

Matters in Nebraska.

THE NEBRASKA STATE FAIR.

THE STATE IN A NUTSHELL.

Some of the Features of the Coming Agricultural Exhibit.

The managers of the Nebraska state fair and exposition realize more fully than ever the fact that the visitors to the fair enjoy the races and that the speed program leads everything else in attractiveness. This year the managers have increased the purses for races to $8,000 and visitors to the fair every day of the exposition can see a line of very attractive races. The amphitheater at the fair grounds is one of the most comfortable, and every effort will be made this year to have the speed program far superior to anything heretofore enjoyed by fair visitors.

Monday, the first open day of the fair, three good races are scheduled—a roadsters' race, open to the state, with a purse of $600; a 2:30 trot, with a purse of $500, and a good running race. On Tuesday the Union Commercial club 2:40 trot occurs for a purse of $1,000; this is followed by a 2:27 pacing race with a purse of $500, and a running race, one-half mile and repeat, purse of $100.

Wednesday has the following race program: 2:35 pacing, $500 purse; 2:17 trotting, $600 purse; 2:22 pacing, $500 purse, one mile dash running, $100 purse.

Thursday's program comprises the 2-year-old and under 2:50 trot, purse $200; 2:17 pacing, purse $600; 2:25 trotting, purse $500, and a running race, one mile novelty, purse $125.

Friday, the closing day, will have a 2:20 trot, purse $600; a free-for-all pace, purse $600, and a running race, one-half mile and repeat, purse $100.

Another feature of the fair will be "Fraternal Day," Wednesday, September 6, devoted to the fraternal organizations of Nebraska. The fair managers have set aside a street to be known as Fraternal street to be occupied by fraternal beneficiary organizations and none others. The managers have allowed the sum of $300 in cash prizes for drill teams, and will furnish suitable grounds for drill purposes. The success of Fraternal day last year, when but a few of the organizations doing business in the state took part, was such that Fraternal day this year, now that the fraternal congress has taken up the matter of attending the largest day in attendance of any day in previous fairs. The fraternal organizations throughout the state are behind the matter and it will be thoroughly advertised through their organizations. A committee representing the Nebraska Fraternal congress will have charge of the matter of prizes, the appointment of judges and such matters otherwise as may come before the committee. The amount of prizes will be announced through the papers and fraternal publications as soon as completed.

New Wheat Reaches Market.
LINWOOD.—The wheat harvest is completed and some threshing has been done. The first load of new wheat that came to market weighed sixty pounds and brought 75 cents per bushel. It averaged twenty-five bushels to the acre and is of excellent quality.

Judge Post Nebraska Delegate.
YORK.—Hon. G. W. Post has been appointed by Governor Mickey as delegate to the Transmississippi territorial congress, to be held at Seattle August 18 to 21.

To Dig for Coal.
LINCOLN.—The Dunbar Mining company of Dunbar, Neb., has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. The company is capitalized at $50,000 and incorporated by J. B. Lichtenwaller, Thomas Murray, H. W. Kruse, J. C. Walker, C. J. Mullis, T. H. Dunbar, F. R. Rose, J. A. Mullis, A. G. Hamilton, H. P. Anderson, C. F. Collins and F. Haschenberger, all local promoters of the company. Mr. Murray, who came to Lincoln for the purpose of filing the articles, states they had a 24-foot vein of coal in sight and that active preparation for developing what they think to be a rich field will be begun at once.

Plattsmouth Girl Shoots Herself.
PLATTSMOUTH.—Gertrude, the 13-year-old daughter of Frank Kunzman, attempted to end her life by shooting herself through the left breast with a revolver. The only known motive which the girl may have had for committing the deed was her fear that she would be punished for going to Omaha without the consent of her parents. Her condition is critical.

Omaha Capitalists Interested.
PLATTSMOUTH.—The attention of some of the Omaha capitalists has evidently been attracted to this part of the state by the published reports of the coal discoveries on that Thomas farm near this city, where a three-foot vein was found at a depth of 200 feet below the residence. This conclusion is reached from the fact that several of them have signaled their intention to come to this city and investigate the discovery for themselves.

State Guard Goes to Riley.
Adjutant General Culver received a telegram from the war department stating that one regiment of the Nebraska National Guard would be ordered to take part in the regular army maneuvers at Fort Riley this year. The war department does not state the date when the troops will be sent to the Kansas town and it is expected that the guards will be kept in ignorance until the last moment for certain reasons.

The fifth elevator is about completed for Minden.

D. W. Annis of Omaha was drowned in Lake Manawa by the upsetting of a boat.

T. B. Bowman, a prominent farmer and politician of Boone county, was thrown in front of a binder and sustained painful injuries to his arm and side.

The Rock Island has bought twenty-two acres out of the Shearon farm west of Fairbury and will build large stock yards and establish a feeding station.

Threshers in Saunders county will charge one-half cent more per bushel for threshing grain than they did last year, and there is considerable discontented talk amongst the farmers concerning a threshers' trust.

Mike Mostke, better known as "Big Mike," was brought to Columbus and lodged in jail. He is charged with an attempted criminal assault upon the person of a married German woman named Henry who lives in Humphrey.

Serious doubts have arisen in the minds of a number of South Omaha people as to the validity of the fire and police commission, recently appointed, and the supreme court will settle the question in the near future.

Jim Gorman, who was lynched by a mob near Basin, Wyo., recently, for two years made his home in and around Wood River. He came there on a mover's wagon in the fall of 1897, and worked around for different farmers until the fall of 1898.

The farm house of John Peters, six miles southwest of Moorfield, was struck by lightning and Mrs. Peters was killed. She was sitting on the edge of the bed quieting her baby. Two other children were standing beside her. The children were uninjured.

J. W. Bookwalter of New York, who is a large land owner in the vicinity of Beatrice, said after returning from a trip over his lands in southeastern Nebraska, that what is very disappointing, yielding from seven to fifteen bushels per acre of very poor quality.

Ray H. Chase of Alexandria, S. D., who has won considerable fame for his excellent marksmanship, has been challenged by A. H. Hardy of Hyattsville, Neb., to a contest. Hardy wishes to meet Chase in a 500-ball contest against time, using rifles, for any purse from $200 to $1,000.

William Pettit, sergeant of L. company, Fort Niobrara, was fatally shot by S. E. Price, proprietor of an immoral house at Valentine, during a discussion of the payment for drinks. Each emptied a six-shooter at the other, but Price had a shotgun with which he shot Pettit in the back as the latter was running away.

The county superintendent of Stanton county has filed his annual report, the first to reach the state superintendent's office. The report shows that the salary of male teachers during the last year has been increased from $45.40 to $59.82, and for female teachers on an average from $36.30 to $38.64. The report also shows that the number of teachers has decreased during the year from seventy-three to sixty-three.

The proposition to bond the town of Springfield in the sum of $8,000 for a system of water works was voted on and carried by a strong vote of 82 to 23. Plans will be drawn and bids will be let at once and it is expected the plan will be in operation by the time snow flies.

Harvest is nearly done in the vicinity of Fairfield. What is apparently the biggest crop of what for years is safely in the stack or shock, but now comes the discovery that the supposed big yield is apparent only, not real; that while there is an excessive amount of straw, the heads are not filled and the berry small.

The state board of educational lands and funds met and authorized the treasurer to invest $60,000 of the permanent school fund in Nance county 3 per cent bonds. The investment will be subject to the approval of the attorney general, who will investigate the bonds in question and determine their validity.

In a row in a wheat field four miles southeast of Ohlawa Henry Pinter was shot by William Franzen, a bartender in an Ohlawa saloon. Pinter was shot three times, one ball passing downward and through the lungs. Franzen is in jail.

The ninth assembly of the Salem Interstate Chautauqua will be held at Salem, Neb., August 1 to 9 inclusive. Rev. Lincoln McConnell, who so successfully superintended the enterprise last year, will act in the same capacity this season.

The first step in the direction of a new court house for Saunders county was taken the other day, when the commissioners ordered a special election to be held Thursday August 13, 1903, for the purpose of voting on a proposition to issue $55,000 bonds of the denomination of $1,000 each, at 3 1/2 per cent interest, payable eleven years from date.

Martin Schuek's 6-year-old daughter ran in front of a mower in Adams county and her left foot was completely severed.

Secretary Rouse of the state banking board is receiving some good reports from the receivers of a number of wrecked banks. The receiver of the Platte Valley bank at Bellwood has reported the first dividend paid to depositors of 5 per cent. The Farmers' bank of Custer county at Broken Bow has reported a 12 1/2 per cent dividend, which makes the total amount paid to depositors 47 1/2 per cent.

Sterling will hold a street fair August 12 and 14.

Locating the Creamery.

The keen competition in modern butter making necessitates systematized work. The minor details closely allied, in this vocation, must be taken into consideration in order to lessen the cost of manufacturing butter and at the same time to produce an improved article. To do this we must look for the most improved and economical means, locate judiciously, manage affairs on business principles, and look for most convenient arrangement. The latter is the easiest to obtain and yet in glancing over the different factories that are in existence at the present time, we find this point sadly neglected. There is a need for better creamery buildings, buildings that are more convenient in arrangement so that they can be kept sanitary. In launching into this business we must first look for a suitable location. The most necessary requirement is to locate near the center of a milk producing district, or rather in a section of the country where the people are naturally inclined toward dairying. It is essential to have a sufficient number of cows to insure enough milk to make a creamery profitable. The total cost of running a creamery and marketing the product, including interest on the investment and provision for a sinking fund, should not exceed 3 1/2 cents for every pound of butter made. Under favorable conditions this cost ought to be reduced to 3 or even as low as 1 1/2 cents. The smallest practical creamery cannot be operated for less than $4 or $5 per day. It becomes evident that the dairy product should be over 150 pounds as a safe minimum. Consequently no creamery should be put into operation unless having control or a promise of about 300 cows. A reliable supply of good pure water is another requisite of great importance. Cold water is advantageous in every respect and at the same time saves ice. The surroundings should be as dust as to insure pure air with as little dust and direct exposure to sunlight as possible. A lawn around the creamery with some trees and shrubs will aid in purifying the air being taken making the surroundings more attractive. A creamery should be located within reasonable distance of some shipping point, where the product can be marketed to the best advantage and that the factor of transportation shall not enter into offset the profit.—Oscar Eif, Before Wisconsin Buttermakers.

Why the Woman Succeeds.

Women make the best and most successful poultry raisers, though perhaps not always the most keen traders when it comes to the buying and selling of poultry and poultry products. But for the mere raising of birds and bringing them to maturity she is a success. It is partly because she has the instinct of a mother and see things that the man poultry raiser does not. In the first place she makes a continual war on dirt and lice. She abhors them in the poultry house as she would in her own family. She wages on these two public enemies such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one cause. So we see that lice such a warfare that she conquers them, and when she has won that victory she has gone a good way toward success. For the most disastrous things in the line of poultry pests are dirt or lice. Some years ago the Farmers' Review sent out a large number of inquiries to poultry raisers asking what was the greatest cause of losses in the poultry business. The replies that came back said lice, more chicks being lost from lice than from any other one