If You Want Seeds That Grow Come to Us.

If you want stock free from foul or foreign seeds, we are the people. If you want seeds grown in 1903, cleaned by our own machinery, here is the place. The best is none too good; you know it; we know it.

We have the quality, the variety and the price.

We can show you the choicest of Red Clover, White Clover, Alfalfa, Alsike Clover, Timothy, Red Top, Bromis Emergis, or Bromegrass, Orchard Grass, English Blye Grass, Meadow Fescue or English Blue Grass, Kentucky Blue Grass, Dwarf Essex Rape, imported seed--German Millet, Hungarian, Cane, Speltz, Buckwheat and Seed Corn.

Our Bulk Garden Seeds

Are from the same growers, Jerome B. Rice & Co., from whom we have purchased for the past eight years, always finding them true to name and germinating the best.

We can furnish you bulk garden seeds as cheap or cheaper, quality considered, as you can get by sending your order away from Columbus. Investigate and see if we are not right on this point and bring your lists and catalogue with you.

—District court began session Monday afternoon. There are about 110 cases on the docket and these will take the time of the jury about three weeks. Judge Hollenbeck is on the bench.

—A. Loeb, formerly of Columbus, now teaching music in the Nebraska State Institution for the Blind, writes to THE JOURNAL that that institution contemplates giving an entertainment soon, in this city.

—Hansen & Stone have filed suit in district court against Charles J. Carrig, alleging that the defendant took unlawful possession of saloon fixtures and liquors belonging to the plaintiffs. The amount asked for is $200 and costs.

—It is a little early for fish stories but true ones are in season any time. Last Sunday while skating on the Loup river, Lon Gutzmer discovered an eight pound cat fish floundering in shallow water and succeeded in landing it, much to his satisfaction.

—Alderman F. A. Matson went down to Columbus on Saturday last to spend Sunday with relatives and friends. He returned Sunday evening, and says that he considers that the city of Madison has a better lighting service than has the capital of Platte county. So says the Chronicle.

—Invitations are out for the thirtieth annual masquerade ball of the Pioneer Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1, which will be given at Orpheus opera house, Monday evening, February 22. Get your poultry in early and take advantage of these high prices as they won't last long. Just across from Bee Hive livery barn. SWIRE & COMPANY. t

—The Columbus bowlers who went up the branch road last Tuesday to play match games with Albion and Genoa were defeated at both places by the following scores: Albion 2401, Columbus 2181; Genoa 2457, Columbus 2191. The team from here consisted of G. J. Hagel, D. C. Karamanah, W. J. Gregorina, J. W. Feible and A. Deha.

—Ben Walters, who left Columbus about two years ago and has made Grand Island his home since that time, has returned to this city with his family composed of wife and daughter and will make this their abiding place once again.

—The C. R. Tomlin place corner of North and Fifteenth streets is being renovated for their occupancy.

—There will be a special meeting of the A. O. U. W. lodge on Wednesday night, Feb. 17, at 8 o'clock, to which all members of the order and their families are cordially invited. There will be a good program and an address by Mrs. Mary Latta, Grand Chief of Honor of the lodge, in behalf of the Degree of Honor, an auxiliary of the A. O. U. W. A good time is expected.

—Mrs. Anna Hoffman died last Wednesday evening at the home of her son, John D. Hoffman, southeast of this city. The deceased was born in Germany May 25, 1827. Her husband died eight years ago. She leaves two sons and one daughter, all residing near Columbus. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Gammehart at the home, and interment made in the Shell Creek cemetery.

—Frank Marzak, who had lived near Dunbar for twenty-five years, died Saturday night of last week at the Konlovski home in Dunbar where he has made his home for the past three years. Mr. Marzak was about 97 years old and served in the Polish war for freedom. He leaves one son who lives on the island. His wife died four years ago. The deceased was buried on Monday.

—The lecture bureau from which the High school engages their talent for the course of lectures, has offered to send free of charge to the committee Hans R. Welbourne who will lecture in the Orpheus opera house next Tuesday evening, February 23. To those holding membership tickets admission is free, reserved seats 10 cents. General admission, 25 and 35 cents, now on sale at Pollock's.

—The teachers of the city are in correspondence with Prof. Bremer of the state university and hope to secure him on March 4, for two lectures. Should they be successful in bringing him, he will lecture in the afternoon on the subject of insects and in the evening about birds. Prof. Bremer has not only a wide, but general reputation as an authority upon these subjects and those who know him speak in praise of his entertaining talks.

—The Masonic society held a banquet and dance Saturday evening in celebration of the twenty-seventh anniversary of that organization. Rev. Newmarker gave the address of the evening and Prof. Sike led the orchestra for dancing. To the laughter of the members is due the credit of the banquet which is reported the finest served for years. There were about one hundred present and all spent a very enjoyable evening.

—Nick Adams has purchased 160 acres of pasture land lying just north of Mrs. E. J. Young's farm, which is part of the M. H. White dairy farm. The land which lies alongside a slough and has no improvements, was sold for $47.50 an acre. Mr. Adams will fence the place in part for the present, but contemplates at some future time to build a residence thereon and move his family from his present home ten miles north of town.

—The Commercial club met Tuesday evening and elected W. A. McAllister president. The club decided to hereafter allow the secretary $100 a year for his services, and appointed a committee to find a suitable person to fill that important position. D. Schupbach, wishes to establish a wholesale lumber yard here, but objects to the present high freight rates and at the called meeting of the club on Thursday Walter Phillips presented his case and plans to the club for consideration, and it is probable that efforts will be made to have a reduction from present charges on lumber.

—John Curry's team hitched to a wagon loaded with shelled corn, was tied to a post across the street from Way & Co.'s office Saturday afternoon and becoming restless, broke loose and took a lively spin around the corner and west on Thirteenth street, spilling considerable corn over the side of the wagon. The racing speed with a 50 bushel load of corn was not very enjoyable, so they slackened their pace and were stopped in front of the North opera house. No damage was done except the breaking of the doubletree and a few bruises to Mr. Way, who stumbled in his chase after the team.

—According to the Howells Journal, some of the sons of Ham traveling with the Alabama Minstrel Co. got themselves into trouble at that place by allowing their appetites to get the best of them and raiding a chicken house. When members of the company were accused of the theft the manager did not seem to be greatly surprised and made some remarks about "niggers" having a fondness for chickens; he appeared to be anxious to right the matter and said his cook would know whether or not any chickens had been brought into the car. That individual acknowledged that there had been and that they were still in the wood-box. The matter was settled by the manager paying the complainant three dollars for the fowls. Dear meat after all.

—The following mention of the death of Jonas Hedman, well known to the old settlers of this section was published in last week's Genoa Leader. Mr. Hedman was 71 years old and died Monday of last week, as noted in the last issue of THE JOURNAL. The deceased was born in Sweden March 29, 1833, and came to this country in early manhood. About thirty-five years ago he settled at what is known as Kankakee, two miles east of Genoa, where he resided until two years ago when he came to town. The only relatives he has in this country are several small grandchildren. His wife and six children are all buried in the Friends' cemetery east of town and his remains were laid beside them on Wednesday, the funeral being held at the Friends' church on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Tieknor conducting the services.

—The city council of Clark at one of its meetings recently passed and approved the granting of right of way to G. T. Everett of this city for the erection and maintaining of an Independent Telephone exchange. The ordinance was passed at one meeting, and now the people on the outside are wondering how it was accomplished so quickly. The Clark Enterprise says: "Mr. Everett, of whom nothing appears to be known here, has been exceedingly—shall we say abrupt—in this matter, and his plans are not well understood. We will endeavor to secure a little more light on the subject before making comment." The good people of Clark need not have any fears in regard to the honesty or integrity of Mr. Everett. And from a business standpoint, we would not doubt but that within one year's time Clark will rejoice that they have such an installation. Columbus is now connected with hundreds of business as well as business men in and around the city, and the importance in the country is no longer considered a luxury but a necessity in this neighborhood.

—Mrs. Frank Benton of Omaha came up Saturday to visit a week with her mother, Mrs. Condon. She was accompanied by her son Harold.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Schroeder accompanied the Nebraska grain dealers association on a trip to New Orleans, expecting to be gone about three weeks. They left Columbus Wednesday.

—Mrs. O. T. Ross left Friday for Los Angeles, California, where she will visit her brother Charles George. Mrs. Ross goes west hoping to regain her health, and expects to remain three months.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Mielenz, who have since leaving here last fall been living in Humphrey and Stanton, were visiting friends Friday. Mrs. Mielenz and children went to Albion Friday and Mr. Mielenz left for Chicago where he expects to find employment.

—Charles B. Hanford made his third annual visit to Columbus Monday and played in the evening, Richard III, by Shakespeare. Hanford is a great favorite here and was greeted by an unusually large audience which was fully appreciative of his excellent work. Upon invitation several selections from Shakespeare were rendered at the High school by Mr. Hanford to the students.

—Eber Smith, brother of A. J. Smith, has purchased the residence property just west of the Columbia brewery, from John F. Schroeder, one of the old settlers of this county, a retired farmer from Creston township. Besides the house and two lots, Mr. Smith also purchased about one block of land south and expects to make the place his home, and may engage in farming on a small scale. Mr. Schroeder left Wednesday for Baltimore to visit an uncle, but will return soon and then arrange for an European trip. The couple expect to finally make their home in Ohio.

—The Schuyler Quill says that the chicory plant at that place to be reaped this year is the announcement being made by the present owners of the building. A meeting was held recently and it was decided by the interested parties to endeavor to regain what they have now in the building and machinery. J. W. Bush will probably be the head man of the new enterprise. He proposes to push the output of the plant and will be ready next week to make contract with parties who will raise the roof. Ten dollars a ton will be paid at the factory on delivery. The cultivators to furnish seed, although they can purchase the seed from the chicory company, they having sent direct to Germany for a consignment. It is claimed that the roof will run from 7 to 10 tons to an acre and that parties raising it get good returns from their land.

—W. M. Corneilus, Judge Sullivan, J. D. Stires and I. Gitek were all at Omaha Friday attending the hearing of the case between the city and the Union Pacific railroad company in regard to the opening of M street. The Union Pacific claims the street has been donated to the company by the city and that it was long since abandoned for thoroughfare purposes, because of the number of tracks of the railroad company crossing it. The attorneys for Columbus argued that the city had no right to deed the street in question to the railroad company and that the ordinance creating such a deed or granting such authority was without right, authority or precedent, and was additionally invalid because it was not read the requisite number of times before passage and consequently any right guaranteed to the railroad company under such ordinance was wholly invalid. The railroad company made no argument on Friday, but were given until today, Tuesday, to file their answer. They were not prepared for the argument filed by our attorneys.

—The firemen were called to the Thurston hotel Thursday morning at 1:30, a blaze having been discovered by the night clerk. A refrigerator which is built on to the north part of the kitchen caught fire from coal ashes that had been thrown near the wall and when first seen by Frank Campbell, the clerk, had gained quite a headway. Mr. Campbell immediately ran to the North street fire house, rang the bell and then hauled the hose cart to the hotel. The firemen were handicapped by the water hydrant at the hotel being frozen and when they went to the one at the park found it in the same condition. They then ran to the Leiber corner two blocks east of the Thurston and were compelled to attach extra hose in order to reach the blaze, and soon extinguished it. From the time the first bell rang until the hydrant was notified the public that the fire was under control, was not more than thirty minutes, showing the quick response and excellent work of the firemen. The damage to the building is about $300. The proximity to the kitchen, which was filled with smoke, made the scare for the safety of the three-story brick structure a very serious one for a few minutes, and Mr. Lehmann immediately notified the guests in the building, about fifty in number, of the situation and advised them to be prepared to leave the building in case of danger. The firemen have received much praise for their good work in handling this fire which might have resulted in great loss to the city.
