Bryan is again predicting, this time on the state of Iowa. He says that because Cummins' majority was reduced from 75,000 to 20,000 that Iowa is in the doubtful column. But then Cummins was running for a third term in the face of a time honor ed custom of two terms and out, and a divided republican party. Mr. Bryan's prediction in this instance will prove about as true as former

Senator Tom Patterson declared that democracy was bound to win in Colorado but his announcement that he would not be a candidate for reelection, coupled with the result, indicates that Thomas has a streak of prophetic foresight concealed about his person.-Lincoln Star.

The wing of the fusion party that turned down Berge for governor are now congratulating themselves on the Overseer No. 18, Oliver Olsen, election, as they claim their ticket, while nominally a fusion ticket, was in reality a democratic ticket and the campaign fought along democratic lines. What do the fusionists who supported the ticket because of the few populists on it think of this? They were led to believe that they in reality it was nearer a straight democratic ticket than it has been in years. It is true that many fusionists declined to stand for the work of the state convention and remained at home, but those who supported it in good faith, supposing it to be a fusion ticket, must feel as though they had been imposed upon and deceived by the democratic managers who for the last few years have been endeavoring to absorb the populist party.

During the past political campaign the democrats told the farmers that the republican state administration is robbing them by increasing their taxes two fold or more. But they never stop to tell the farmers that only 15 per cent of their personal taxes are state taxes. and are handled by republicans, and that 85 per cent of their taxes are county, township and city taxes, and are handled by the democrate. With this 15 per cent of the taxes the republics

Curious French Market

There is a curious old market near impossible before the enterprising winter supply of coal. We have a large Paris in which everything is sold at supply of hard, soft and furnace coal on secondhand. Working girls can fit themselves out there from head to foot. As a writer says: Mimi can sell her old feit hat and buy a straw one, exchange her old dress for a new one and, if she likes, buy a steak and a salad for her dinner, a paper bag of fried potatoes, sweets and some flowers for her window. Democracy is king here, and no more attention is paid to the millionaire who is looking for something marvelous which he may pick up cheap than to the man with a wooden leg who wants a new boot in exchange for a dozen sardine tins, five gloves and a stocking.
