Hay Rack Party.

(Thursday's Daily)

About twenty five Columbus young ladies, including some of the young married ladies, packed their lunch baskets yesterday, chartered a hayrack and drove to Stevens' grove to spend the afternoon. The horses and hayrack were decorated with flags and bunting, and the variety and quality of the good things in the baskets must have exhausted the best cook books in the city. No authentic report of what happened during the afternoon while the ladies were left to themselves can be obtained. But there was plenty of vocal accompaniment audible at seven o'clock when the husbands of the few married ladies arrived to partake of the picnic dinner.

Miss Florence Whitmoyer and Mrs. Chas. Dack "passed things" to the guests who were seated on blankets around the table, and Miss Martha Post poured the coffee which she had most skillfully prepared over the most primitive kind of camp fire. After dinner a huge camp fire was built around which some of the guests sat and told stories while others were boat riding, buggy riding, performing mock marriages, or cetera. Upon their return the party were driven to see the street carnival.

The Misses Sarah and Mabel Muir of Lincoln, guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Abbott, were the guests of honor. Mr. Albert Becker was the only unmarried man present.

Touched by Colored Lady.

(Thursday's Daily)

A new page was written in the criminal records of Columbus this morning when County Attorney Latham went before Judge Ratterman and filed complaint against Mary Smith, colored, charging her with larceny from the person of Will Bell, white. The items charged to have been stolen were a certificate of deposit in the First National Bank for $30, two silver dollars and a five dollar bill and a pocket book.

The "hold-up" took place just east of Oehrich's store during the progress of the carnival performance. Bell got mixed up with two colored girls, strangers, one of whom was Mary. Just after he left them he missed his pocket book. He immediately called Officers Schack and Axel Nelson and they arrested the girl. Meanwhile a colored gentleman had joined the girls. The pocket book had disappeared but the girl had either the money in question or some more like it in ner stocking. After considerable argument and the use of a little force Axel Nelson succeeded in landing Mary in the city jail where she was kept until under the charge of Mr. Latham this morning she was transferred to the county jail to await her trial which is set for Saturday.

This is the first arrest of a colored woman during the term of Mr. Latham and probably the first in the history of the city.

The Carnival drew a large crowd at its opening last night and the police report that everything passed off peaceably. Large crowds are expected from the country the rest of the week. The police are on the alert to keep things within the proper bounds.

From Mrs. Karlin.

(Thursday's Daily)

The Journal has received an interesting letter from a former resident here, Mrs. C. Karlin, now of Bridgeport, Okl. Mrs. Karlin seems to be delighted with the new country.

She writes under date of July 25: We are having plenty of rain this year. We have a big crop of oats and wheat was good. The corn crop will be a big one and cotton is looking as fine as it could look. We have had ripe melons for two weeks or more.

It was three years ago that we put our fruit trees out and this spring we had a big crop of peaches, cherries, apples, pears, plums, apricots, gooseberries and blackberries.

This is a great country for garden stuff to grow. The land is worth from $2,000 to $5,000 for 100 acres. This part of the country is better improved in four years than Nebraska was when we left there. This is a healthy country. It is four years last June since we came here and we have had no sickness at all. Though some parts of Oklahoma have poor water, we have good water here.

Boys Raise Corn.

Five hundred Nebraska boys and girls are toiling in the few hours each day they are able to steal from play to show the farmers of the state how to raise seed corn. The small army, under the leadership of Deputy State Superintendent Bishop of the department of public instruction is following up and practically demonstrating the theories of seed corn culture advanced by the professors of the Nebraska university agricultural experiment station on the many tours of the state made this spring over the several railroad assisting in the campaign of education.

Prizes have been offered by the department of education for the best seed corn raised in the contest. On each of the home farms of the parents of the contestants little plots of ground have been set aside for the experiments and each morning the boys and girls go out to tend the corn as instructed by Superintendent Bishop. Every few days the superintendent receives a letter from the contestants, telling how the corn is progressing. These are immediately answered and suggestion given to those to those in trouble.

The following young farmer lads in Platte county have entered the contest: Humphrey—Edward Foltz, Leo Weidner, Willie Minkes; Creston—Floyd Sharron; Columbus—N. C. Abel; Monroe—Edwin Hoar, Jr.—Platte County Leader.

Letter From Miss Wise.

(Friday's Daily)

The Journal received a postal card today from Miss Wise, the contents of which will be of interest to our many friends here:

Seattle, Wash., July, 21th, Editor Journal.

We have been enjoying the cool weather, beautiful parks and lakes of Seattle for the past ten days or more. Tomorrow we leave for Portland to spend a few days at the Fair, then to Oregon City and to the coast before returning home.

Respectfully,

Alice M. Wise.
