The republican state convention of Pennsylvania has endorsed President Roosevelt for re-nomination and declared against any change in the present tariff schedules.

The state executive committee of the Young men's Christian Associations of Nebraska have endorsed the offer of John D. Rockefeller for the erection of a building at Lincoln.

Within the space of two minutes Monday, a tornado dealt death to 85 and injured some 150 more people, besides destroying thousands of dollars worth of property at Gainesville, Georgia.

One day last week Allice Kelly lost her life at Medicine Bow station on the Union Pacific. He was in charge of two cows and an elephant on his way to Minneapolis to join the Jubour circus. He was attacked by the elephant in a car and crushed to death under the animal's feet.

S. W. CONROCK of Mason, this state, says that the blossoms on his cherry trees were killed, but that new ones have appeared to take their place. His theory is that at the time of the freeze many of the buds were not far enough along to be susceptible to injury and some had not yet come out at all. These have since blossomed and promise a crop.

The Bureau of Forestry of the Department of Agriculture has taken up the study of forest fires with a view to determining definite data concerning the cause, speed of fire, conditions favorable and unfavorable, damage to soil and trees and methods of prevention and protection. It is estimated that the annual loss from forest fires is not far from fifty million dollars for the United States.

NEBRASKA has over 66,000 farms. On these and the ranges in the western portion of the state according to a report of the United States Department of Agriculture, had, on January 1, 1901, 2,403,929 cattle other than milch cows, Texas, Iowa and Kansas leading all other states of the union. A tabulated statement giving each state's quota is published on the fourth page of today's JOURNAL. Fourth place is very near to the head of the class—stand up for Nebraska.

"New Hope for Consumptives" is the title of an important series of papers in the Review of Reviews for June. Mr. Day Allen Willey describes "The Outdoor Treatment of Tuberculosis" as applied in various sanatoria in this country and abroad; Evelyn Mae Hart offers practical suggestions to the consumptive patient under the title "How to Live Out of Doors"; Mr. Francis S. Kinder describes "The Consumptive's Chances in Colorado"; and Mr. Charles H. Johnson gives an account of "New York's Fight Against Tuberculosis." The purpose of these articles is to show what has been accomplished in public institutions and by private initiative along the lines of modern medicine, especially the fresh air cure.

On May 25 Lieut. E. H. Schackleton arrived at San Francisco on the steamer Venture from Australia on his way to England to make a report on the progress of the antarctic exploration expedition of the Royal Geographical Society. The ship discovered on England Nov. 16, 1901, in quest of scientific information. Three of the party on board have succeeded in getting nearer the south pole than has ever been done before. These men are Captain R. F. Scott in command of the expedition, Lieut. Schackleton and Mr. Wilson. They were ninety-four days on the ship with the temperature throughout at five degrees below zero. The most important discovery made so far is that of a chain of mountains from 7,000 to 9,000 feet high extending for 300 miles and it is believed to the south pole.

The press throughout the state have denounced the action of the university students in their trouble at the carnival in Lincoln recently. Chancellor Andrews will undoubtedly have the support of the public in his endeavors to stop all riots and unlawful actions of the students. Hereafter, a record of each student will be kept as a matter of tracing his moral standing. The Lincoln Star says: "Quietly and patiently, without the slightest flurry on the part of the university officials, an investigation of the recent 'freaks' in which university students have been concerned is going on and the guilty persons are being 'settled.' The leaders will receive the attention of those whose duty it is to keep law and order paramount in the state institution, and if something falls on their heads, it is reasonable to suppose that the 'late unpleasantness' will stand for the cause of such action."

A meeting of the republican state committee in Lincoln last Wednesday, after fixing the next state convention to be held in Lincoln August 18, the committee adopted the following resolution commendatory of President Roosevelt: "His wise and courageous administration of national affairs, his judicious conduct of our relations with foreign governments, his fearless enforcement of the law against unwise trusts and combinations, his patriotic efforts to maintain peace and harmony between capital and labor, his friendship for the west, manifested by his interest in the irrigation and other measures proposed for the upbuilding of the western states, commend our hearty approval and indorsement. Theodore Roosevelt has demonstrated his eminent fitness for the exalted position of president of the United States and we extend to him the assurance of the support of the Nebraska republicans whenever it may be of service to him."

HIGH WATERS.

Rain storms still continue and rivers and creeks are being filled to overflowing throughout the states of Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa. Many streams have already reached their high water mark and should the rain continue falling as it has the past week, the overflow from the rivers and the loss to the grain will be enormous in these four states.

Sunday's Omaha Bee made a brief estimate of the damage by the flood, claiming that the financial loss would now reach $25,000,000, that there are 25,100 people made homeless. Among the worst flooded districts are Topeka, Emporia, Salina, Lawrence and Kansas City, all in Kansas; Ottumwa and Des Moines, Iowa; Lincoln, Beatrice, Nebraska City and many other smaller towns of this state.

The railroad beds in low lands have been made soft by the wet condition of the ground and in many places are impassable. The B. & M. have sent notice that the road from Omaha to Kansas City can not be used for the present. The trains going to Lincoln over the B. & M. are taken in from Emerald by way of Germantown as the country between Emerald and Lincoln is in a flooded condition. The Rock Island have since Friday been running their through passenger trains from Omaha to Denver over the Union Pacific tracks on account of the flooded condition and washouts at Beatrice. The Union Pacific have had trouble with washouts near Papillion but on the whole have probably been more fortunate than most of the big railroad lines.

At North Topeka, Kansas, the most frightful conditions prevailed. The Kansas river rose at the rate of three inches an hour and with such a rapid current that row boats could not be used to rescue the hundreds from drowning. Buildings caught fire and added to the horror. Over 7,000 people were made homeless Saturday and it was estimated that over 600 people were beyond reach of rescue. On Sunday several steam boats were sent to Topeka to aid in the rescue.

At Lincoln, Salt creek had reached the high water mark of last year, flooding west Lincoln bottom lands and causing all residents in that district to be moved to high land.

David City reports twelve inches of rain having fallen during May, and Schuyler thirteen inches; 2.5 inches fell Saturday and Sunday.

In Columbus the water has not been standing in the streets but numerous callas throughout the city have water in them which seems to be forced through the brick walls on account of the ground not soaking it up.

Clear creek, south of the Platte river, was over its banks Friday, causing travel to cease over the bridge, but the water subsided Saturday. The Platte river was also very high but residents along the stream did not seem to fear a flood on Monday.

The Loup river is quite high but not within two feet of an overflow. The slough between town and the river causes considerable trouble on account of the high water.

CURBING MONOPOLY.

The San Francisco Chronicle very truthfully says that it is useless to deny that during his brief term of office President Roosevelt has done more than has been accomplished since monopoly became dangerous to bring consolidated capital into subjection to the law. It is not difficult in response to popular demand to get them enforced against the opposition of powerful moneyed interests. President Roosevelt already has to his credit the tombstones of the salt trust, the shingle trust, the beet trust, and the Great Northern Securities company. These are the first distinct victories over capital ever achieved in this country in the interest of the public, and they have been achieved, not in animosity to capital, not in a revolutionary spirit, not with the intent or desire to prevent the free employment of capital in whatever amounts for useful purposes, but solely with the object of forestalling any possibility of oppression and solely by the enforcement of existing law. The laws under which these victories have been won have been on the statute books for years. The one important thing accomplished before 1902, under the law, was the establishment of the illegality of pooling by competing railroads. That did little good, for equivalent devices were substituted. President Roosevelt has attacked them and has won. For his success he is doubtless in great measure indebted to the great breadth and depth of the legal knowledge of Attorney General Knox and his faithful and vigorous service, but the personality and strenuous character of the president are back of it all. He is not only enforcing existing law, but has procured additional legislation which will enable him to accomplish more. He has just begun the work. It is safe to predict that before he ceases to be president he will have definitely established the status of the great corporations on a basis which will permit and encourage the employment of capital in all legitimate ways, but will make corporate oppression an impossibility. And that is the advantage of a vigorous president.

WALLACE'S FARMER which is good authority upon all subjects relative to farming, has summed up the crop prospect as follows: "The dealers in stocks in the great markets are watching the fields very intently these days. So, also, are the dealers in grain in the great market centers and to a less extent, also, the dealers in live stock in the great central markets. The whole country is looking at the farmer. What man, what of the crop? As to be expected, the government report showed a decrease of about five points in the winter wheat estimates. There will likely be a further decrease the first of July for the reason that there is an excess of water in many fields, turning the grain yellow and the grain fly bugs are reported over other sections, and no doubt there will be outbreaks of the wheat looper. None the less we do not care to predict the harvest if not a larger winter wheat crop than have ever grown before. There will be great grass and hay crops this year provided the weather is not too dry. The entire crop is late, from a week to ten days, and the farther south apparently the later it is as compared with former seasons. We do not care to predict the harvest of the year, but we do care to predict for an average crop but if excess rains continue the probabilities are that the crop will be below the average."

Memorial Day.
The Memorial day exercises Saturday last were, as usual, attended by a very large audience, the North opera house being crowded with people who had come to pay tribute to the soldiers who fought for their country.

Although in the morning rain fell, and the clouds hung threatening all afternoon, people from the country for miles around came in to the exercises.

The surviving soldiers of the civil war and the Spanish-American war occupied the seats on the stage. Commander of Baker post G. A. R., A. W. Clark, presided.

The program as printed in last week's JOURNAL was carried out with a few changes. Charles B. Hanford, who played the Merchant of Venice Saturday evening in North opera house, upon request, recited "The Spangled Banner."

Mr. Hanford professed his recitation by a few remarks to the G. A. R., and during his recital of the glorious tribute to the red, white and blue, many an eye was wet with tears from feelings of patriotism inspired by the gifted actor.

As Mr. Hanford was leaving the stage he was stopped by little Helen, daughter of W. A. McAllister, who pinned a bouquet of flowers to his coat lapel.

The principal address of the afternoon was made by Prof. Kern of the city schools who gave a scholarly address appropriate to Memorial day. The professor brought to remembrance many historical facts in regard to wars of the past where right had conquered, and said the men who fought in the cause of right will always be called heroes.

Mr. Webb of Madison, a soldier of the Confederate army, was invited here to give an address in behalf of the southern soldiers and spoke in touching terms of the men who wore the gray during the civil war. He also made reference to those old veterans and their sons from the sunny south donning the blue and fighting side by side with his northern brethren in the late Spanish-American war.

August Wagner spoke in behalf of the war veterans who stand ready at any minute to risk their lives for the public welfare.

After the program at the opera house the soldiers and firemen marched to the cemetery where the impressive ritualistic services were held at the grave of M. K. Turner, after which each grave of the departed soldiers and firemen was decorated with flowers.

The thirty-first annual meeting of the Columbus association of Congregational churches will be held in their church in this city Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The first session will be held this Tuesday evening. Rev. Hampton of Ulysses giving the address of the evening. Wednesday morning's session will include the following subjects: "What is Heresy?" Rev.
