Morality is the object of government. We want a state of things in which crime will not pay, which allows every man the largest liberty compatible with the liberty of every other man.—Emerson. Happiness is from within, not from without; a person may hunt the world over in vain, but at last find happiness as the old woman did the spectacles which she had lost, on her own nose.—Josh Billings.

The John F. Stowe Uncle Tom's Cabin that is to appear at the opera house, Feb. 28, is, without doubt, the largest and best on the road. They carry forty people, an immense quantity of special scenery, many new and novel features, including the thrilling and inspiring American military spectacle, during which a reproduced the blowing up of the battleship "Maine." A grand cake walk. The animated song sheet. Two quartettes. Magnificent scenery. Wonderful mechanical effects. Acting dogs, etc. All under the personal direction of Mr. John F. Stowe, a nephew of the celebrated authoress, Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe. 1t

Considerable excitement prevails about five miles southeast of Rising City. A few days ago a horse of ex-Representative Dave Hamilton was seized with fits of coughing, at the same time frothing at the mouth and appearing in great misery. The next morning the horse was found dead. Soon afterwards another horse was taken the same way and died in a day or two. Then a neighbor's cow had the same symptoms as the horses and soon died. Soon it was found that a dog of Mrs. A. Lomo had hydrophobia. It is supposed that the dog had bitten the cow and the horses and inoculated them, thus causing their death. No person has been bitten by a dog, so far as known, but all dogs found from home are being shot.—Bellwood Gazette.

I. Gluck tells us that Mr. Newman, his son-in-law, had quite an experience lately in Chicago. He is a grocer, and in the regular course of business one day, a negro came and placed an order for twenty-five dollars' worth of groceries to be delivered at a certain hotel, naming it. Mr. Newman, coming in while the order was being filled, thought there was something peculiar about it, to say the least, and so went along with the delivery man, but just as they drove in with the groceries at one end of the hotel alley policeman came in from the other end and nabbed three negroes that they had been on the track of for some time as "crooks," one of them being the negro that had ordered the groceries. Mr. Newman and the police had not communicated with each other.

Many Seward people mourn the loss of their entire crop of house plants and flowers. Many have also lost all the canned fruits and vegetables they had stored away in their cellars. The long continued and intense cold penetrated many of the best cellars in town, and for the first time everything in them was frozen. Many people in moderate circumstances will feel the loss of their fruit and vegetables, as they were a good part of their living.... We hear a good deal of complaint the past few days about fruit trees being injured by the extreme cold weather. The branches and bodies of many trees have burst open from the hard freezing, some trees having long splits in them from this cause. The long continued extreme cold froze the sap, resulting in the bursting of the wood. Such a thing has never been known here before, and the prospect for fruit this year is certainly not very flattering.—Seward Blade.

S. E. Marty of this city has received word that his nephew, Fred Marty, aged 28 years, who, with his wife Agnes, and baby Edwin, fifteen months old, perished in the destruction by fire February 14, of Arlington flats, corner Forts first and Grand boulevard, Chicago. All hope of finding them has been given up. Twenty families occupied the building, which had long been considered a fire trap. There was only one exit and no fire escape, and it was a wonder that nearly all the occupants did not perish. One woman said she met a man in a hall-way, bearing a female form in his arms, and who was evidently in a dazed condition, and it is supposed that this was Mr. Marty. Shortly afterwards there were several explosions, shaking the building, precipitating the roof through the floors below, and all into the basement. Watches belonging to the unfortunate man and wife, were found, but no traces of their bodies Mr. Marty visited his nephew here several years ago.

In the habeas corpus proceedings of Frank Fryson, who is charged with being a fugitive from justice, Judge Baker of Omaha announced a doctrine from the bench, radically different from that of Judge Scott in the Claus Hubbard case. The Bee says: "Judge Scott declared that a policeman has no authority to arrest without a warrant, and that the party arrested has a right to defend his liberty, even to the extreme of shooting the officer. Judge Baker holds that a policeman has full authority to arrest without any warrant where the suspicion is a reasonable one. He uses the illustration of an incendiary fire just started from which a man is seen running away. The police officer arrests him, naturally suspecting the man of having fired the building, but it turns out that the person arrested was simply running after a doctor and had no connection with the fire whatsoever. The policeman, Judge Baker says, was justified in making the arrest under the circumstances. However, the court concedes that where the party arrested is innocent, and enjoy some of the property that exists in the northeastern corner of the state.—Lincoln Journal.

The Omaha World-Herald's Year Book and Quarterly Review for 1939 is on our table, and is one of the very best of its kind that we have seen—a veritable cyclopedia of statistics and history, price 25 cents. To give the index alone would take several columns of THE JOURNAL and there are many, very many things in it that cannot be found in most cyclopedias.

If you have important business projects in hand, keep them to yourself, at most, limit the knowledge of them to the few trustworthy friends on whose discretion you can rely, and whose advice and assistance you may need. There are few successful business men who do not make this an inflexible rule in their operations. It saves them infinite trouble, and is one of the secrets of their success.

The farmer's problem is thus very neatly stated by an experienced tiller of the soil: "The object of the farmer should be to raise, from a given extent of land, the largest quantity of the most valuable produce at the least cost, in the shortest period of time, and with least permanent injury to the soil. If you can better that, let us hear from you."

Henry Hewitt says that in his neighborhood there have been quite a number of losses of cattle from the disease called bluetongue; some farmers losing 8 or 10 a week, sometimes 3 or 4 a day. He has helped vaccinate during the winter 200 head, and the remedy, very easily applied, is very effective, not a single animal being lost, when three days elapsed between vaccination and exposure.

The Cecilia club entertained the musical department of the women's club Friday afternoon at the home of L. Gerrard. The guessing the portraits of great musicians took up most of the afternoon, Mrs. McAllister winning the first prize, a musical booklet, while Mrs. Heintz received the second prize, a bust statue of Liszt. Refreshments were served and all declared they had spent a most enjoyable afternoon.

David Thomas of Postville was in the city Monday on his return from Omaha, where he had been on the market Saturday last with a car load of fat hogs, getting the top of the market for that day, $35.75, of the seventy cars there which were in attendance did not buy because they thought the prices high, but when people are in condition to take advantage of the discount rate for cash, what they give is a fair indication of actual values.

There is a false report out in regard to the case of G. W. Hulst against E. M. Sparhawk. It seems that G. W., once upon a time, not on a Sunday, while on his way to the Haney place, did some hunting on the public highway through Mr. Sparhawk's farm, and E. M. had him before a court in Butler county for trespass, the suit going in favor of Hulst. The latter brought suit here against Sparhawk alleging malicious prosecution, asking damages in the sum of $500. The jury awarded him $10 damage. The costs of suit here amounted to $37.38, and not to $100, as has been reported. No appeal.

The suggestion that the Burlington may have a hand in the recent purchase of the old roadbed between Norfolk and Yankton, and may have in contemplation an extension from Columbus or Schuyler to South Dakota, is particularly grateful to the people of Lincoln. If such a road is built it will give this city exactly the same mileage to Omaha, Nebraska, via the new line, as Omaha, whereas a new line to the north from the metropolis would put us at a considerable disadvantage. The Burlington has struck out boldly into northern and northwestern Nebraska in the past, and there seems to be no good reason why it cannot extend a feeder toward the north, and enjoy some of the prosperity that exists in the northeastern corner of the state.—Lincoln Journal.

THE NOOKIES' Mask - Ball. TALKS PLAYS THIS Wednesday Evening. Big Time! Lots of Fun.

In the Omaha Bee of Thursday, February 6, is a long list of lands and lots in Platte as well as other counties of the state that are for sale under a mortgage foreclosure against the Union Pacific railroad, the sale to be at Omaha, Douglas county, Monday, March 6, at 10 o'clock. There has been considerable anxiety on the part of land and lot owners taking title under the Union Pacific company, and several attorneys have passed over the line making offers of compromise in cases where there is a shadow of a claim. Those interested might be benefitted by seeing the list. This is our only reason for calling attention to the notice in the Bee.

An ardent gold standard man has this to relate. There were two brothers, twins, who greatly resembled each other, so that even their most intimate acquaintances had difficulty sometimes in distinguishing between them. One of these was sheriff of a county, and during the term of his office, his twin brother went crazy, and it became his duty to convey him to the asylum. On arrival, the authorities were in a quandary, and sent a message of inquiry to the county authorities, to this effect: "There are two men here that look exactly alike; one of them is continually talking about building a direct line of railroad to the moon, the other is continually talking about 16 to 1. Which one do we keep?"

A special telegram to the dailies, under date of Thursday last, will be more or less interesting to JOURNAL readers, acquainted with the officials mentioned: The State Industrial school has a double headed management. The newly appointed superintendent, J. C. Sprecher, accompanied by ex-Senator J. N. Campbell of Fullerton as assistant superintendent and C. C. Carrig of Platte Center as book-keeper, went out to the school to assume their duties. Mr. Hoxie was down in Kearney, but on his return Mr. Sprecher presented his commission from Governor Poynter and asked that the institution be turned over to him as the legally qualified superintendent. There was no hand-shaking reception and the temperature of last Sunday was warm compared with the greeting he received. Superintendent Hoxie informed him that he would give his decision later on and paid no further attention to him. He was not asked to dinner, but one of the employees took compassion on the party and fed them. After dinner Mr. Sprecher requested an answer, when he was informed that the institution would not be turned over. What course Mr. Sprecher will pursue has not been made public. He insists that he is the rightful superintendent. He has telephoned the governor for instructions and is waiting his orders. It is not learned which of the two officials the subordinate officers and the employes will obey. Mr. Hoxie claims that the governor has no right to remove him, except for cause, and will not give up the position until charges are preferred and substantiated.
