When we remember that President McKinley's plurality, with a single exception the largest ever given to a president, was 601.854 and when we consider the fact that young men are not bound by party ties, it appears how great and how decisive is to be the influence of the first voters upon the result of the struggle pow in progress.

In every crisis of our history the numbers, the freedom from traditional prejudice and the enthusiasm of our young men have been the determining factors in the final result. We have now reached another great crisis in our national development, and once more the young men should come actively to the front. Four years ago a coterie of men obtained control of the Democratic party, thrust aside the great, convictory in the past and promulgated a
