Adjutant General Culver Would Stimulate Military Pride—The Will of Mr. Rosewater.

Will Offer Prizes.

LINCOLN—Adjutant General Culver will offer prizes to the best drilled squads, sections, platoons and companies at the next annual encampment. He hopes to stimulate interest in drill so that the entire year will see drilling in the armories in the state. As it is now, the companies drill for several months prior to encampment, and then take a long vacation after it is over. The adjutant general is in Columbus inspecting the range used by the sharpshooters in preparing for the national contest.

It is rumored that General Culver is looking for suitable location of maneuver grounds, which he hopes to purchase for the permanent use of the guard. He has been tendered the abandoned Fort Niobrara reservation, but it is too much out of the way to be usable by the militia. The transportation to and from Fort Niobrara would annually cost a small fortune. General Culver will select land in the central part of the state on the Platte river.

It is probable that he will select Hayes, Hitchcock, Cook, Dundey and Chase counties as the first field of the campaign.

Entire Fishing Fleet of 600 Vessels Lost in Typhoon—Troops Aid in Clearing Up Wreckage.

Hong-Kong.—The entire fleet of 600 fishing junks was lost in the typhoon. This increases the mortality to 10,000 persons.

The losses are estimated at several million dollars. More than 1,000 sampans and junks are missing from Hong-Kong alone. Wharves were swept away and houses collapsed. The military barracks are in ruins.

Twelve ships were sunk, 24 were stranded, seven were damaged, and one-half of the native craft in port were sunk.

The steamers Montague, Fatshan, Keungshan, Wing Chal, Hernania, Castellano, Tak Hing, Emma Luyken, San Rosario, Slava, Pakhong, Pet-rarch, Chum Lee, Sexta, Sunon, Chang Sha, Signal and Chinkai Maru are ashore.

DEATH LIST STILL UNKNOWN

Cimarron River Keeps the Secret of Its Victims.

Kingfisher, Okla.—The number of lives lost Tuesday when a Rock Island passenger train went through a bridge over the Cimarron river, is not yet revealed and probably never will be.

Workmen have been busy replacing the destroyed bridge. The smoker, engine, baggage and mail cars are still hidden under the waters of the river, although the stream has fallen several feet.

All work at the scene of the Rock Island wreck at Dover bridge has been suspended. The rescue party has lost all trace of the location of the two coaches in the river. Both are thought to be entirely embedded in sand.

Most of the injured have gone to their homes. Three persons are still missing—Mail Clerk Gamble, Circum-Letter and negro porter Douglas—and are undoubtedly drowned. Those with the death of a little boy named Zella, of Payne, O., from injuries, make the death list four.

DOUBLE MISSOURI TRAGEDIES

They Cause Loss of Three Lives at Excelsior Springs.

Excelsior Springs, Mo.—Three lives were sacrificed in two tragedies which occurred here. Domestic trouble caused Jerome Curry, manager of the Central Sash and Door company, of Topeka, Kan., to shoot and kill his wife and then kill himself. At almost the same hour James Farley, a contractor, aged 40 years, of this city, walked into a drug store and poured out a cup of carbolic acid from a five-gallon bottle and drank it.

The Curry tragedy occurred on a bridge leading to one of the springs. Mrs. Curry, who was 53 years old, has been here since August 25. Her husband came last night. They appeared to be on good terms until they started for a walk to-day when a quarrel ensued. Mrs. Curry suddenly started to run when her husband fired at her three times. As she fell, he fired a bullet through his own brain. He was 55 years old.

Farley was despondent over the recent death of his wife.

BLAST WRECKS TOWN

TONS OF DYNAMITE BLOWN UP AT JELICO, TENN.

TWELVE PERSONS KILLED

Property Loss Estimated at $600,000—Carelessness of Two Men Results in the Awful Disaster.

Jellico, Tenn.—Twelve deaths, the injuring of scores of other persons and $600,000 damage to property were caused here Friday when a carload of dynamite standing on a track near the Southern depot exploded with a report that was heard for 20 miles.

There is a bare possibility that other bodies may be recovered from the ruins of buildings, but this is hardly probable.

Buildings were shattered in the business section of the town and nearly every piece of glass within a radius of one mile of the scene was broken.

The explosion occurred at eight o'clock Friday morning. The freight car, belonging to the Pennsylvania railroad lines, contained 450 boxes, about 20,000 pounds, of high explosives consigned to the Rand Powder company, at Clearfield, Tenn.

Near the scene of the explosion there was ruin and wild panic. Men shrieked and groaned as they died. Buildings tumbled to the ground, and a large part of the business district of the city was reduced to a pile of rubbish. From beneath the wreckage men and women, maimed and bleeding, struggled into the streets and fled at a mad pace, without stopping to ascertain the nature of the disaster.

Two causes are assigned for the explosion. One is that three parties were shooting at a mark on the car and that a bullet entered the car and caused the explosion. The other is that while the car was standing on a side track a carload of pig iron was switched against it and that the impact caused the explosion.

Without exception every business house in the town is either totally wrecked or badly damaged. The union depot of the Southern railway and the Louisville & Nashville railroad, located about one hundred yards from the scene of the explosion, was shattered to splinters. This cut off all telegraphic communication and news of the explosion was handled by telephone.

The explosion occurred upon the Kentucky side of Jellico, and in consequence every house on that side of the town is wrecked. Not one was spared. A large number of residences located near the railroad on the Kentucky side were without exception demolished. As a result it is estimated that one-seventh of the population of the two Jellicos is homeless.

The line between Tennessee and Kentucky runs through the town of Jellico. The explosion occurred on the Kentucky side, but owing to the interruption of wire communication, the dispatch telling of the accident was sent from Jellico, Tenn.

This was accepted as satisfactory by Senator Edgar T. Brackett, of Saratoga, who was in this city preparing to contest the will in behalf of Edson M. Conrad, of Watervliet, N. Y., a grandson of one of Mr. Sage's sisters. Under this settlement Conrad will receive $12,500, instead of $6,250, and each of the 26 nephews and nieces of Mr. Sage who were to receive $25,000, will be given $50,000.

ILLINOIS STATESMAN DIES

CONGRESSMAN HITT PASSES AWAY IN THE EAST.

Heart Disease Ends Long Period of Ill Health—His Long and Varied Career.

Narragansett Pier, R. I.—Congressman Robert Roberts Hitt, of Illinois, died at his summer home here, after a long illness.

Congressman Hitt came here last June, and since that time he has been ill, requiring, most of the time, the constant attention of nurses and physicians.

The congressman's condition was due to advancing years. He was 72 years old.

His health, continuing through two years at least, which, for the most part, unfitted him for his congressional duties, had afflicted Representative Hitt so that his demise was not altogether unexpected. In fact, the great part of the work of the important committee on foreign affairs of the house of representatives, of which Mr. Hitt was chairman during the entire last session of the last congress, was discharged first by Representative Robert Adams, of Pennsylvania, up to the time of his tragic death last spring, and afterwards by Representative Cousins, of Iowa; Charles Landis, of Indiana, and Perkins, of New York.

Mr. Hitt's career was a varied one, embracing newspaper work, diplomacy and legislation. As a young man he was intimately associated with Abraham Lincoln, and as an expert stenographer reported many of that statesman's utterances in the great joint campaign with Stephen A. Douglas, as a representative of a Chicago newspaper. His diplomatic career began in 1874 as secretary of legation to Paris, and in 1881 he went to Washington as assistant secretary of state. The year following he was elected to the Forty-seventh congress from the Thirteenth Illinois district, and he was serving his thirteenth continuous term at the time of his death.

SAVES OWN LIFE; IS FINED.

Connecticut Man Punished for Killing Acker on Sabbath Day.

New York.—A Danbury (Conn.) dispatch gives an example of the workings of the Connecticut blue laws. Peter Zarcone, 18 years of age, while walking through a swamp on his father's farm Sunday was attacked by an adder. He had a shotgun with him and shot and killed the reptile. A policeman heard the report of the gun and arrested the young farmer.

When Zarcone was arraigned before Judge Scott he was fined $10 and costs. The judge said that he had no doubt from the nature of the evidence before him that the prisoner had used his gun only to protect himself against the snake, but the laws of the state made it a crime even to carry a gun in the open air on Sunday and consequently he had no discretion under the law and was obliged to punish him for carrying his weapon across the farm.

The judge arraigned the law severely and suggested that it be brought to the attention of the general assembly for amendment or repeal.
