Gerrard, at 3 p. m., to discuss plans for the next state federation to be held in this city. All are cordially invited.—Mrs. L. Gerrard.
—He found two coils of barb wire in his wagon, but drove home with them, and afterwards sold them to a man south of the river, but when in Justice Hudson's court he explained it as a joke, the justice thought differently, and assessed a fine of $5. The costs amounted to $16, and in default, the accused went to jail. "Doc" McCann's joke was an unfortunate circumstance.
—Chris. Hageman has sold his hotel interests at North Bend, and goes on the road as traveling salesman for E. Schotzag of this city. By the way, Mr. Schotzag's business brings in a goodly number of dollars which are paid out here to his workmen, thus increasing the business of the city. If men must smoke cigars, why not use the best, and those manufactured at home?
—Sheriff Byrnes has in charge Vincent C. Connelly, arrested at Tilden for an assault upon Andrew Christensen last Friday morning about 1 o'clock, after a ball at Lindsay. The attack was made at a livery barn, and with a razor. Christensen's physician said his patient was not well enough to attend the hearing Monday last before Justice Hudson, and it was postponed till next Monday.
—Among the teachers from Columbus and vicinity who attended the state teachers' association in Lincoln last week were: Prof. Kern, Sup't Leavy, I. E. Britell, Joseph Dodds, R. M. Campbell, E. C. Hicks, Mrs. Brindley, Mrs. Glidden, Misses Elizabeth Sheehan, Clara Hohl, Agnes Carrig, Augusta Nelson, Emily Segelke, Prof. Garlich, John Foley, Misses Muzetta Wheeler, Marion Lamb, Carrie Parks and Mable Porterfield.
—The Woman's club has been greatly instrumental here in re-juvenating the public library. Why not now turn their efforts toward securing an undoubted, permanent addition to what Columbus now has in that line? Fremont, our neighbor city about midway to Omaha, it seems, has secured a donation of $15,000 from Mr. Carnegie, the only condition being that the city council will furnish $1,500 for the running expenses.

—Professor Loefler has suggested the inoculation of a cancerous patient with malaria as a means of cure of the malignant growth. He thinks he has discovered antagonism between the two diseases, asserting that cancer is a rare disease in tropical countries where malaria is rife.—Exchange.
—Fred. L. Aacho of the firm of Aacho & Ryan, was married Wednesday, January 1, to Miss Anna Borneman, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eislinger, at their home, Rev. H. Miesler officiating. The happy couple took a trip east, and are now at home in this city. Their hosts of friends wish them a prosperous journey through life.
—The funeral of Mrs. Wm. T. Allen, whose death was recorded in last week's issue, was held Thursday afternoon, the services being in the Presbyterian church, Rev. Becker officiating. The Eastern Star had charge of the service at the cemetery. Although the weather was severe, there was a large crowd of friends of the family present at the funeral.
—The executive board of the Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs met in Lincoln last Tuesday and among the things decided on was the date of holding the next annual meeting, which will be in this city the second week in October. The Woman's club of this city are anticipating much benefit, and looking forward with great pleasure to the entertaining of the club members from over the state. We notice in the list of officers of the standing committees the name of Miss Minnie Becker of this city as chairman of the committee on credentials.
—The funeral of Herman L. Small took place here Saturday last, the body being brought from Omaha, at which place Mr. Small died January 1. Funeral was from the residence of E. P. Ballou, services conducted by Rev. Munro. Mr. Small was born at New Bedford, N. H., in 1853; served three years in the Sixth Vermont regiment; was a lieutenant of one of the companies; moved to this city in 1872, living here thirteen years, and a portion of the time was employed in the Union Pacific depot. He was a member of the first band organization in Columbus. Since leaving here his residence had been at Norfolk and Omaha. He leaves a widow, four daughters and one son.
—Father Marcellinus, who has been the priest for the Columbus Catholic church for the past six years, had word Sunday from authority above him, of his change from Columbus to Quincy, Ill., where he will go next Thursday. Father Seraphim, who was pastor of this church some fifteen years ago, will again take the work here. The congregation are sorry to lose Father Marcellinus, as they have become greatly attached to him. He goes to his childhood home, where his parents are still living. Father Seraphim, we believe, comes here from Missouri. He will be remembered by many as the priest who was the builder of the first addition to the present church building.
—The results attainable by irrigation are simply marvelous when applied to land in the Platte valley. Wm. Webster owns land near Monroe which last year was rented to B. S. Thurston, for one-third the crop. One and a half acres of the tract of fifteen could not be reached by irrigation, and produced nothing to speak of; but that which was irrigated produced a crop of potatoes, which at $1.00 a bushel was worth $1,500, the renter getting $1,000 and the owner of the land $500 for his share, the season's crop being worth $100 to the acre. These are the bare facts as given us by a reliable man, and they are sufficiently strong to set nearly anybody to thinking, and form a complete enough answer to the problem given in THE JOURNAL a few weeks ago.
—D. V. Stephens read a paper on grading county schools before the meeting of county superintendents of Minnesota Friday. His reputation as the editor of the County Superintendent's Monthly and the author of Silas Cobb and the "Phelps Stories" had preceded him. He was enthusiastically received and his paper highly complimented. He had many invitations to appear before institutes next summer. So says the Fremont Tribune. Purchase a copy of the book, not only because it is written by a Nebraskan, but because it is a very interesting story founded on facts, and gives an insight into the life of the ordinary teacher and superintendent. The author is a Fremont man, and with the Hammond Bros., is publishing his own book with marked success.
—Nich. Blasier has bought of J. A. Ernst the frame buildings south of his power brick and frame business buildings, corner of Eleventh and North streets. The sign, readable yet after these many years, is "Greisen Bros." To the present lot it was moved in the early '70s from Seventh street, where, just west of Capt. Spoor's residence, it was occupied by W. B. Dale & Co. as a dry-goods store. The frame of the main part is of cottonwood. The old buildings have been purchased by Mr. Blasier for $75, and will be torn down, taken to Gardner and used for the construction of a barn and granary on a quarter section recently purchased of them by Mr. Blasier, and on which no buildings have as yet been erected. Thus is the old Nebraska soil, too valuable longer to be held as wild land, is being prepared for occupation by thrifty workers who will convert it into food-producing acres. In the winter of 1870, the writer discarded his last stove-pipe hat, and purchased a beaver cap in this store, immediately after a blizzard of the 3-day kind during which he was housed at George Brown's hospitable dwelling on the bluffs, and has never since wondered at the irremissible tendency of many Nebraskans to summarize dispose of the stove-pipe hat, on sight. It certainly was not useful in a blizzard. Like many far-down eastern notions and customs, it was not available to profitable use in the west.
