You're not feeling just right this spring. are you? Somehow, you haven't your old-time strength, cannot take hold of things with your usual push and You just drag around, fairly well one day, not so well the next. You are wretched, disconsolate, discouraged; you are miserable.

That's Nerve Poverty

To be rich in nerve power you should take a good spring medicine, something that will give you pure and rich blood. A perfect Sarsaparilla will do this every time; not a cheap Sarsaparilla, not one that promises you a great deal of bulk for your money; but a highly concentrated Sarsaparilla, one that has more cure in it than any other Sarsaparilla in the world.

That's AYER'S

"The only Sarsaparilla made under the personal supervision of three graduates: a graduale in pharmacy, a graduate in chemistry, and a graduate in medicine."

Probably no forage crop has attract-d more attention in recent years than the cow pea. It was slow in getting a foothold in public esceem, but when that position was once obtained it advanced very rapidly in public favor. This is largely due to the fact that the experiment stations took up the cow pea and investigated it. They found It to be a very good plant for the collection of nitrogen and its introduction into the soil. The farmers are now in close touch with the experiment stalions and the value of the cow pea was eressed on the notice of the farmers wherever the pea can be successfully and safely grown. We do not hesitate to say that if we had no experiment struggling for recognition. Without much larger part in our agriculture why the farmers that have ground in the early crops in the spring and first part of the summer should not plant cow peas afterward. Of course the pea vines will not in such case mature seed, but the vines and roots will greatly improve the soil.

There is to be a big crop of fruit setting very full with few exceptions. If all the fruit on the trees is left to grow, the harvest will show a large amount of very small fruit that will bring almost nothing in the market. will get the prices that pay the profit. This is the time for reading and calculating orchardists to consider if it will not pay them to thin their fruit. If one-fourth the number of apples, peaches or pears be grown on a tree that blooms full the weight of iruit produced will be the same, and it will sell in the market for more money. Some of our enterprising orchardists have been thinning their tree fruits for many years, and have made that operation a part of their system. What they have found profitable others may imitate with hopes of like far off when the producers of fruit will find some way of controlling the sale of it by the middlemen to the extent of seeing that the fruit reaches the consumer in as good condition as it leaves the hands of the grower. It is bitious grower to know that if he sends beautiful fruit to the Chicago market it is more than likely to be fruit. It is one of the problems that will have to be settled by the collective action of fruit producers. The consumers in the great cities will hail the advent of such a day with gladness. At the present time Chicago buyers have become almost hardened to being swindled in fruit purchases. One of the great reasons for the extraordinary development of the banana trade is that people are able to purchase them without trusting to the qualifications of horse shoers beluck. If a man gets swindled when he buys bananas, it is his own stupidity that is at fault, as he can see every banana before he buys it. But with most of our native fruit, like peach, a man must view it through red netting. If he pulls off the netting and finds fine-looking fruit, when he gets home he is likely to find inedible green fruit making up the bulk of the basket. One day last summer the writer desired to secure a basket of the best peaches on the market. He found a dealer with a large quantity of fairly good fruit, and with a few baskets of fancy peaches marked up to a fancy price. He was assured that the price was high because all the peaches in the basket were as good as the ones on top. When the baskets were opened at the home of the buyer it was found that the bulk of the The seventeen-year locusts are about fruit consisted of green peaches the size of walnuts, with just enough fine peaches over them to conceal them. The result was in this case a lessened purchase of peaches, the preference being given to fruit that could not be dishonestly packed.

A word about Canadian bacon and ham, for nowhere have I found such beautifully marbled pork, and most certainly I have never tasted such lusclous meat, says J. C. Mills in the Farmer. Much as I dislike to admit it (for the farmers of the United States ought to be able to produce the best of everything), the facts are, we have forgotten entirely that the ultimate end to be reached in producing pork is the meat. We have thrown aside the prime end to be sought and are breeding the lard pig, and have forgotten what our Canadian friends know as the true end to be sought, a meat that will please the palates of the meat-eating public. The English and Canadians are excellent judges of all kinds of meat, and especial attention seems to be given to the production of fine bacon and hams, and well do they profit by it. This question is certainly a problem for the American people to soive, and especially our own state and the Dakotas, for producers. On investigation, I learned that in the production of the fine bacon and hams found in Canada, that breed was necessary first and then the animal. To prevent incompetent feed. Yorkshires and Tamworths seemed to be the breeds for this purpose, and the feeds consisted of oats, barley and peas. Pea-fed bacon was

A good substitute for calks is a rubber device, which acts as a cushion and a preventive of slipping." Tamworth hogs are especially adaptcess, for in March, 1899, he wrote the ed to the production of bacon, on acundersigned that his hogs took sick count of the shape of their bodies and and died so easy. I say it was not the mixture of fat and lean in their cholera. It was much worse. I lost forty head of hogs. This, however, was perhaps just as much a case of Peruna as a Nerve and Catarrh Tonic the Talk of the World.

Hon. W. V. Sullivan, United States Senator from Mississippi, in a letter recently written to Dr. Hartman from Oxford, Miss., says the following:

"For some time I have been a sufferer from catarrh in its most incipient stage, so much so that I became alarmed as to my general health. But, hearing of Pe-ru-na as a good remedy, I gave it a fair trial and soon began to improve. Its effects were distinctly beneficial, removing the annoying symptoms, and was particularly good as a tonic.
