J. STERLING MORTON has dug up letter by W. J. Bryan, in which he says: "I assure you that it is the money that is in the office, not the honor that attracts me." A fac simile is published in the Conservative, the Bee and Lincoln Journal. The importance of the publication is not very apparent except that Mr. Bryan had denied ever writing such a letter-strenuously and continually denied it, and then J. Sterling simply published it. Mr. Bryan had just forgotten about writing it.

THERE has recently been a mining re vival at Dodgeville, Wisconsin, to which the Chronicle gives a column of space There are fifteen mines now operating within a radius of three miles of the court house, and at least five more will be opened up within the next two weeks. About $3.50 a day per man is the product. The old shafts used by the early inhabitants are cleaned up and work started where they ended. The advanced price of ore is the reason of the revival. Years ago, only lead ore was taken out, now the principal mining is done for blackiack. From all over the country, indications are that mining interests in all lines, are being closely looked after.

Ir has been but a very few years when almost the whole cry against the republican party was directed towards the overthrow of the policy of tariff and reciprocity, and the substitution of free trade. The country did really have a little taste of what they might expect to continue for all time under that line of policy, but that taste was more than sufficient to satisfy the thinking people -a little of it, like rancid butter, went a good ways, and really there is no further question in that direction. HOLCOMB'S HOUSE RENT.

20fficial Record Showing the Facts

stitutional appropriation for the payment of his private house rent, but by the use of padded vouchers he took from the state treasury almost double the amount of money that the house rent actually cost. It takes no argument to embetantiate this. The records are the best evidence. When the legislature of 1893 made house-rent appropriation for Governor Crounse, the last Republican governor, it was promptly vetoed. Crounse in his message declared it unconstitutional. and said the legislature had no power to increase the salary or perquisites of any state officer.

Governor Holcomb had no such regard for the constitution or the law. He regarded the law as "a farce and a sham." as his sworn testimony later disclosed. He was glad to take the houserent appropriation, and he intended to make as much as possible out of it. The records show that for the first six months after the appropriation was available in 1893, Holcomb lived in a house belonging to A. C. Crandall. There is no evidence of the actual amount paid Crandall for the rent, but the vouchers drawn show that for each quarter the governor drew $180 in advance. He had Crandall sign the On the 1st of October Holcomb rented house from Mrs. Gould at the rate of $30 per month. And yet the records show that for the quarter ending Jan. 1, 1896, he drew in advance $180 for "house rent." The date of this voucher is Sept. 30, 1895. The next voucher drawn was on March 3, 1896, when Holcomb took $350 all in a lump, the voucher saying it was for "house rent," but did not say what period of time it covered. This was the case with all future vouchers, an adroit effort having been made to cover up the misappropriation or steal. The record of all the vouchers drawn, as shown by the books in the auditor's office is a

The sworn evidence given by Mrs. Gould shows how much was paid for the house which Holcomb rented of her on the 1st of October, 1895, and which he still occupies. She testified before and investigating committee as follows:

A. Yes, sir.
Here followed a number of questions reating to the rental value of property in the testimony resumed as follows:

Q. What year was it with reference to his being elected governor? Do you know the year that you rented it to him? A. Why, I am not positive when the rent began, but I think it was in October, 1895; I couldn't swear to that. I hadn't only 15 minutes to get ready in and I hadn't much time to look anything up. I think it was October, 1895, he first rented

Q. In collecting the rent, Mrs. Gould, to whom was it paid?
A. It was usually paid to me, but to Mr. Gould when he was at home. Q. Who paid it to you?

A. The governor.
Q. How did he pay it to you, by check times in check or draft.

Q. Were you ever paid by warrant from the state? Dil the state pay you? Q. It was always paid either by money

Yes, sir.
Was it paid monthly or quarterly? In advance? Not always. never was paid right at the day.

Q. Did you collect it by going after it

r was it brought to the house?

A. He usually brought it to me. The legislative investigation committee, before which this evidence was given, tried to get Holcomb to testify. He refused to come forward and explain himself, for the good reason that no explanation was possible. The following is a part of the committee's offi-

"The 24th session of the legislature of the state of Nebraska, by house roll No. 632, a bill making appropriation for current expenses for the biennium, appropriated the sum of $1,500 for house rent for the governor. The 25th session of the legislature, by house roll No. 614, also appropriated for the purpose of house rent for the governor the sum of $1,500 for the biennium. Complaint having been made to the committee that this sum had been misappropriated, evidence in relation to ence we find: That the first two youch ers drawn against this fund thus created were each for the sum of $180, each pur ported on its face to be for three months house rent; the warrants in payment thereof being drawn to A. C. Crandall. These vouchers were, to say the least, irregular in that the first drawn May 2 was for rent to July 1, 1895, while the second, drawn July 11, 1895, was for rent to Oct. 1, 1895, thus paying the bills for rent before they matured.

"The committee further finds that from about the first of October 1995 to the condition.

about the first of October, 1895, to the end about the first of October, 1895, to the end of his term of office the governor occupied a residence on A street in the city of Lincoln, owned by Mrs. C. A. Gould, and for which he paid a rental of $30 per month, which sum was paid monthly at the convenience of the research. which sum was paid monthly at the convenience of the governor, and to the entire estisfaction of Mrs. Gould; that during the time he occupied said residence as governor he presented vouchers in his own name amounting to $1,948.90, three of which, amounting to $710, were not sworn to as required by law, for the payment of which the state auditor issued his warrants on the state treasurer. rants on the state treasurer.

the first two warrants were issued, to ascertain the amount actually paid to him

it will be seen that $773.90 of the amount is now a candidate for the omce of supreme judge. The house-rent fraud is only one of the many reprehensible deals entered into by this "politician for spoils only." He is not fit for the supreme bench, and should be repuditated at the polls.

Mr. Bryan's Political Morals. Some time ago the Hon. J. Sterling Morton made the public assertion that William J. Bryan had said "it is the money that is in the office and not honor that attracts me." Such a remark from Mr. Bryan could not be regarded as a probability by those who believe him to be a leader with high moral standards and honorable purpose. The charge having been made by so prominent a citizen as Mr. Morton, on the other hand, created much comment. Mr. Bryan's friends refused to believe Mr. Morton and vigprougly denounced him for making such a false accusation against their idol. Finally, on Sept. 26, Mr. Bryan, when at his home in Lincoln, was interviewed on the subject and he denied ever having given expression to such an ntterance and added that whatever Mr. Morton might say was unworthy of credence. It was then "up to" Mr. Morton. Accordingly in the issue of his paper, The Conservative, of Oct. 12th, he published a facsimile letter received by him from Mr. Bryan in which the language quoted is found. A photographic reproduction of the letter leaves no doubt as to whether Mr. Bryan did or did not make use of such language. The decision is in Mr. Mor that he was, when he wrote it, much younger than now and that, if such language and sentiment be objectionable, the transgression has been outlawed. If this lenient view of the case be granted the fact still remains that Mr. Bryan was, on Sept. 26th, 1899, at the zenith of his powers and perhaps of his fame, and how, therefore, will he be excused from denying the utterance? Obviously Mr. Bryan's political opponents have too generously conceded the sincerity of his purposes, the integrity of his character. Mr. Morton has not convicted him of any greater defection from the straight path of rectitude than he purposely and publicly made in 1896, when, on his tail-end campaign, he advised voters to wear gold badges and vote for silver. This endorsement of hypoorisy and deception was certainly as unbecoming a presidential candidate as anything Mr. Mor-

Dewey was going to blow the administration clear out of the water when he arrived. He would tell the world the mistakes of the government. He would give Aguinaldo a patriot's certificate. So said the "antis." Dewey is home again and he reaffirms what he has always said since the 1st day May, 1898—that the authority of the American flag must be established in the Philippines.

There were many loyal Democrats of the north, who, in the sixties, gave their support to the administration of President Lincoln because they believed their country more worthy of preservation than any political party. The indications are there are many such in Nebraska today. They realize that to vote against the administration by supporting the fusion party this year will be to give aid and comfort to enemies of the American flag in the Philippines. and thus commit a grave and irrepar able blunder. That Nebraska will stand by the president in this emerncy, as the brave boys of the First Nebraska stood by the flag in the Philppines, is practically a foregone con-ot Necessary For Editors to Read Them From Beginning to End. Once more the tale goes round of the author who sent a story to three jourpals and had it returned by every one without having been read. He knew it because he had pasted two of the leaves together. Very likely. We do not think of reading through a half or a quarter often does not take half a minute to discard what one knows he doesn't want. It is an old saying that one does not need to eat a whole joint to learn whether it is tainted.

It would be a revelation to some of these writers to see how fast an experienced and conscientious editor can, at times, go through a big pile of essays, stories or poems. The title is often enough, and he would say, "We don't want an article on that subject." The next article begins with a page or two of commonplace introduction, and that is thrown aside in half a minute's inspection without turning more than the next page. The next begins with a platitude—"We can't print that stuff. The first verse of this next poem has false meter and is tossed aside. The next begins in schoolgirl style, with "dove" and "love;" it is not read through. Of the next the editor reads ten lines. It is simply a dull description of a stream in a forest-not want ed. The next poem begins in a fresh way, seems to be constructed according to the rules, is pretty good. It is put one side to see if other better poems will growd it out. The next is a story. The first page is promising, but the second shows a coarse strain, and the reading stope there.

Ten articles are decided upon, and with sufficient good judgment, in ten minutes, for a minute to a manuscript is often twice as much time as it needs. It does not take that long for a dealer to stick an iron skewer in a smoked ham, draw it out and smell of it. Not one article in a dozen perhaps needs to be read through. - New York Independknows just how to steer a vessel to bring it safely through the shoals and out into the open. Just so the Encyclopædia Britannica is the one absolutely reliable guide for the voyage of life. One cannot go wrong if its teachings are followed. It tells the mistakes men have made: how others have succeeded and why. An intelligent man gets good from the experiences of others and steers clear of the rocks they ran against. The very presence of the Encyclopædia Britannica in a house gives the place an intellectual tone. A library of thousands of volumes does not offer such an opportunity for successful home study and development as this masterpiece of literature. There is no more instructive reading on earth than that contained in its 30 volumes. To a life whose current runs toward the future, this great work is indispensable. Just now you can secure the
