"Peruna has many friends in Butte. I cannot say too much in praise of it. While finishing school I became very nervous and exhausted from over-study. I was weak and sick, and could neither eat, sleep nor enjoy life. A couple of bottles of Peruna put new life In me. I find that having it in the house and taking a dose off and on keeps me in fine health.

The Sand Plum In a book written by Professor Waugh, on plum culture, he prints a setter received by him from D. M. Adams, of Sumner county, Kansas, on the sand plum. We believe it will be interesting to our readers and so reproduce it here:

"This plum grows wild in this country along the Arkansas river. The best patch of wild ones I have seen was on the bank of the Arkansas at the mouth of Slate Creek, a few miles above Gueda Springs. There was about forty acres in the patch that had been left in its natural state. The ground looked like a barren sandbank. There was no grass or weeds or other shrubbery, except a few wild grape vines. It was a hot day in August. The sand was so hot that the boys could not walk over it in their bare feet. The bushes grew down to high water mark in the river. Most of the hills were about ten feet above the level of the river. The person that owned the land sold the fruit and let us pick it. They watched and had it picked clean as they went. It was about the middle of August. They had been picking for a month and thought there would be plums there for another month. The bushes were from three to six feet high. The plums were brown, the size of a May cherry, the size of a Damson plum. Some were a bright scarlet, the color of a cherry; others were a bright yellow or amber color. Where they had not been picked, the bushes were bending to the ground with their load of fruit. The fruit was so thick as almost to hide the leaves. It was the grandest sight in the fruit line that I ever saw. They looked like a large flower garden at a short distance. We cultivate them in our yards and gardens. All you have to do is to set out a few bushes. Soon they will spread until they make a thicket that one cannot walk through. When they are in bloom they look like a bank of snow. They begin to ripen at about the same time as wheat, and continue to ripen for six weeks to two months. They do not all ripen on the same bush at once. There will be ripe ones and others perfectly green on the same limb at the same time. They are one of the best fruits for cooking that grow. We have a patch of four or five square rods. It gives us all we want while they are going, and then we have a supply for canning. Here is one of the most valuable fruits. Some of the small-sized plums have a bitter taste, still are very juicy and acid. I do not know how they will succeed further north. Since have been here I have sent several lots of seeds and roots to different parties study of birds and bird-life, says: Gardeners have long looked on the robin with suspicion; its abundance, its size, its boldness in entering our gardens and orchards, render him quite a factor for the weal or woe of the fruit grower; so it has received an unusual share of attention from investigators. Even when the snows of winter linger late the robins come at their appointed time and content themselves with last year's sumach or wild grapes. Once the lawns are clear they descend to them and subsist chiefly on fly larvae, of these 175 have been counted in a single stomach. As the season advances the diet is more varied, larvae of many kinds, beetles, grasshoppers and other ground insects receiving attention. During March twenty per cent of their food is cutworms; in April beetles are often is insects. Then comes a change. During June—I use figures compiled is fruit, in July this figure rises to The best soil for the sweet potato is fifty-six but more than half of this is sandy loam that will not adhere to the wild cherries. For the balance of the potatoes. If the best quality is desired being most favored but forty-one different kinds of wild berries have been found in the stomachs. For the whole year sixty-five per cent of the food is insects, twenty-five domestic and ten per cent wild fruit. Of the insects we find that forty-three per cent are injurious and thirty-six per cent beneficial species, while twenty-one per cent are neutral. The question becomes very complicated for we would not only have to know the value of the fruit, but the damage done by the injurious species, including those that would have been destroyed by the beneficial species, and other details, all reduced to dollars and cents. It is evident we cannot enter on this subject here, but it has been worked out thoroughly and carefully elsewhere, and in concluding an exhaustive paper on the subject Professor Forbes says: "I, for my part, do not believe that the horticulturist can sell his small fruits anywhere in the ordinary markets of Don't give them tea or coffee. An Appeal to Breeders

The committee representing Poland-Chinas, composed of R. D. Burnham, H. M. Kirkpatrick and Frank D. Winn. makes an appeal to the Poland-China breeders throughout the United States for help in making the Kansas City show the great success it promises to be with the support of the liberal spirited breeders of the United States. The condition of the Poland-China breed in this show is most unfortunate in having no association or Record Company behind it. When the Kansas City Stock Yards Company offered $500 to each breed on condition that this amount be duplicated by each breed, the Berkshire and Duroc Jersey and-mouth cattle disease has disap-Record Associations made the guarantee, while the $500 of the Poland-Chinas had to be guaranteed immediately by the three members of the committee. The committee wishes it ease were very heavy, but generally to be distinctly understood that all the percentage of deaths fell below 3 the work they are doing in condition per cent. Save only thoroughbred or with this show is entirely gratis and breeding stock, adds Mr. Swalm, the that in addition to this the current herds of Uruguay never know the comexpenses which have to be met are forts of a shelter, but as snow or frost being taken care of personally and or sleet is very rare the exposure selwill have to be until after the show dom results seriously. fair list is about all provided for and a good portion of the $2,500 for specials to be raised by the breeders has already been pledged, but there is yet considerable to be raised which can be done easily by a little help from each. It is not expected that breeders living at a distance will give a large amount, but they can afford to give something and the committee wants it understood that anything offered will be gratefully accepted. If you do not feel able to give $25, give $10 and if not $10 then give $1. There are thousands of Poland-China breeders, and even $1 from each would more than raise the money, although there are few breeders who could not afford to give at least $5. The subscription blanks are now being sent out and it is to be hoped that no breeder will return same without something filled in. The Record Companies have practically refused to take an interest in the show, the state fairs have cut the premium list down on hogs until no exhibitor can win enough money to pay expenses and it is due to the three members of the committee who are working untiringly to make this show a grand success and when the subscription blanks are sent around that a donation of some kind be made. This is a breeders' show and nobody but the breeders will be benefited and each should see that he does his part. There is a friendly rivalry between the two breeds as to who will make the best show and have the most attractive premium list. Will the representatives of the great breed of Poland-Chinas stand still and see their favorite outdone? Consider this when filling out your subscription blank, is the earnest request of the management.

The Sweet Potate. The sweet potato is coming to be recognized as one of the most important products of our soil. The interest in it as an article of food for both man and beast is steadily increasing. Not many years ago northern people had sweet potatoes on their tables only during the short fall season, lasting from the time when sweet potatoes were mature enough to dig, to perhaps the end of November. Now, on account of the more scientific ways of handling, transplanting and storing them they are on our tables during a large portion of the winter. Canning them has also become a practice. New ways of keeping and utilizing them are being tried. They are being dried and some are being ground up into sweet

It is said that the sweet potato what that means depends on the understanding of the word warm. It may be said that the sweet potato thrives only where the temperature during its time of growth does not fall below 45 degrees. On this point a government bulletin says: "On soils suited to the sweet potato it may be grown wherever the large dent varieties of maize reach maturity, but when grown near its northern limit or at high altitudes it generally lacks sweetness and flavor. This loss of quality must be attributed to the cool nights, which are likely to prevail in high latitudes, and at considerable elevations in lower latitudes during the latter part of the growing season, a condition that does not admit of the growing of sweet potatoes in a large way." Then follows the suggestion that in high latitudes farmers may grow sweet potatoes by transplanting them into the open past. For profitable general field culture the sweet potato requires at least four months of warm weather, free, not only from frost, but also from cold high altitudes everywhere. A table, published in the annual report of the department of agriculture, is enlightening as to the amount of money the people of the United States spent in purchasing favorite flowers at retail in 1899-roses, $6,000,000; carnations, $4,000,000; violets, $750,000; chrysanthemums, $500,000; miscellaneous, including lilies, $1,250,000. The Japanese are a Spartan race. Many things besides their resistance to cold prove it. The most of them live in simplicity. They can go a long time without food. The coolies perform marvelcus feats of strength and endurance; they draw a "jinrikisha" all day or carry travelers over the steepest mountains. Every summer a colony of foreigners go to Mount Hel-Eizan, near Kioto. Their camp is several miles up the steep mountain side, but early each morning the Japanese bring up the mail, fresh vegetables and milk, and women often carry trunks to the summit on their heads.

WHAT WE HEAR FROM ASSINIBOIA, WESTERN CANADA

To the Editor: The above is the em phatic manner in which a friend in Yorkton writes to a friend near St. Paul, Minnesota, and it is pretty nearly right, too, with the advantages that Western Canada offers to those seeking homes. The Assinibola district is one of the best. The writer from whose letter we quote goes on to "John, if you miss this chance you are foolish, for you can get out cheaper when there are so many coming. and I would not tell you to come if I thought you could not do well, and if you don't come in the spring you will have to go away back, for you named Wyssiak, an official of the court do not want to think that there is no one living out here but us. I saw nicer buildings out here than I ever saw before, and if the country was no good what would they want them for? John, if you sold everything you have and came out here you would be worth more than ever you were before, and bert's music. The discovery has if you can bring your team. You can get anything you want on tick, and when they do that with strangers they are not afraid they can't make enough to pay for it.
