After studying music here, she completed the course of the State University at Lincoln, graduating in both piano and voice at the same time, taking the musical course in three years. May 6, 1898, Miss Galley gave her graduating recital, rendering the entire program alone. She was the first student in the conservatory to graduate in both piano and voice. She is invaluable in her services in the Congregational choir, both as organist and contralto soloist. She is also the leader of the Cecilian club, a society of young ladies, who devote one evening a week to music.
