he was a democrat, but the crowd were in for another speech and Mr. Davis then gave them quite a talk in explaining how it was that as a democrat he cannot support Bryan. Thousands of democrats will vote for McKinley in the interest of prosperity and good government.

—John Wiggins has served one year as one of the supervisors for this district; he has done his full duty in every respect that we know of, and he deserves re-election. While there is small pay attached to the office (a mere nothing considering the importance of the trusts imposed), it is necessary that there be chosen to the office men who will act in the public interest. As chairman of the board Mr. Wiggins has been perfectly fair and impartial in his rulings. The board have had unusual work, and incurred unusual responsibility the past year consequent upon the shortage in the county treasury by an ex-treasurer and the complications arising in the effort to save the county whole in the matter, but through it all, Chairman Wiggins has been alert, prompt, fair and efficient, doing for the county with the least possible outlay. Mr. Wiggins is level-headed and hence his judgment in any emergency is to be relied upon as being calm and deliberate. He deserves re-election.

—The Columbus Telegram devoted a column of its space last week to a fake letter purporting to have been written at Southport, England, by George W. Francis to a Mr. John James of Howard county, South Dakota, in which it is stated that at a cotton factory in Manchester, England, the general superintendent had solicited a subscription of all the men to be sent to America—money to aid in the election of McKinley and to fight the free coinage of silver; that he had told the free coinage of silver was established in America; that they would have to pay double price for their flour, etc. That they had raised $57. The article, as gotten up by the Bryan committee and sent out by their newspapers, is calculated to mislead, but the truth of the matter is that George Francis of Pierre, S. D., denounces the free coinage of silver, and has prepared several statements relating every statement made by the alleged recipient of the letter in regard to himself. This denial is printed in the dailies of Oct. 24.

—Willard F. Beckett, who is a traveling salesman for an Omaha wholesale harness establishment, and a gentleman well known to many JOURNAL readers, has brought suit against the Rock Island Railway company for $5,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained by having been ejected from one of the defendant's trains at a little county station in Kansas. The Omaha Bee states the case as set forth in the petition: "The petitioner alleges that he is a traveling man and that he purchased a 1,000-mile ticket from the defendant last February. He also alleges that in July of this year he was a passenger on one of the defendant's regular trains, boarding the cars at Rexford and intending to go as far as Norton, both towns being in Kansas. When the conductor asked for his fare Beckett says that he tendered a portion of his mileage ticket in payment. The conductor, he alleges, refused to receive the mileage and ejected him from the train at a little station called Solides, where he was compelled to remain twenty-four hours before he could get another train. He alleges that this delay was damaging to his business and that he lost several good sales by being behind his dates."

Central Committee, Attestation: There will be a meeting of the republican county central committee in this city Thursday, October 23, at 2 o'clock, at Republican Headquarters at the Meridian hotel. By order chairman, W. A. McALLISTER.

C. J. Garlow. The republican candidate for county attorney, was born at Fairmont, Marion county, Virginia, in 1859. He came to Nebraska, locating in Platte county in 1880, and has lived here ever since, at first engaging in teaching school, at Creston, Bismark, Sherman, and in this city. For the past ten years Mr. Garlow has been practicing law, and has gained an enviable reputation in his profession. There are several qualities that go to the making of a good lawyer, among which are: The power of clear-cut analysis; good common sense applied to the case in hand and to every phase of it; tenacity of purpose that clings to a case until it is fought out to a finish. These qualities Mr. Garlow has, and are just the ones now needed in an attorney for Platte county. The office is of far more importance than people generally suppose, the county attorney being the legal adviser of all county officers, and we need a man in that office who will interpret the law just as it is, without any bias for favorites of any kind. Garlow will do this, and his so doing will save many dollars to taxpayers.

David Thomas. The republican candidate for state representative was born September 1, 1852, at Carmarthenshire, South Wales. He left that country for America on the 23rd day of April, 1872. He arrived at Columbus, Neb., May 6, 1872, and has resided in Platte county ever since, engaged in the while in farming. His first farm was a homestead of 160 acres; he has acquired altogether 1021 acres of land, and has no encumbrance on the same or indeed one dollar of indebtedness of any kind.

Mr. Thomas is blessed with a wife and six children, four sons and two daughters. With their aid, supplementing his own management he has earned his position in the world. His word is as good as his bond, and you can rely on what he tells you, politically or otherwise. Mr. Thomas is not an office-seeker; not a politician in any sense but that in which every man interested in the public welfare is a politician. His nomination by the district convention on the 23rd of September was unopposed by him, and was unanimous. Wise in deeds, when he represents you in Lincoln you can count on your work being as carefully done by him as is his own work at home.

George C. Smith. The republican candidate for representative of Platte county was born at Syracuse, New York, April 3, 1856. The family moved to Whiteside county, Illinois, and two years afterward went to Rock Island county, same state, where they resided until they moved to Nebraska in 1880, settling in Lost Creek township near Monroe, where they have since resided.

In 1884 Mr. Smith was married to Miss Lizzie Naylor, and is the happy father of three children.

Mr. Smith's father, J. R., with his brothers, are all well and very favorably known in their community as men of integrity, industrious, careful, prudent, painstaking in all their work and thoroughly alive to the best interests of township, county, state and nation.

George attended the public schools near his childhood's home, but his main training in the science and practice of thinking has been like so many of America's nobly-great men, "near Nature's heart," and among the stern realities that more or less environ all who strive upward and onward.

Mr. Smith is one of those quiet men who do not thrust themselves forward, but who take their place in the rank and file, and desire only the welfare of all, and their share of the public prosperity. No man can be elected upon the discharge of the duties of that office, sustained by the confidence of his fellow-citizens in his integrity of purpose and ability to discharge the duties of that office to such a degree as Wm. McKinley will. He will make a good as well as a great president.

In fourteen years after the close of the war of the rebellion one-sixth of the public debt was paid, the interest account was reduced to about one-half, and government notes without interest were brought to par with gold. Vote for the republican ticket.

There are few combinations of capital that foot up a greater aggregate than the silver miners represent in their mines, some $547,000,000. Of course they are not altogether unselfish in their agitation.

Real Estate Transfers.

Becher, Jaggi & Co., real estate agents, report the following real estate transfers filed in the office of the county clerk for the week ending Oct. 24, 1918.

Table with columns for name, location, and amount.

MINOR.—Friday, October 26th, after a few hours' illness, of inflammation of the bowels, Michael Mikolaczek, aged about 40 years.

The funeral took place Sunday. He leaves a wife and five children.

DIED.

The following from the Madison Chronicle is a true, unvarnished statement of a truth always recognized by republicans, and now coming to be seen by just about everybody else. Four years of adverse experience have operated as a very effective object lesson to the present generation of voters and the impression has been so deep that it seems probable this campaign will end the long-fought contest in favor of protection, and take the issue out of politics hereafter. If the election of McKinley shall succeed in doing this, it will have accomplished a work second only in importance to the preservation of the government from the armagolions of nullification and rebellion:

"There can be no prosperity in this country so long as England and other foreign countries manufacture our goods for us and our own laboring and skilled workmen are kept in enforced idleness. Give us a protective tariff high enough to keep out foreign goods and our own mechanics will be set to work to manufacture for our needs and the money question will solve itself. When there is work there is money, and when there is both work and money, the farmer finds a home market for his produce that is the best in the world. Vote for McKinley and Ross Hammond, the men who believe in keeping American workmen profitably employed rather than the workmen of some other country."

THE SOUND—money, non-partisan league of Omaha held their first meeting there last Wednesday evening. The chairman, an opening, said, among other things, that he thought they would agree with him that the election of William McKinley is now almost an assured fact, but he went on to assure them that it would be something of a catastrophe to Nebraska to see him elected but to have our state record its vote against him and for the Chicago platform and candidate. Dr. Miller, well known to many JOURNAL readers as the former and old-time able editor of the Omaha Herald, a man who perhaps did more than any other one man in the state for the settlement of the great northwest and the development of its natural resources, made a speech in which he said it was a well-known fact that he had been a democrat for many years. He felt, however, that the present financial question was of far greater importance to the voter than a strict adherence to party lines. When the silver platform was adopted in Chicago which embodied, as he considered, the principles of repudiation and anarchism, he then bade farewell to his party in the present campaign. He and hundreds of democrats in the present crisis would vote for McKinley and would also vote the straight republican ticket in the state.

"BRYAN, who is now using 'free silver' as a battle-cry, recognizing that there would be no possible show for a hearing even on free trade, is the same Bryan who rejoiced so greatly on the passage of the Wilson bill, a tariff bill which discriminated against the great staple products of the soil of the northern states and in favor of the staple products of the soil of the southern states: corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, buckwheat, potatoes and hay were fixed at an average of about 20 per cent, while rice was placed at 83 per cent; peanuts, 72 per cent; sugar, 40 per cent. The total crop of these last-named in the United States in 1895 amounted to about $28,000,000, while the cereals crop mentioned for Michigan alone, in 1895 $53,300,000, and yet the southern producers according to the
