- The question of official bonds has become very interesting to the general public because of the numerous and large defalcations of the last few years. Individuals have become quite averse to signing official bonds, and the tendency is to let the security companies take these risks. We notice that last week the Fidelity and Deposit company of Maryland paid the $100,000 bond which it gave to insure the city of San Francisco against loss to ex-Treasurer Wid ber. This is said to be the heaviest bond ever paid in this country by any surety company, but it was not paid without a legal test case, the company contending that the city officials had not properly counted the cash. The court held that the law in question was for the protection of the public and not of the bondsmen. Some of our citizens who have been losers on official and other bonds. have declared themselves done with all that kind of business, and there is little wonder that they feel so, when they had anxiety and financial loss for their share. THE JOURNAL believes that the tax paying public will find it to their interest to have bonds furnished by security companies, as they are better equipped for preventing losses, and for watching officials, and in case of defalcation, the public are less lenient with a company as bondsmen, and get more sharply af ter the balance. -An exchange calls attention to th

Bingham o Cadiz, now 85 years old, is glad to accept the relief of a private pension bill grant-ing him $25 a month, or illustrating the unprofitablences of a political caree Mr. Bingham served at least sixteen years in congress, was appointed judge advocate with the rank of major by President Lincoln, who also appointed him United States solicitor for the court of claims. President Grant appointed him minister to Japan, where for twelve years, at a large salary, he served his country in a distinguished manner not only gaining the affection of that people, but gaining for this country the gratitude of the Japanece. Now, for many years, Mr. Bingham has been at his old home, and in his old age, has little of this world's goods to call his own. One of the really great men of damental law of the land,-he has been mindful of the princicles of liberty, and the good of his countrymen, rather than individual wealth.
