LINCOLN-An effort is being made by Dr. J. T. Hay, superintendent of the Lincoln hospital for the insane, to find out just how much benefit the dipsomaniac law passed at the session of the legislature two years ago has proved. Dr. Hay has sent out inquiries to the intimate friends of the 250 men and women who have been treated at the hospital since the passage of the law, either for the drink er drug habit. On the answers to these letters his statistics will be based. Some of the replies already received show that permanent cures have been effected by the treatment at the asylum. Others tell sad stories of backsliding on the part of the patients into the old habits.

As to Dipeomaniac Law.

Dr. Hay declares it to be his firm belief that in most of the cases in which the treatment has been proved to be of but transient benefit, the fault is mainly to the mistaken zeal of the friends of the patient. Often, as soon as the liquor or drug has been entirely withdrawn from the patient and he is beginning to exist in comparative ities have given tacit consent to the peace without it his friends begin to clamor to have him sent home. This, Dr. Hay says, is a serious mistake. He believes that patients in the dipsomaniac ward should be kept in the hospital for at least a year after the liquor or drug they crave has been entirely withdrawn from them. . In that time the weakened power of the patient wil have a chance to reassert Itself and he will have much less difficulty in resisting temptation than - be would if removed from restraint within two or three months.

up at home, a pint bottle costs scarce four cents, while the lowest price at the drug store is 23 cents. To prepare the grape juice cut the bunches of grapes a little, trimming off superfluous stems and taking out the unsound berries. Put in a granite ware or porcelain-lined kettle, covering with water for two or three inches. The proportion of water is about three quarts to 18 pounds of fruit. Cook until the grapes burst; and the juice exudes, crushing ocasionally with a wooden spoon. Put a colander over a large jar, and cover with a square of cheesecloth. Turn fruit and juice into this, drain, measure and return to a clean preserving kettle. Let it come to a boil and skim. Now add sugar to taste (a half cup to each quart is a good proportion), stir until dissolved, then cook five minutes, skimming carefully. Have ready cans or bottles sterilized and heated in pans of boiling water. Fill, with the hot juice, then seal. If bottles are employed be sure the corks are sterilized as well as the bottles themselves. The most convenient bottles to use are the self-sealing pop or beer bottles. Keep in a cool, dark place. If preferred, the grapes may be cooked without water, then diluted when ready to drink.

Overskirts Again.

How fashionable dressmakers do enioy making poor women miserable! They now assert that overskirts are coming "in," and although a more unaesthetic sartorial style never afficted civilization, that does not keep the garment from being admired by the powers of the fashionable world. A brown crepe de chine costume just received from Paris demonstrates the overskirt vogue. It is made with three bias ruffles around the bottom of the full petticoat. Over this, in thin cloth of the same shade, are draped two deep points, one back and the other front, the points failing to the bottom of the skirt, the drapery at one side going half way to the inces hefore it slopes away to the back and front. With the approach of winter it is prayed that the overskirt may be hauled in and a more simple effect prevail.
