

News in Brief

The estate of the late William C. Whitney of New York is estimated at $21,234,101.

Rear Admiral Philip H. Cooper, commander-in-chief of the station, will be retired on August 4.

Western members of the republican executive committee are soon to confer in Chicago with Chairman Cortelyou.

The congressional merchant marine commission completed its work in Seattle and departed for Tacoma last night.

Albert F. Dawson, private secretary for United States Senator Allison, has been nominated for congress by republicans of the Second Iowa district.

William Preston Harrison, brother of Mayor Harrison, is named as a co-respondent in a counter suit for divorce brought by Andrew P. Carter in New York.

A court at Naples which has been judging a contested will case has decided that the pope is capable of inheriting in Italy, which hitherto had been disputed.

One man was killed and another painfully injured by the explosion of a fifty-gallon siphon which they were testing in a New York soda water apparatus factory.

Capt. Gross, an instructor of the German army balloon corps, has left Berlin for St. Louis, where he will observe the dirigible balloon contests in behalf of the war office.

Tobstol, in acknowledging the receipt of a copy of Herbert Spencer's autobiography, writes that he did not like the English philosopher because he had little heart.

It is reported that the general freight offices of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad are to be removed to St. Louis at an early date, and that other departments will follow.

Major Kirkpatrick of the Third regiment, Ohio National Guard, has been acquitted by a court-martial of the charge of disobedience of orders, growing out of the Springfield riots in March.

The first annual reunion of the United Spanish Veterans will be held in St. Louis instead of Indianapolis on account of the failure to stop-over privileges from the railroads.

The will of Mrs. Mary F. Scanlan of St. Louis, disposing of an estate valued at $1,000,000, has been admitted to probate. The bulk of the property is divided among the children and grand-children.

Two young women of Rochester, Ind., have declared their intention to walk to the World's fair on a wagon, taking Kirkpatrick of the Third regiment, Ohio National Guard, has been acquitted by a court-martial of the charge of disobedience of orders, growing out of the Springfield riots in March.

A letter from Elihu Root declining a nomination for governor is considered at a conference of republican leaders in New York and other candidates were discussed, but no conclusion was reached.

Eight large sticks of dynamite and two dozen percussion caps were found under the Santa Fe station at El Paso, Tex. The explosives were so arranged that it is thought any heavy car would have set them off.

Judge Lacombe in New York, has dismissed the indictment against John A. Benson of California, who was charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States in the acquisition of school lands in Oregon and California.

Lee Shubert, the New York theatrical manager, is held by the authorities at Aux-Chapelle, Germany, for having military plans in his possession, but which he claims are photographic plates for use in a new play.

Secretary Hay, after a hard struggle to learn the Russian language, has finally given it up. He says that he has a most profound respect for anyone who has ever succeeded in acquainting himself with this iniquitous abomination.

An ingenious method employed in the Philippines to secure an adequate gas supply is to slash the coconut oil, a native product, into strong castor retorts, after the latter are brought to a red heat in furnaces. This produces a very high quality of illuminating gas, free from smoke and tar.

Prof. O. F. Cook, who discovered the Gatemanian ants, said to be an enemy to the cotton boll weevil, has arrived in Washington with several colonies of the ants. A report of the experiments with the ants has been made to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson.

The question of night admission to 25 cents for night admission to the St. Louis exposition, has been finally disposed of by the board of directors voting almost unanimously against the proposition.

According to news from Fez, the Sultan is collecting a big army outside Fez. The invasion tent has already been pitched outside the walls of Fez, which is taken to indicate that the Sultan will personally lead his forces against the pretender, who is active in the districts of Taza and Uda.

Gen. Isaac Kaha, special ambassador of the Shah of Persia to Mexico, has been appointed Persian minister to Austria. Persia has appointed a nephew of General Kaha as minister to the United States and Mexico. He will arrive later in the autumn.

From January 1 to July 26, 7,825,866 Japanese yen have been received at the San Francisco mint and converted into money for the Philippine islands. The aggregate amount in American money is $2,912,933. For twenty-six days of June alone the amount is $4,155,125.

Isaac W. Barnum, a nephew of the great showman, and inventor of the sewing attachment for sewing machines, out of which he made millions, died in absent poverty in a cellar in Brooklyn, where he had lately lived on the charity of former friends.

KILLED BY A BOMB

Russian Minister of the Interior is Assassinated.

Was on his way to see czar

Assassin Makes Attack Upon Officer on Busy Thoroughfare of City—Coachman Also Killed and the Horses Fatally Wounded.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Minister of the Interior von Plehve was assassinated while driving to the Warsaw station to visit the Peterhof.

A bomb was thrown under the minister's carriage, completely shattering it. M. von Plehve was terribly mangled. The crime was committed at 10 o'clock.

The coachman was killed, and the wounded and maddened horses dashed wildly away with the front wheels of the carriage, the only portion of the vehicle remaining intact. Immediately there ensued a scene of the wildest confusion. Police and gendarmes hurried from every direction and vast crowds gathered about the spot where the mangled body of the minister lay weltering in his blood.

MINISTER M. VON PLEHVE

The Associated Press correspondent was at the scene of the tragedy within five minutes after it occurred. M. von Plehve's mangled body was lying in the middle of the road. It had been partially covered with a police officer's overcoat, with the left arm of the bone of which was broken off, projecting. A policeman came up and raised the overcoat in order to reveal the strong features of the dead minister, whose head was battered almost beyond recognition.

The roadway was strewn for 100 yards with the wreckage of the carriage, and pieces of the red lining of the coachman's hat. M. von Plehve's body lay a shapeless heap of the coachman's remains.

M. von Plehve was said to be on his way to visit the czar. The tragedy occurred on the Zlatkovski prospect, a broad thoroughfare leading to the Warsaw depot, where the road turns sharply to the left toward the Baltic railroad station. The exact spot at which the outrage occurred is just before the bridge spanning the circular canal, on the other side of which both stations are situated.

The horses were injured here on Sunday perfectly well that Minister von Plehve would pass the spot, for the minister makes his report to the czar every Thursday.

The infernal machine was thrown with deadly accuracy, and the assassin was fired by the fact that the train here is always of the heaviest, owing to the crossing of lines of surface cars and the continuous stream of heavy trucks. M. von Plehve was always apprehensive of attempts upon his life, and used to drive as rapidly as possible. The coachman, however, was compelled to go slow at this point.

The assassin, in laying his plans, evidently foresaw this circumstance, and while the minister's coachman slowed down, threw the bomb. The explosion was terrific, and practically annihilated the woodwork of the carriage. The horses were injured here on Sunday perfectly well that Minister von Plehve would pass the spot, for the minister makes his report to the czar every Thursday.

The wounded man, who is said to be a Jew, was taken to the Alexander hospital, so dazed as to be unable to speak. His condition was accounted for by the fact that he took poison immediately after throwing the bomb.

It is reported that six men are implicated and that five of them fled into a little hut adjoining the scene of the assassination, and only one who was wounded, having been captured. The hotel was surrounded by the police and all its inmates were arrested.

The wounded man, who is said to be a Jew, was taken to the Alexander hospital, so dazed as to be unable to speak. His condition was accounted for by the fact that he took poison immediately after throwing the bomb.

It is reported that six men are implicated and that five of them fled into a little hut adjoining the scene of the assassination, and only one who was wounded, having been captured. The hotel was surrounded by the police and all its inmates were arrested.

The wounded man, who is said to be a Jew, was taken to the Alexander hospital, so dazed as to be unable to speak. His condition was accounted for by the fact that he took poison immediately after throwing the bomb.

It is reported that six men are implicated and that five of them fled into a little hut adjoining the scene of the assassination, and only one who was wounded, having been captured. The hotel was surrounded by the police and all its inmates were arrested.

The wounded man, who is said to be a Jew, was taken to the Alexander hospital, so dazed as to be unable to speak. His condition was accounted for by the fact that he took poison immediately after throwing the bomb.

It is reported that six men are implicated and that five of them fled into a little hut adjoining the scene of the assassination, and only one who was wounded, having been captured. The hotel was surrounded by the police and all its inmates were arrested.

The wounded man, who is said to be a Jew, was taken to the Alexander hospital, so dazed as to be unable to speak. His condition was accounted for by the fact that he took poison immediately after throwing the bomb.

It is reported that six men are implicated and that five of them fled into a little hut adjoining the scene of the assassination, and only one who was wounded, having been captured. The hotel was surrounded by the police and all its inmates were arrested.

The wounded man, who is said to be a Jew, was taken to the Alexander hospital, so dazed as to be unable to speak. His condition was accounted for by the fact that he took poison immediately after throwing the bomb.

It is reported that six men are implicated and that five of them fled into a little hut adjoining the scene of the assassination, and only one who was wounded, having been captured. The hotel was surrounded by the police and all its inmates were arrested.

The wounded man, who is said to be a Jew, was taken to the Alexander hospital, so dazed as to be unable to speak. His condition was accounted for by the fact that he took poison immediately after throwing the bomb.

It is reported that six men are implicated and that five of them fled into a little hut adjoining the scene of the assassination, and only one who was wounded, having been captured. The hotel was surrounded by the police and all its inmates were arrested.

The wounded man, who is said to be a Jew, was taken to the Alexander hospital, so dazed as to be unable to speak. His condition was accounted for by the fact that he took poison immediately after throwing the bomb.

It is reported that six men are implicated and that five of them fled into a little hut adjoining the scene of the assassination, and only one who was wounded, having been captured. The hotel was surrounded by the police and all its inmates were arrested.

SUNK BY TORPEDO.

Russian Boats at Port Arthur Sent to Bottom.

Chief Foo—8 p. m.—Russian reports

CHIEF FOO—8 p. m.—Russian reports which have arrived here refer to the Lieutenant Burknot and two other Russian torpedo boat destroyers were torpedoed and totally destroyed by the Japanese on the night of July 25.

TOKIO—In a daring night attack against a Russian force estimated at five divisions, with 100 guns, General Oku succeeded in driving the enemy from their strong line of defense south of Ta Tche Kiao.

Advancing on Sunday, General Oku found a superior force confronting him and that a heavy artillery fire from the enemy was checking his men. He thereupon decided to hold the positions he then held and to attempt a night surprise. This was successful, the Japanese troops hustling the Russians into retreat to Ta Hcho Kiao. The Japanese had only 300 casualties. No estimates of the Russian losses are given.

The Takushan army did not participate in the fight, it being located to the east of Ta Tche Kiao. Moving to the northwest, this Takushan force of the minister of the interior, was pronounced in all walks of life. Those present numbered about 120.

Speaker Cannon delivered the speech of notification, to which the president responded at considerable length.

ALLIED TRADESMEN TO GO OUT. Packing House Mechanics at South Omaha Join the Strikers.

SOUTH OMAHA—In response to orders received from Chicago all the members of the allied trades employed at the packing house at South Omaha walked out at noon Tuesday.

As I have stated before, we are fully prepared to fill the places of the men who went out, and smoke will continue to pour from the Cudahy stacks.

The Russian himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

The emperor himself walked a short distance, but as the Novodevichy cemetery was only a few blocks away, and the body was placed in a great white open hearse, drawn by six coal black horses, which were blanketed from their ears to their tails in summer trappings. A black-garbed groom stood at each horse, and in advance of the hearse a line of men in black coats and caps, carrying black banners. Behind the hearse walked the members of the minister's family, and then came a long and distinguished body of mourners, it being the Russian custom to follow the dead to the grave on foot.

NOW IN THE TOMB

FUNERAL OF VON PLEHVE HELD AT ST. PETERSBURG.

EVERYWHERE THE BELLS TOLL

Impressive and Imporing Services—Notable Characters of Russia Stand with Bowed Heads about the Flowered and Caparisoned Bier.

ST. PETERSBURG.—M. von Plehve, the minister of the interior, who was assassinated Thursday morning last, was buried Sunday, and in every city of this vast empire church bells were tolled and masses and prayers said for the repose of the soul of the murdered minister.

The services here, which were according to the rites of the orthodox church, were of an impressive and imposing character. At 11 o'clock high mass was said in the stately chapel adjoining the ministry of the interior.

Emperor Nicholas and the dowager empress stood with the broken-hearted widow and the children at a great mound of flowers on which rested the casket. To the right, on gold-embroidered cushions, before a mass of wreaths banked to the ceiling, were ranged the decorations which had been won by the statesman during his notable career.

To the left were the metropolitan of St. Petersburg and the official bishops and priests in their gold-embroidered vestments. A screen of flowers concealed the famous imperial boys' choir.

Among those present were other members of the imperial family, the foreign representatives, including Spencer Eddy, charge d'affaires of the American embassy; ministers of the empire, generals, admirals, nobles, governors of distant provinces, like those of Astrakhan and Irkutsk; in fact, all high officialdom, not even omitting Genghis Khan, a liberal descendant of Napoleon, of Asia, who is now a major general in the Russian service.

The entire assemblage was in full uniform, and on the arm of each one were pinned the medals and decorations which he had won in his career.

Orders for the walkout were received by President George Sterrett Monday night and the word was passed around among the men at the plant. When the night force of men went to work Tuesday morning they took their working clothes with them. The day shift men did the same when they quit at noon. Good order prevailed during the walkout, the men leaving the plants quietly. Many went directly to the streets, where they drifted towards labor headquarters to hear the latest news.

In speaking of the mechanical workers' walkout General Manager Murphy said: "We are glad the matter is settled. For a time the men kept telling us they would not go out and led us to believe they were satisfied to remain in the plant. The new wage scale was pending. Now that these men have gone out we know just exactly where we are. As I have stated before, we are fully prepared to fill the places of the men who went out, and smoke will continue to pour from the Cudahy stacks."

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign make, though it is believed to have been loaded in St. Petersburg by a small and melon-shaped, and is believed to be fully as powerful as the one that killed von Plehve.

The bomb which the accomplice dropped in the canal after the assassination was recovered by the police. It is of foreign