THE SAIS OF EGYPT.

Warning Runner Who Belley Like a Ball as He Gers.

The sais is a runner who keeps h front of a carriage and warns common people out of the way and who beats them with a stick if they do not hurry up about it.

It is obvious that to do this run quickly. Most men when they run bend their bodies forward and keep their mouths closed in order to save their wind. The sais runs with his shoulders thrown back and trumpet ing like an enraged elephant. He holds his long wand at his side like a mus ket and not trailing in his hand like a walking stick, and he wears a soft shirt of white stuff and a sleeveless coat buried in gold lace.

A Barbarous Polley.

After the Dutch had taken the Momeens from the Portuguese they introduced the cultivation of the clove into their own possessions, cut down all the clove trees of the Moluccas and pronounced death on any one who would plant a single clove bush or gather or sell a pound of the product. Expeditions were sent from their other castern possessions every year to cut down any bushes that might have accidentally started in the Molucca is lands. This barbarous policy made the islands a desert, for, deprived of their forests, the volcanic soll was washed away, and the population starved or was deported.

His Fair Share. The Chinese always have understood the great art of making the punishment fit the crime. Man or joss, if he offends, gets exactly his deserts. Viceroy Shum, who was antious to see the end of the heavy rainfalls, was very angry with the guardian joes of Canton, who remained deaf to all prayers to bring about a little sunshine. A Welyuen was dispatched to the temple with orders to uncover the roof over the joss' head and let him have his fair share of the rain.
