ITS LEGITIMATE OUTCOME.

The present legislature is burdened with a class of men whose lack of generalship and political asgacity is enough to defeat any party, however good and strong it may be. The major fraction of the supposed majority have been so busy cetting and alashing at their friends that they have permitted the republican minority to place them in many diagneting and silly attitudes. Many of the members lack the ability to comprehend the wide difference between building up and tearing down. They are saised with the cost of collecting the customs revenue at Omaha during the next fiscal year will be $5,987, and at Lincoln $1,671. In Iowa the estimate is: Council Elluffs, $435; Sioux City, $292; Des Moines, $630, and Burland tearing down. They are seized with a mania to cheapen everything, which may culminate in a law requiring all newspapers to advocate cheap farm produce, and another law to compel the people to shrivel up their stomachs, Chinese fashion, so they can exist on

THE INAUGURATION. Tomorrow noon will close the term of drover Cleveland as president of the hrase "a government of the people, by the people, for the people" is to be illustrated for another four years by a man of the people, who will be a man for the scople. Able, conscientious, thorough air and honest, he has come to his high position in a way by which any honest capable, industrious and ambitious American boy may come to public service.

Whether as a lad, a young man in the army, a young lawyer, a congressman, a povernor or a leader of his party in one of the greatest campaigns in the political history of the nation, Major McKinley has been the pride of his friends, and has had the profound respect of his political opponents.

He will make one of our very best presidents, ranking for disinterested natriotism and love of our free institu tions with Lincoln and Washington for generosity to opposing elements with Grant; for far-seeing statesman ship with such leaders as Clay, Adams

All true Americans will wish Presi dent McKinley the greatest success in the discharge of the duties of his great office, and many prayers (which are the soul's sincere desire, expressed or unterstood.") will be offered up today for the welfare of our beloved land, and the progress of the people towards true in endence and lasting prosperity.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 2.- The presisential train passed over the Ohio state ine and out of the old McKinley district at 8:40 last night. The der throngs at stations did not decrease The passengers were all well settled in their places in the first half hour, and then begrn the discussion of the evening's doings. A'l the newspap men agreed that no such crowd of Cantonians had ever been out before.

"Don't forget the workingm major," cried one man, as the presid elect mounted the train. He bowed his acknowledgements. Those about him saw he was visibly affected, and as he came from the train platform to greet his wife after the Canton farewell, his eyes were moist and voice tremulous with emotion. The Grand Army band played "Home, Sweet Home," as the train pulled out of Canton, and this was still sounding in touching refrain in Mrs. McKinley's ears as the major came to sit beside her.

Beaver Falls, New Brighton and Rochester are grouped about Beaver, Senator Quay's home, and at these points acres of people had gathered about the stations and as the presidentelect appeared there were fireworks and whistles and other demonstrations. The Pennsylvanians are no less enthustastic than the Buckeyes of McKinley's own district.

Just at midnight the train again started on its journey eastward, with the majority of the party commencing to think of retiring for the night.

CANTON, March 2.-Promptly at 6 m. yesterday the bands, military club ollected was unconstitutional and in the city hall square. Captain Harry Canton troop during the campaign, was Kuhns, his chief of staff. They soon Mr. Moore, it is claimed, will go west brought order out of chaos in the assembled multitude, and more devoted escort man never had than that which shortly before 7 o'clock marched to the McKinley home. A platoon of white gloved policemen headed the line and back of this came the Canton troop. This is an organization of nearly 100 representative citizens, organized early in the campaign to receive, escort and otherwise entertain the visiting delegates. They wore military coats, broad primmed hats, top boots light colored gauntlets, and are all well mounted and well drilled in cavalry tactics. The troop left for Washington today and will participate in the inaugural parade.

Following the troop came Canton's famous Grand Army band. This in turn was followed by the Third batalguard. This regiment was to have been honorary escort to the president-elect on the trip to Washington and from the capital station to the hotel, but the failure to secure satisfactory railroad arrangements prevented this, as well as other Ohio military organizations to join in the mangaral demonstrations. Three companies, a signal and a hospital corps, constitute the battalion. In the order named were the Canton Business Men's association, Grand Army posts, old soldiers, the First Ward Republican club, of which Major Mc-Kinley is a member, the Second Ward Republican club, other clubs and societies and unorganized citizens of Canton. Massillon and other surrounding towns.

Thus organized the column marched through the public square and up Mar-ket street hill, passing the McKinley home and then counter-marching on Market street. When the Business Men's association was opposite the Mc-Kinley gate the column halted and waited for Major and Mrs. McKinley and their attendants to enter the carriage in waiting. This carriage was drawn by four splendidly caparisoned horses and around it the members of the Canton Business Men's association stationed themselves as a guard of honor. Two mounted aides rode abreast of the carriage horses, and the business men completed the hollow square in which the carriage moved. Electric Illuminations

The McKinley arch just at the foot of Market Street hill was illuminated as darkness fell over the city, and shone resplendent as the column marched under it, going to and from the Mc Kinley house. Hundreds of colored incandescent lights sent their soft rays far along the street on either side, and made statuary, now worsted by the weather. looked backward for a last glimpee of what is now the most consp minder of the exciting campaign in Canton last fall, in which hundreds of thousands of people from all quarters participated. It will be with regret that the erasing of this structure will be viewed by Cantonians.

Along the line the carriage containing the president-elect and wife was kept in a halo of brilliant light from flambleaus emitting lurid red rays, replaced from time to time as they burned dimly. At various points along the line colored fires were also burned, and though there was no organized effort in that line, inthrough the air. ressed steadily forward on appropriation bills Monday, making such prog-ress that no further apprehension is felt as to the passage of the great fiscal measures. The District of Columbia bill was passed early in the day. The naval bill brought out a spirited debate on the price of armor plate and the eslishment of a government armor factory. This led to a very lively skirmish, in which prize fighting was denounced on all sides, and the advocates of the bill insisted that the "sickening details should be suppressed in the interest of good morals," but the bill met strenuous opposition on the ground that it would tend to establish a censorship of the press. At the end of the debate the adversaries of the measure outvoted the friends of the bill on several filibustering motions, but an agreement for a recess until 10 o'clock today put an end to hostilities.
