The Day at Humphrey.

After weeks of advertising that Bryan and "Coin" Harvey would speak at Humphrey, the fusion forces succeeded in getting a large crowd into that thrif ty, bustling business center-a crowd estimated at 3,000 to 6,000. Some re publicans who had never seen or heard Bryan, out of curiosity, were present Others came to hear Harvey on the sil ver question, but he was not there, and they were disappointed.

Humphrey had prepared right royally to entertain their guests for the day; it from a tack to a twenty-penny spike, ten is safe to say that all who had the money to spend had plenty to eat and drink.

1,800 people had been erected for the speaking, and a stand in the middle of the street near by for the bands present from Creston, Newman Grove, Colum-Humphrey, and they added greatly to the enjoyment of the day.

All the formalities on such occasion were duly observed. This was about the first indication of why such great efforts had been made for a big gathering here More kicking in Platte county among the democrats than in any other part of the state, said a prominent populist of Lincoln. Mr. Thompson enlarged upon his theme and claimed that fusion had brought to the combined forces several of the offices, naming those held by Holcomb, Allen, Maxwell, Robison and Sullivan.
