"Commenting upon our suggestion of the name of Judge Broady for the supreme bench, the Papillion Times says, Such talk as the above is calculated to make democrats young again. The Times loves Judge Broady as a man, and recognizes his acknowledged ability, but we believe that Senator Gondring, of Platte county, would be about the proper pattern for a democratic Moses this fall."

All right in every way, except that Platte county has already one of the three members of the supreme bench Sullivan) for four or five years to come. The southern and eastern portion of the state has no representation and has not had on the bench for years, and by reason of fitness and location Judge appears, it will be seen, in both lists.--Broady's name we believe to be the best that can be suggested. Furthermore, the Columbus Telegram, published at Senator Gondring's home, announces the ultimatum "that Platte county is entitled to one of the places on the judicial ticket" in this district, which it can hardly expect with fusion nominations (naturally Hollenbeck and Grimi son.) We are satisfied that Platte coun ty doesn't want the earth. Is Platte county for more fusion, or not, after re-ligiously scanning the returns, "before and after taking?"

Populism.

The party of fusion, populism and confusion in Nebraska and throughout the United States is made up, as a rule, of anostates from the principles of good government and common sense who have become the idolators of rotund rant and vociferation.

CHANCELLOR MACLEAN has decided to accept a call to the university of Iowa. Several reasons are assigned for this, two of the prominent ones being that the Iowa salary is $7,000, the Nebraska $5,000; the other that his action is due mainly to the annovances and persecutions of a coterie of populist politicians. It seems that the chancellor was instrumental in compelling H. K. Wolfe (son of Uncle Jake), to quit mixing socialism with his philosophical teachings as a professor and finally to step down and out, and ever since Uncle Jake is after the chancellor.

The Four Greatest Poets. Who are the four greatest poets of the world? The question was one, we gather from Sir Edward Hamilton's monograph, which used to exercise Mr. Gladstone. About the first three places indeed he believed that there could be no reasonable question. They must be assigned to Homer, Dante and Shakespeare. But about the fourth place Mr. Gladstone found geat difficulty. He considered that there were-four competitors-Eschylus, Virgil, Milton and Goethe. We wonder how many of our readers would at a first apess select Mr. Gladstone's final choice? It was Goethe. Who, in recent days, have been the greatest masters of English? This was another question which Mr. Gladstone was fond of considering. He decided in favor of two as greater than all others-Cardinal Newman and Mr. Ruskin. It is interesting to recall the fact that Mr. Morley, in a lecture, answered the same question. According to him, the great masters of English in our generation have been three-Carlyle, Macaulay and Mr. Ruskin. The last named alone

The home-coming of this gallant regiment is such a notable event is history of our state as to call for official recognition and for such a demonstration of welcome upon their return as will fitly commemorate their splendic courage and fortitude. As chief executive of the state, and i bedience to the dictates of my own welcome which the parple have already prepared in their bearts for our returnheroes shall take shape in an organzed and concerted movement and that such a demonstration be arranged as will give ample proof to the world that Nebraska appreciates her noble sons who have by their valorous deeds made her name famous throughout the world.
