The American School at Rome has recently made a valuable contribution to the study of classical art by having executed the first casts ever made from the splendid monument of antiquity Trajan's Triumphal Arch at Benevento An article, reproducing some of the fine photographs of these subjects, has been written by Prof. Frothingham of Princeton, and will appear in the October Century. Prof. Frothingham says: "It is amusing to see how many theories are overturned by the arch. He declares that "the skill and pictursqueness of composition, the dramatis quality of single figures, and especially what we can only term their life, are beyond anything done in sculpture since the altar at Pergamon."

Fertilizing is done as for other crops, and in such cases barn-yard manure is preferable to any other kind. Nitrate of soda is used to some extent, as are also lime and gypsum. The seed for the early crop is usually sown in hot beds during the first half of March. If one has a greenhouse of course this may be used for starting the plants. The advice is given to cover the seed very lightly, say a sixteenth of an inch, and to keep the ground moist till the plants have obtained a good start. One writer says cover the top of the ground with paper or boards till the seeds sprout.

For the crop that is expected to ripen late in the fall the seed may be sown out of dccrs almost any time in spring previous to June.
