You can subscribe for THE JOURNAL whenever you are ready, subscription books open during all business hours, and always room and welcome for one more.

Street Commissioner From's team took a little spin Monday on upper Olive street, striking into an alley, but were stopped before any special damage was done.

Fitzpatrick's window. See it, it is worth looking at. Follow the crowd.

Frank Davis brought back with him from the south the only really comfortable hot-water bat for all conditions of men—the shell shaped—effects like a small umbrella.

O. Johnson expects to leave Sweden about the 15th of August, to return home. He went over home to visit his aged mother whom he had not seen since he was 17 years old.

J. W. Nicholson is permanently located here for the purchase and shipment of chickens. He understands the business and no doubt he will find this a good place for his business.

The home of A. Berger was quarantined last Friday for diphtheria. The three younger children Adolf, Dick and Elsie, are all stricken with the disease in a bad form but are now recovering.

Lost, Friday, the 3d, a small gold locket, set with several stones, somewhere within five blocks of the U. P. depot. Finder will please leave it at JOURNAL office and receive liberal reward.

Miss Jennie Gasser came up Monday from Omaha to visit her aunt, Mrs. L. J. Sturgeon. Miss Gasser is a denconess in the Methodist hospital at Omaha, where she has been the past year.

Standard food should now be fed to pigs and hogs to keep them healthy and make them grow. Headquarters at John Weaver's harness store. John Schmoecker, agent for Platte county, Nebraska. 14

Dennis Sullivan and Frank Wurdeman had a friendly race Sunday on their bicycles at the Fair grounds. Wurdeman ahead at the finish. George Kohler on a high-geared wheel showed a pace that was out of the ordinary.

Everybody hereabouts was well pleased with the rain last Friday morning—quiet, business-like and plenty of it. Some other parts of the country were not so fortunate as to the wind accompaniment of the rain.

The Chauntiqua assembly to be held at Crete, Neb., will be full of attraction this year; the program is replete with talent of a high order in every department. Write for particulars to Geo. W. Baldwin, secretary, Crete, Neb.

Judge A. Hummrich leaps gaily upon the steps of an omnibus, and cries cheerfully to the conductor: "Is the ark full?" "No, sir," replies the jovial conductor, "we have kept a seat for you. What ho! within there! Room for the monkey."

Fred Rollin, who was badly burned by the explosion of a home-made cannon on the 4th, is recovering rapidly from his severe wounds. His face was so badly burned as to cause fear of his losing his eye sight, but he is now able to be out and around, for which he is very thankful, of course.

We advise farmers who have corn fields near their hog pens to plant corn of rye in among the corn. Make an Y drag narrow enough to go between the rows, with which to cover the rye, and you will be well paid for your trouble.

Misses Hattie Baker and Mazie Elliott leave today (Wednesday) for Denver, Colorado Springs and Salt Lake City for an extended visit. If a favorable location is found the ladies will start a dressmaking establishment and remain a year or more.

Simple as it sounds, the doing one's best at each moment is all there is to life. There is no conceivable barrier of circumstances that the power of thought will not batter down and annihilate. This it is to co-operate with the divine purpose.—Lillian Whiting.

A. J. Mokler, formerly editor of the Platte Center Signal, is again engaged in his old-time calling, having purchased the Natrona Tribune at Casper, Wyoming. Both of Casper's papers are now in the hands of former Nebraska publishers.—Printers Auxiliary.

The annual report from the city school superintendent of Fremont shows that the dropping of the commercial course in the High school was the cause of losing twenty students. The sum of $107 was collected from non-resident pupils the past year in Fremont.

Mortgage Sale.—A new, 6-hole Sandwich corn-sheller and horse-power for sale; has only been used a few days. Sale at Ernst & Schwarz' store, at 2 o'clock p. m., July 24th, 1897. See C. J. Garlow, attorney for Sandwich Mfg. Co.

John Keating, baggage master at the U. P. depot, has been called to Denver to help the force there take care of the extra amount of business they are having. Mr. Keating is known all along the line as an expert in his branch. Dennis Sullivan takes his place during his absence.

"My Kingdom for a horse," exclaimed King Richard. In modern times he would have said "My Kingdom for an IDEAL wheel," as in case of puncture he would have known that all the tools he needed to take along, nature had supplied him by having them grown on the ends of his arms. 14

Cullins Brothers' show exhibits here tomorrow (Thursday). It is advertised to be better than a circus. Brass band and orchestra. The funniest comedy. The greatest artists. The most acts. The best performances. One ticket admits to all. Two grand exhibitions daily. Admission 10 cents. 14

Daughters of Rebekah installed their new officers Monday evening of last week at the Old Fellows hall. After installation, refreshments were served and a social time spent. Mrs. W. R. Nokes is now noble grand; Mrs. R. Jenkins, vice grand; Mrs. George Fairchild, secretary; Mrs. Dussell, treasurer.

Dan's Review for April says "the analysis of failures for the half year shows that commercial failures were smaller than last year by nearly $6,000,000. The trading failures are smaller than in the first half of the three previous years." If that doesn't demonstrate a difference, what does?

J. E. North came up from Omaha Saturday and visited with the Schreiders, Evans, Pollocks and Chambers at their camp on Shell creek over Sunday. Saturday night large party of young folks from the city enjoyed the hospitality of the camp. They pulled up stakes Monday after about two weeks outing.

D. F. Davis returned last Tuesday evening from his trip abroad. He is not very favorably impressed with that country, as a rule. He thinks if people here were as economical as they are there, everybody would get rich. As a rule, notwithstanding their abundance of fuel, etc., it is easier to make a living here than it is there.

Mrs. F. S. Thompson of Albion, who was brought here to the Sisters' hospital for treatment some two weeks ago, submitted to an operation the first of July, but did not have sufficient strength to recover from it and died Thursday night. The remains were taken to Albion Friday and laid to rest. Funeral services were conducted at the family residence. Deceased leaves a husband, but no children.

On Sunday last, at the Fair grounds a contest at base ball between Ellis Brown's nine and that of Jimmy Jones, resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 17 to 15. The two teams played a very exciting game, the features of which were the home runs by Jones and Simon, the two base hits by Lohr, and the safe hitting by Nelson. The Jones nine are ready to play any amateur kid team in the state.

Mrs. O. A. Turk, (daughter of Mrs. L. E. Stewart living northeast of the city), died at her home in Mt. Pleasant, Wash., July 4th, of consumption, leaving a husband and one child to mourn their loss. Mrs. Turk will be remembered here as Miss Louise Stewart, who was married about two years ago. Mrs. Turk had many friends here and around Silver Creek who will sympathize with the bereaved relatives.

Columbus people who heard Major Ben Butterworth speak here during the campaign last fall formed a very favorable opinion of him and will not be surprised to hear of improvements in the affairs of the office to which President McKinley called him.—commissioner of patents. He recently disbanded from practice before the patent office eight attorneys for corrupt practices, and he has ordered John Wedderburn & Co. of Washington to show why they should not be debarred for deceiving their clients.

A special train of twenty-two cars of fat cattle owned by Bancroft and McGeehee, ranchmen near Madison, passed through Monday morning for the Chicago market. East of Madison, on what was formerly known as the Township Farm of thirty-six sections owned by Walter Craig and Ephraim Clark, (Harrison county, Ohio, men well known to many JOURNAL readers) there are now a number of large ranches with fine buildings, large acreage under high cultivation, with special facilities for raising and fattening cattle and hogs, and quite a good deal of business comes to Madison in the way of selling supplies for these farms.

The Whitmore Rifles went into camp near Gottschalk's on Saturday evening to Sunday noon. We understand several stragglers from camp were ordered under arrest and put into the guardhouse for a short time. Really, the soldier's life, faithfully and conscientiously lived, is about as effective discipline as young lads get, after the mother's gentle lessons are a voice of the past.

Johnnie, the 7-year-old son of John Obeggen, while swimming in the Loup river south of town last Sunday with other boys, cut his right knee badly on a piece of glass or other material, from which he will be laid up for several weeks. This ought to be a warning to other boys to be careful where they swim in the river as in many places the river bed is full of old tin, broken glass and iron which might give some serious wounds.

Just because Rev. Hayes at the commencement exercises prayed that the Lord would "bless all the instrumentalities used in furtherance of education," one of his auditors says that he prayed for the saloons, because they pay a license that goes to the support of the schools. It might be answered on the other hand that the object of the law is to limit the number of saloons and to have them help provide means of educating the youth as to the evil effects of intoxicants and narcotics.

There will be a band carnival and contest in the city, at the Higgins grove, Saturday, July 31st and August 1st. There will be bicycle races, trapeze performance, ball games each afternoon, balloon ascension, and bowling alley. A grand parade through the principal streets of Columbus by one hundred musicians, under the direction of Prof. J. P. McFann. No intoxicating liquors allowed on the grounds. Admission free both days. No admission fee will be charged into the grounds.

We learn that Editor Gruenther of Platte Center is talked of as a candidate for sheriff. So is John Byrnes. So is R. Y. Lisco. So is Mr. Wilson of Platte Center, a former republican. It is plain to be seen that the populists, if they fuse with the democrats, will do so on the plea of free silver, but really, of course, to give them a fighting chance to secure the offices. We think, however, that every day the desire of fusion on the part of the great body of Platte county democrats, grows perceptibly less.

The Bee's Duncan correspondent gives the following concerning the storm at that place last Friday:

"Over six inches of water fell in half an hour. Grain and corn on low lands adjacent to the hills were washed down by the flood and covered with mud. Grain and corn are badly blown down and a narrow strip of which Duncan was the center, was badly pounded by hail. Farms about the center all right, however, as it was getting very dry and crops would soon have dried up with-out rain, and as it is what is left has plenty of moisture, as it continued to rain steadily all night. Several small buildings were turned upside down by the wind, which was very violent for a short time."

The great international questions of the hour, and American questions of a political or economic character, are discussed in the editorial department of the American Monthly Review of Reviews for July. The project of Hawaiian annexation claims precedence in the review of current topics, entitled "The Progress of the World." The editor also comments on the present status of the Cuban question, on the situation in Spanish politics, and on the trade relations with the South American republics. This department deals, too, with the problems resulting from the Tarocco-Grecian war and other grave complications in the Orient. In domestic matters, the proposed currency commission and the labor conditions of the country receive special attention.

Oh, yes, simply because a man holds a position at Lincoln does not disqualify him from taking part in political affairs in the county of his former residence. The country is wide, there is room for a good many different kinds of people, and when it comes to working for the public, we must allow individuals to exercise the ordinary rights. The particular thing that is objectionable is that there are so many men who assume to dictate political action, and use any official prestige they may have to further their own individual ends. When this is done, to the public hurt, others have a right to call a halt. So long as there is no injury to public interests, there is not so much concern by the public, but they know the facts and keep up a thinking all the while.

With an article headed "American Patriotic Societies" in the June Trans-Mississippi, a monthly magazine published in Omaha, there is a very good portrait of Rev. Goodale. We copy the following in reference to him: "It is interesting to note that the Nebraska society has two members whose fathers rendered actual service in the cause of independence. He graduated from Union college in New York state in 1836. He was one of the founders of Psi Upsilon, a select college fraternity. He came to Nebraska in 1865 as Professor of Natural Science at Brownell Hall, Omaha. He is a member of the Nebraska Society of the Sons of the American Revolution whose father enlisted four times and first entered service as a flier at the age of fifteen."

All tax-payers of the city are interested in the ordinance recently passed by the city council appropriating money to defray the necessary expenses and liabilities of the city for the current fiscal year. The total sum is $18,190.35. The items above a thousand dollars are: policemen $2,100; protection against fire $1,200; sprinkling lights, $1,200; lighting same, $1,400; grading and repairing streets, etc., $1,800; waterworks,—fuel, repairs and running expenses, $1,050.08. The interest charge is on $37,500 water bonds, 2.25; on $30,000 Loupe river bridge bonds, $1,800; on $8,000 Platte river bridge bonds, $480. THE JOURNAL has always favored public improvements when needed and justified by the condition of the finances, but insists that the guiding principle in the expenditure of public funds is "get the worth of the money."

It will be seen that the total sum here mentioned is about six dollars each for every man, woman and child in the city, and while it may all be used, it would be well to keep a close watch at every approach to the treasury, and save as much of it as is consistent with the public welfare.

Personal Mention.

J. D. Stires was in Cedar Rapids last Friday.

I. L. Albert returned Saturday from a trip to Minnesota.

Monte and Fern Theobald of Wayne are visiting Miss May King.

Miss Gertrude Whitmoyer went to Genoa Monday to visit friends.

Miss Sarah Fitzpatrick is at Rogers visiting friends for a few weeks.

School board.

The board met in adjourned session Thursday, all present.

The bill of Joseph Flynn for $5 was allowed and warrant ordered drawn.

President Galley announced the following standing committees for the ensuing year:

Teachers, etc.—Gondring, Hockenberger and Becher.

Supplies—Gluck, Scott and Galley.

Buildings, etc.—Scott, Gluck and Becher.

Finance—Hockenberger, Becher and Galley.

Library—Becher, Hockenberger and Gondring.

To Gondring was referred the treasurer's bond to examine as to form, and if in his opinion correct, to turn over to committee on finance.

Galley suggested that it was a good plan, each year to select one of the buildings for making special improvements needed, so that the burden would not fall in any one year. Last year, it was the Third ward building, and this year, it might be the First. It would be well for the committee on buildings to examine closely the building and suggest necessary repairs.

It was thought best that the Text-book committee examine books on hand, and order the needed additions in bulk.

Adjourned to July 22.

Last Wednesday we had occasion to visit Madison on business, and found that burg enjoying their share of the prosperity that is evidently meaning to stay. The crops between here and there are among the best we have ever seen. There are not many portions of the globe where nature is making a finer showing just now, and Nebraska may well feel grateful because their lines have fallen to them in pleasant places. The evidence of returning prosperity are to be seen everywhere. No one person is making any great improvement, but nearly every one is doing something to add to the value of their property, and this brings work to mechanics, and business to the dealers. A call at the offices of the Star and Chronicle, showed that our newspaper friends are having their share of prosperity.

We hear a pretty good story illustrative of a phase of "business" that has been altogether too common in some parts of the country. A dealer had been shipping eggs to a commission merchant, but he thought he had not been treated fairly, and so he set his wits working to evolve a scheme whereby to sit down on the "hogs." He shipped some eggs and followed the shipment to the house, followed it close enough to get there at the same time. They didn't know him. He wanted to buy a lot of eggs and did buy, getting his own shipment, along with others. He went home and in a few days received their statement of the sale of his eggs at 9 cents a dozen. He had paid 12. He confronted them with a statement of this sale of 25 per cent of the sale, and they were anxious at once to correct the "mistake."

A few days ago a gentleman remarked "I am more and more convinced every day of my life that we are becoming a nation of growers." Indeed there is more truth than poetry in the saying, for we grow at the weather if it is too hot and we grow if it is too cold; we grow if it is wet and we grow if it is dry. We complain of our preachers and we grumble at our school teachers. We curse our law makers if they enact certain measures and we denounce them if they don't. We complain of poor business and we fret when we are rushed. We denounce the newspapers when they print all the bad news about us and we bring railing accusations against them when they don't print something sensational about somebody else and so on through the whole category. The world, however, would be much better, individuals and families happier and there would often times be sunshine where there is now shadow if we would all stop this nonsensical growing.—Ex.

DIED.

CHATELAIN.—Saturday morning, July 10th, at 8:30, Clarence, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Chatfield.

Services were held at the residence east of the city at 1 o'clock Sunday last, Rev. Mickel of the Methodist church preaching the sermon. The body was then taken to its final resting place for burial—the Bellwood cemetery. The manner of the young lad's death was such as to elicit the sympathy of all for the stricken parents. Clarence had been used to walking after the cows and driving them up in the evening, but on Thursday evening last, he had been helping drive some horses to Albert Steuiger's, with the expectation of going with the men the next day taking the horseback to pasture, and being on horseback, thought he would go and bring up the cows, and so remarked to his younger brother Oliver, who opened the gate for him and told him he would stay there till he came back. Directly, Oliver noticed the riderless horse coming towards the gate, and ran down to where Clarence lay, then noticing for the first time that something was wrong. The father was notified, and taking the lad in his arms, in Harry Clark's buggy he was taken home—to the place formerly owned by Mr. Finney. Mrs. Evans, Martyn & Geor were called in and dressed the wounds—the left shoulder and elbow and breast being considerably mangled. The fatal wound, however, was a severe fracture of the back part of the skull on the left side, being cracked to the base. His mother asked him if he wished a drink and he answered "yes." If so, to put his arms around her neck and lift himself up, but he could not tell how the accident happened, and this was all he said. It is thought that the horse in chasing flies must have thrown the boy off on one side, leaving his foot in the stirrup, and then tramped him. Had the horse been shod, the boy would doubtless have been much more bruised than he was. The physicians had no hopes of him from the first, and the crisis, owing to the boy's strong constitution, was delayed thirty-six hours. Clarence was born August 12, 1882. He was a lad of many excellent qualities, and will be sincerely mourned by all his acquaintances. To his family, only Divine help and consolation can be of service in their time of mourning. Surely, Life must be the great fact of the universe. If so, it necessarily must be that what we call death is transition from one state of existence to another. Let us believe that our loved ones, who have disappeared from our mortal sight here
