Children, of course, they bring their own love with them when they...

—Highest market price paid for butter and eggs. A. B. CRAMER.

—Capt. Frantz is still improving and his hands of fight will be refused to see him fully recover from his ailments.

—The terms of the district court for the Sixth judicial district have been fixed at March 1, April 20, September 20.

—The case of Miss Matilda Dietrich vs. George Smith of Shelby was again continued from Friday last, thirty days.

—Always on hand, Ball Conrad & Co.'s fresh-roasted coffee. A. B. CRAMER.

—Miss Alice Turner was not able to find a train Sunday, stopping at Dunoon—the extra freight was ordered to stop here.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Garlow gave a party to a few friends Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Garlow of Grand Island.

—The paper of Mrs. J. N. Heister of this city, read at the Farmers' institute, St. Edward, was, with one other, ordered published.

—Subscribe for THE JOURNAL any day. Fifty cents will get you the paper for the next three months, $1.50 for the next year.

—Frank Benavise, three-year-old son of Joseph P. Benavise, fell Wednesday and broke his right arm near the elbow.

—Within the last week we have made arrangements so that we can furnish to our readers the Chicago Weekly Inter Ocean and Cosmopolitan Journal, when paid in advance, at $1.25. J. R. MAZZONI, Agent.

—The only fault we find with modern teachers is that most of them pronounce "and" as though spelled "a-n-d." Why this is thus I do not know; I only know because "is an." And it is rightly understood, we should say "and" instead of "and."

—Charles Wooten of the Silver Creek Times was in the city Saturday. He is a member of the legislature, and will give his subscribers a vacation of three months, regarding the fact that he is unable to do justice to both interests at the same time.

—The city council met Friday evening last, but adjourned to Friday evening of this week without transacting any other business. It is expected that the opening of streets across the railroad tracks will be the main subject for discussion at the next meeting.

—The Sunday train for Norfolk, said for Albion, didn't go out from here until Tuesday morning, snow plover having been sent out Monday to clear the tracks. The R. & M. passenger for Monday didn't reach David City, and returned to this end of the line.

—The Nebraska Veterans appear for the first time in our annals as a group. It is published at Omaha by the Veterans Publishing Co., G. W. Pabst, brother, editor. It is a neat publication and will be found a fighter for the veterans yet tarrying on this side.

—Leonard Johnson of Octavia has been delivering choultry at Lincoln, and besides has also about a hundred tons. He has an acre that is still in the ground. Ten tons an acre was about the yield this year, which netted $7.50 a ton—a pretty good crop to raise, it seems.

—The history club were entertained last Wednesday evening at the residence of L. Gerard for a New Year's celebration. An impromptu program was given each one present was called on to do something. Refreshments were served and games played, all enjoying the evening immensely.

—To the business men of Platte county and central Nebraska: The very best material, the neatest work and the prompt attention given to all orders for job printing. Don't imagine for a moment that THE JOURNAL cannot please you in goods, work or price. See us before placing your order.

—The following have been selected to represent Platte county at the Free Silver conference to be held at Lincoln, today, Wednesday: Delegates at large—John M. Gooding, O. S. Moran and W. S. Hyatt; delegates—J. S. Freeman, J. J. Sullivan, John Kelly, Henry Lubker, W. Saunders, C. E. Swallow, S. L. McCoy, J. C. Byrnes, Chris. Grunther; alternates—C. A. Beardsley, D. L. Bruen, G. W. Phillips, V. H. Weaver, B. P. Duffy, J. P. Johnson, Leander Gerrard, W. H. VanAlstine and Saml. Fleming.

—The Telegram has this to say of the proposed convention here, spoken of in last week's JOURNAL: "Mr. Fort's idea is that the people should not wait for capital to come into the state by way of the trans-Mississippi exposition, or by any other route, but should buckle in and start up factories here and there through co-operation between the farmers and town business men. Mr. Fort is a gentleman of great ability and energy, and when he tackles an enterprise he never lets up till something comes of it. If the convention is held here, the people of Columbus will see to it that our visitors are properly cared for."

—Co-operative institutions of different kinds are the order of the day, and the idea seems to be taking a new hold upon the general public. The Seward Reporter contains the following paragraph: "Prospects for the mutual fire insurance association are improving rapidly. A large number of members have been added during the past week, and more names are being put on the list daily. All the towns in the county will have been visited by the close of this week, and all will be represented in the organization. Notice of the first annual meeting will be issued very soon, as the meeting will be held as early in January as possible. Official notice of the date of the meeting will be sent to each member."

—The Seward Blade gives an account of a jeweler named Holbrook who it seems has been guilty of receiving watches to mend, and then passing them with Sam Adler, a pawnbroker of Lincoln. In speaking of the matter, the Blade further says: "There has been much complaint against Adler about the manner in which he conducts his business, much stolen property being found in his shop which he never reported to the authorities as required by law, and County Attorneys Thomas and Collins propose to make it warm for him. He was warned some time ago not to receive any more watches from Holbrook, but he goes right along doing business his own way. People who find their stolen property in Lincoln experience a good deal of trouble in getting it again, on account of the peculiar methods of the peddler, who seem to be blood everywhere all they will stand before recovering their property."

—The public school system will not accomplish all it ought until some way can be provided for the attendance of all children of school age that are physically capable of doing so. As it is now, there are thousands of boys, even in Nebraska, saying nothing about the great centers of dense population, who are growing up without the advantages which come to those who attend the public schools and who are faithfully working to prepare themselves for the duties of life. Many of these thousands are to be deprived of school privileges through no fault of their own, but because there are very many of them for whom, with an extra effort on the part of parents, guardians or the public authorities, a way might be made to secure their attendance on the free, public schools. It is a difficult problem. The state superintendent of New York proposes a state transit school, "a school which would accept rather than coerce; but coerce just the same." In any sort of bettering the weak pupils in the design until provision has been made for this class of children.

—The weather bureau at Washington has this forecast for Monday last in Nebraska: "Generally fair, preceded by local snows; colder in western portion; northerly winds." Of course, there is a very wide latitude of meaning to the words "generally" and "local," and the margin, like the robe of charity, may be sufficient to hide a host of delinquencies. We can coincide, however, with one of the particular features of the weather on Monday last, the winds were northerly.

—Sunday and Monday you could see men out in the storm in all kinds of toggery. Most of them had strings of some sort around their pants legs over the shoe tops; some had woolen hoods under the ordinary caps; those who had caps to their overcoats put them over the head and toward the front as a protection against the wind, and one man, seen, carried an umbrella, which he hid as a very good wind-break, held close, and far against the wind.

—Mr. Schurtz of Norfolk lost by fire Tuesday night of last week the most of his stock of groceries, newspapers, dry goods, notions and household articles. The fire was caused by a gas stove in the kitchen. "As to the origin of the fire it is at present wrapped in mystery, but it is thought that some of the employees must have neglected to put out a lamp in the basement, which either smoldered or burst. At 9:30 when Mr. Schurtz and his men left the store and looked up, everything was apparently all right.

—On Sunday night the barber establishment of Zinnocker & Watis was entered from the rear, a storm door being pried loose with a bar, and then the inside door evidently wrenched from its place by the same implement. Nothing was taken except 27 razors, 3 clippers, and one pair of shears. Three razors were, by order, kept in the safe, and so were not touched. A complete new outfit was immediately put in by the proprietors, who are doing first-class work, just as always.
