—W. T. Allen has sold his fine young driving horse to A. G. Schroeder. Mr. Allen raised this horse, and he was sired by "Young Sancho," a son of old "Sancho" owned here years ago by Myron Brown. Mr. Schroeder purchased him to match his high-bred driver, and he now has one of the nicest driving teams in this part of Nebraska.
—Wherever Miss Jackson has appeared, she has sang to crowded houses. The Omaha Bee says: "She has one of the most beautiful voices ever heard in the city, and her delightfully rendered solos were received with enthusiastic applause by the large and fashionable audience." At North opera house Monday evening, Nov. 30.

—Julius Huntman, a former Columbus boy who went with his father H. Huntman to Cordova, Maryland, last winter, is visiting his uncle August Huntman near Bobest. Julius evidently has not gone back on all Nebraska, as a marriage license has been granted him to wed Miss Minnie Korte, who lives in the Bobest neighborhood.
—Three tie votes at the recent election were decided one day last week in the county clerk's office by the casting of lots. Wm. She had gone out to meet her daughter-in-law Mrs. Clyde Fraxell, who had just arrived from Omaha, and in some way her ankle turned with the above result. The Fraxell family has been unfortunate lately. Mr. Fraxell not having recovered from his serious accident on the railroad less than two weeks ago.

The lessons will be given from 7 to 8:30 o'clock. For further information call on Miss Smith or Miss Turner.
—Thomas Branigan and a ranchman from Montana returned Monday from Illinois where they had taken two car loads of western horses for market. The last few days of their stay they gave some practical demonstrations of how western ranchmen handle wild horses. Tom says they were very considerate in taking advice from their eastern friends the first few days, but before they left they had the satisfaction of showing the people what they could do with the wild horse.

Arrangements for another game with Fullerton have been made for Thanksgiving day to be played in Columbus when our boys hope to make a better showing as they will be on their own grounds with Columbus spectators to lend enthusiasm. A game will be played next Saturday between Grand Island and Columbus at Grand Island.

Upon arrival in California Mr. and Mrs. Hansen visited some which had recently been planned and the doctor's health was such that he was compelled to go to the hospital. He is now improving however. They expect to remain in California about six months.
—A Girl from Sweden will be seen at North opera house next Friday evening, Nov. 29. It is a comedy drama, which by no means enumerates its many enjoyable features. It is a play of clean diction and the elements of music and song have been so cleverly introduced as to become a part of the story. Each one of the characters is clearly drawn, each one of the scenes is laid in Manitoba, and taken as a whole we are promised the best acting company we will have during the season, giving a thoroughly satisfying performance.
—A few of the pupils of Prof. Alvin E. Pool gave a violin recital Monday evening at the residence of G. O. Burns. The parents and a few friends were invited to listen to the concert and all enjoyed the excellent program rendered. Prof. Pool expects to give these recitals once a month hereafter. Those taking part were: Maud Galley, Arthur Wilson, Helen McAllister, Walter Boettcher, Ernest Marx, Hattie Brodmeier, Marion Becker, Hedwig Jaggi, Willie Hockensberger, Herman Zinnecker, and Lloyd Casin. —A young man giving his name as Goodman, committed a neat piece of forgery on the First National bank of this city last Friday. He had been working three days for J. J. Burke port of town, and in hankling some spinned one of his wrists. After Mr. Burke had paid in cash what was due him, Goodman came to town and about noon presented a check for $35, payable to himself and signed presumably by Mr. Burke. The forgery was not discovered until about four o'clock. The police were called and the man was traced by them to Omaha and it is believed he will be captured soon.
—Several complaints from farmers living north of Shell creek come to this office, who say they are very much inconvenienced in getting to Columbus to do their trading by the bridge over that stream on the Meridian road being out. This is the structure that gave way with the thrashing outfit several weeks ago and as yet nothing has been done to repair the damage. Business men of this city receive quite a share of their trade from that section and would appreciate any effort on the part of officials whom duty it is to see to this matter. The bridge ought to be replaced before the arrival of cold weather.
—Dr. H. J. Arnold returned last Wednesday from an extended visit to the west. He spent several weeks hunting game in the mountains of Idaho and from there went to Portland and then down to California. In San Francisco he visited his brother Bert and Arthur and at Vallejo, California, he visited his other brother Chad, who is a practicing physician in that city. Mrs. Maud Worth Griffin, a former Columbus young lady, and a member of the first graduating class from the Columbus High school, is also a resident of Vallejo. Dr. Arnold spent most of his vacation in southern California with his parents in National City. He says both his mother and father and also his grandmother are enjoying excellent health.

—Miss Laura Gregg, who has made a reputation for herself as an eloquent speaker and an organizer of women's rights societies over the state and nation, will speak in the Congregational church Saturday evening, December 5. Her subject will be "Equal Property Rights and Child Labor." No admission will be charged, and the public is invited to attend. Miss Gregg is a member of the national executive committee, and is the local organizer for the state of Nebraska for the woman suffrage association, with headquarters in Omaha. She has become familiar to the public largely through the debates with A. L. Burby in many of the cities of the state, and her ready wit in replying to Mr. Burby on the public platform, has made her many admirers.
—The committee from the Woman's club composed of Meadames Gear, Messner and Gietzen started Monday to canvass the business men of the city, to find their sentiment in regard to maintaining a public rest room. The ladies met with encouragement from every one, and the only difficulty now seems to be in finding a down stairs room in a suitable location. As THE JOURNAL has mentioned at various times, the object of establishing such a place, is to furnish a convenient room in which women from the country could go to rest while in the city. The country people, as well as the merchants, should be anxious to have such a place established and any encouragement or suggestions from outsiders would no doubt be gladly received by the ladies.
—The fancy stock sale of C. K. Davies last Tuesday has inspired several of the prominent farmers and admirers of fine stock, to form a breeders' association and it is probable that before the winter is past, such an organization will be formed. Mr. Davies says that if there is sufficient interest taken in the matter, he would ask some prominent man of the state to come and give a lecture on the subject. L. C. Larson of Clark, who is a member of the National Breeders' association, could perhaps be secured for the occasion, would be a great aid to those interested in helping to organize. Should the association prove successful Mr. Davies says he will erect a sale stable at his farm. Any one interested in forming an association will talk with or address C. K. Davies, M. Kontrikman, Dr. Evans or Walter Eastman, who will give further particulars.

—The city council met in regular session Friday evening. A communication from Henry Herchenbach, asking permission to move his stock of liquors into his new building and there to conduct the saloon business under his present license, was read and request granted. A report of the inspection of the two steam boilers at the pumping station was submitted by Inspector W. B. Clark and placed on file. W. L. Baker presented a bill of $62.50 for work done on the Meridian road which was allowed by the council. A bill of $13.50 was ordered paid R. E. Langhin for work at the waterworks station. The city treasurer was instructed to notify any merchant who has added any new lines to their stock since April 11, 1918, that they pay such additional occupation tax as required by ordinance.

—W. N. Hensley returned last Tuesday from St. Louis where he had been for several weeks arranging for the manufacture of his present car outfit. He has let the contract to parties there, but will return next week to complete arrangements with the company. He says that the fair next year in St. Louis he believes will be greater in many ways than the Chicago fair. The buildings are being constructed and many foreigners are there now with their exhibits. Last Sunday week 20,000 twenty-five cent admission tickets into the grounds were sold. While in St. Louis Mr. Hensley saw George and Bert Lawrence, L. A. Ewing and George B. Hines. The latter gentleman is superintending the construction of the building of the waterworks system from the river into the city. Mr. Hines was formerly of Columbus, and his wife who also went from there was a Miss Hunt.
