Columbus Journal

R. G. STROTHER. Editor. F. K. STROTHER. Manager COLUMBUS - - NERRAGEA

Young Man and Employer. When the inexperienced young man nters the business field, the first thing he runs up against is the other man's point of view. He starts out full of himself and of what he can do and of how he can do it. After a time he begins to wonder why he doesn't get on; if he is a stupid, blunduring fellow, he never finds out, for the stupid man goes through life fighting his employer all the time. If you are caser to rise in the world, consider yourself in relation to your employer's business from his standpoint. Try to get at his aims and difficulties, and consider your work in relation to those aims and difficulties. Ask yourself whether your work is futhering his aims, if you want to know whether you are making progress toward ultimate success. Try to think out your employer's method of dealing with his problem and with his employes. Not till you have gained some insight into these things are you in a position to take the first step toward the realization of your ambition. Consider the fact that the head of every business concern has definite aims and definite methods by which he is accomplishing or hopes to accomplish those aims. He requires employes who will consent to become the comparatively insignificant wheels in a more or less complicated machine, of which he furnishes the motive power. As the employe is oblized in any case to come up to his employer's requirements if he is to please and succeed with him, he will profit by meeting those requirements as fully and with as good grace as nondible

Six and Five Point Stars.

The stars on the great seal and the seal of the president of the United States are five-pointed, while on the seal of the house of representatives they are six-pointed. The 13 stars on the obverse of the present half and quarter dollar are five-point-The reverse of the present half and guarter dollar is a copy of the great seal, except that the clouds are omitted. It is evident that heraldry has not taken a very strong hold in these matters in the United States; is peace for me somewhere."

CHAPTER XXIV .-- Continued.

rather admired your pluck and impu-As the Albatross steaned into the dence. I like to see fellows kick their little harbor, I saw Mowbray Langway up among us from the common don's Indolence at anchor. I glanced people toward Steuben Point-where his cousins, the Vivians, lived-and hought I recognized his launch at their nier. We saluted the Indolence: the Indolence saluted us. My launch was piped away and took me ashore strolled along the path that wound round the base of the hill toward the tennels. At the crossing of the path down from the house. I paused and lingered on the glimpse of one of the corner towers of the great showy palace. I was muttering somethinglistened to myself. It was: "Mulholland, Mrs. Mulholland and the four little Mulhollands." And I felt like langhing aloud, such a joke was it that I should be envying a policeman his potato patch and his fat wife and his four brats, and that he should be in a nosition to pity me.

You may be imagining that, through advantage; had made him feel inferior all. Anita had been dominating my to me as no victory of mental or mind. That is the way it is in the moral superiority could possibly have romances; but not in life. No doubt there are men who brood upon the tempt for him than the discovery of dered, sat up, started up. "Go! go! impossible, and moon and maunder his treachery and his shallowness had she cried. "Bring him back! Bring away their lives over the grave of a together inspired. dead love: no doubt there are people "I shan't indulge in flapdoodle." who will say that, because I did not shoot Langdon or her, or myself, or fly to a desert or nose in the crowded places of the world as the last scene of a tragedy, I therefore cared little about her. I offer them this suggestion: A man strong enough to give a love worth a woman's while is strong enough to live on without her when he finds he may not live with

As I stood there that summer day. looking toward the crest of the hill, at the mocking mausoleum of my dead dream. I realized what the incessant battle of the street had meant to me. There is peace for me only in the storm," said I. "But, thank God, there not in the n Through the foll have been percent my power to re-strain it. Just then the day grew and shattered pose and cynicism and dark for me, and I wanted to hid? hard crust of selfishness like the asaway somewhere. Heart-sick, I was ploding powder bursting the shell. tif for can't give you up, Anita!" he enashamed for her, hated my claimed in a tone of utter desperation having blundered into surprising ber. "I can't! I can't!" She reappeared at the turn round which she had vanished. I now noted But her gaze was all this time stead-ily on me, as if she feared I would go, that she was riding without saddle should she look away. "I will tell or bridle, with only a halter round the horse's neck-then she had seen us, you myself," she said, rapidly, to me. senting the same appearance. It is had stopped and come back as soon as she could. She dropped from the the papers how they had all turned in every room. There is a wo horse, looked swiftly at me, at him, at against you, and he brought me over | who makes it a rule to always changed me again, with intense anxiety. "I saw your yacht in the harbor you. This morning he went to town ber of beautiful frames, so she seonly a moment ago," she said to me. to search for you. About an hour ago lects new prints for them. The best She was almost panting. "I feared Langdon came. I refused to see him. you might meet him. So I came." "As you see, he is quite-intact," you about at Alva's. He persisted, a little money. Then the old prints said I. "I must ask that you and he until at last I had the servant request leave the place at once." And I went him to leave the house."

rapidly along the path toward the nood. I suppose my fary would

An exclamation from Langdon I nut my hand on his shoulder. No forced me to turn in spite of myself. Why stay when you would really no doubt the fiend that rose within me, as | He was half-kneeling, was holding her from the dead, looked at him from my in his arms. At that sight, the saveves. He has great physical strength, age in me shook himself free. but he winced under that weight and dashed toward them with I knew not grin, and across his face fitted the what curses bursting from me. Langterror that must come to any man at don, intent upon her, did not realize first sense of being in the angry clutch until I sent him reeling backward to But now she released me to blaze of one stronger than he. I slowly re- the earth and snatched her up. Her leased him-I had tested and realized white face, her closed eyes, her limp my physical superiority; to use it form made my fury instantly collapse. said to him: "That is false, Mow-In my confusion I thought that she "You can't provoke me to descend to was dead. I laid her gently on the when I told you I loved him!"

soophy of him who clearly has the bet- small, so gloriously crowned, the face she had to pause for self-control. And so still and sweet and white, like the I? I was overwhelmed, dazed, stainless entrance to a stainless stunned. When she went on, her, at him, at her and him, at everyperiority had put him at hopeless dis- thing! Her evelids were quivering-her eyes were opening-her bosom was rising and falling slowly as she drew done. And I myself feit a greater con- long, uncertain breaths. She shudhim back! Bring him-" I There she recognized me. "Oh."

here. He has been telegraphing for some of her pictures. She has a num-gesture; he was utterly unlike as I have ever since the time I told

"But now there's no longer any reason for your staving. Anita." he pleaded. "He has said you are free. more be here than if you were to go, leaving one of your empty dresses?" She had not for an instant taken her gaze from me; and so strange were her eyes, so compelling, that I seemed unable to move or speak. upon him-and never shall I forget any detail of her face or voice as she bray Langdon. I told you the truth

So violent was her emotion that she was looking at neither of us. "Yes. I loved him, almost from the firstfrom the day he came to the box at the races. I was ashamed, poor creature that my parents had made me! I was ashamed of it. And I tried to hate him, and thought I did. And when he showed me that he no longer cared, my pride goaded me into the folly of trying to listen to you. But I loved him more than ever. And as you and he stand here. I am ashamed again-ashamed that I was ever so blind and ignorant and prejudiced as to compare him with"-she looked at Langdon-"with you. Do you believe me now-now that I humble myself before him here in your presence?"

I should have had no heart at all if I had not felt pity for him. His face was gray, and on it were those signs of age that strong emotion brings to the surface after 40. "You could have convinced me in no other way." he replied, after a silence, and in a voice I should not have recognized.

Silence again. Presently he raised his head, and with something of his old cynicism bowed to her. "You have avenged much

CHANGE IN THE HOME. Thing to Get Away from M

av of Sa There are hundreds of women who clean house and every article even down to an insignificant little pin cushion, is put right back in its old accestomed place. There is nothing so monotonous as a house forever pre-"We-Uncle Howard and I-read in pleasant to make a cheerful change masters are copied and it is possible to secure beautiful pictures for only may be put away for future use. It has a great deal to do with making home look a little more cheerful. Women have learned that a few good articles in a room are more artistic than a great amount of gaudy furniture, and this new regime of house-| hold affairs is responsible for less work, too. In this age, when there is every convenience imaginable, it really seems strange that any wellregulated household would need the assistance of servants only on special occasions. But it seems the more women have to work with, the less able are many to do even a little work without having the assistance of a hired girl. To properly manage a home every woman must use her brains to save her strength, and many do, but there are a great many who merely exist in houses and do not live in homes.

LINEN FOR THE KITCHEN. Good Housekeeper Pays Much Attention to This.

The kitchen department should receive the same careful attention that is lavished on the more showy table for the housekeeper in the knowledge of neat piles of towels and dusters.

A dozen crash towels of two grades. coarse for kitchen utensils and finer for china; a dozen glass towels for silver, glass and porcelain; a half-dozen heavy crash floor cloths: a half-dozen dish cloths; a dosen dusters of cheese cloth, or, as some greatly prefer, silkaleen: a half-dozen roller towels: two or three canton flannel bags to pin over the broom in dusting polished floors, and three chamois skins for polishing silver or brass-all these hemmed by machine if need be, by hand if possible, and marked with red

The Evalution of

The molecul interest modificion - benet

and is the actual colgrowth of the ashald rough Loima he

In the eathy history of this ca EVERY PARTLY HAD ITS IN HADE MEDICINES. Herb tees. litters, leastives and tesics, were to be frend in classest every house, cen of by the house offic, sematimes of by the bases of the family decise. by the spetheousy or the family decise. Such remained in opple, about a significant a long table, made of whiskey, hope and bitter barks. A some or more of popular, home-made remoties were thus compounded, the formulas for which were passed along from house to house, comptimes written. constimes verbally comme

The patent medicine business is a netural outgrowth from this wholesome, old-time custom. In the barinning, some enterprising decter, impressed by the uncfulness of one of these home made remaine, would take it up, improve it in many wave, menufacture it on a large scale, advertise it mainly through almanacs for the home. and thus it would become used over a large area. LATTERLY THE HOUSE-HOLD REMEDY BUSINESS TOOK A MORE EXACT AND SCIENTIFIC FORM.

Peruna was originally one of these ald time remotion. It was used by the Mennenites, of Pennsylvania, before it was effered to the public for sale. Dr. Hartman, THE ORIGINAL COM-POUNDER OF PERUNA, is of Mennonite origin. First, he prescribed it for his neighbors and his patients. The cale of it increased, and at last he established a manufactory and furalshed it to the general drug trade.

Persona is useful in a great many climatic aliments, such as couchs, colds, The homely things of the kitchen are threat, breachitis, and estarthal may not be quite as apparent to your diseases generally. THOUSANDS OF guests as the napkins and dollies, but FAMILIES HAVE LEAPHED THE there is a great peace and self-respect man or PERUMA and its value in the treatment of these allments. They have learned to trust and believe in Dr. Hartman's judgment, and to rely on his remody. Peruna.

> No Offense First Stranger (on train)-Do you ever quarrel with your wife? Second Stranger-Never. First Stranger-Have any trouble with the hired girl? Second Stranger-Not me. First Stranger-Don't your children worry you at times? Second Stranger-No. indeed. First Stranger-Say, I don't like call you a liar, but-Second Stranger-Oh, that's all right. I'm a bachelor. Laundry work at house would be much more satisfactory if the right Starch were used. In order to get the desired stiffness, it is usually necessary to use so much starch that the beauty and fineness of the fabric is hidden behind a paste of varying thickness, which not only destroys the appearance, but also affects the wearing quality of the goods. This trouble can be entirely overcome by using Defance Starch, as it can be applied much more thinly because of its greator strength than other makes.

would be cheap and cowardly. your level," said I with the easy phil- grass and supported her head, so ter of the argument. He was shaking from head to foot. not with terror, but with impotent shrine. How that horrible fear rage. How much we owe to accident! changed my whole way of looking at The mere accident of my physical su-

| care for you, and, then, because I

any one to say without a doubt why the difference in the stars on the flag and the coins. So far as is known. with the exception of the reverse of the present half and quarter dollar the stars on our coins are copied from the colonial coins, which were, no doubt, made after the manner of English heraldry, while the flag was made up after the design of Washington's coat-of-arms, containing three fivepointed stars of some one coming slowly down the zigzag path. Presently, at one of the turnings half-way up the hill, appeared believe my eves. "Here of all places!" And then I forgot the strangeness of his being at Dawn Hill in the strangeness of his expression. For it was apparent, even at the distance which separated us, that he was suffering from some great and recent blow. He looked old and haggard; he walked like a man who neither knows nor cares where he is going.

Growth of Kindness.

The American people, in their needed work of reconstruction, are not losing their characteristic virtues of kindliness and good-humor. A leader in reform, in a private letter, writes thus: "After all, human sympathy is the foundation-stone of democracy. I have imagined that our criticisms of life were becoming kinder: I mean the ordinary run of newspaper criticism; and kinder means broader. Some of us, perhaps, went rather far in the heat of attack; and I think the increased kindliness, which leads more surely to sympathy, is an excellent tendency. Lately it has seemed to me that we needed more than anything else in this country kindly explanations. If we could only understand one another, intolerance would expire." All of which is true, declares Collier's Weekly, and truly said, and charity is a friend and not an enemy to reform.

Soon after King Edward of England decorated Prince Henry of the Netherlands for his gallantry in rescuing passengers from the wrecked steamship of the Hook of Holland, in Febreary. Queen Wilhelmina presented gold medals of the Order of Orange-Nassau to the three sea-captains who assisted in the rescue, and silver medals to the members of the boat crews who risked their own lives in the work.

Lord Curson, when he was a student at Oxford, burned the midnight oil, won scholastic honors galore, took a brilliant degree and won the grand prize of a fellowship. Lord Rosebery. on the other hand, took no honors, was rusticated, and didn't even get an ordinary degree.

A man has just been acquitted in Missouri on the unwritten law. When the people of that state all learn to read and write they will not have to depend on the country squire to tell them what is law. They can look in the book and see President G. Stanley Hall of Clark university coined the word europhia in an address he delivered some time stitute for courage.

Mowbray Langdon. "What is he doing here," thought I, scarcely able to

He had not seen me, and my impulse was to avoid him by continuing on toward the kennels. I had no especial feeling against him: I had not lost Anita because she cared for him or he for her, but because she did not care for me-simply that to meet would be awkward, disagreeable for us both. At the slight noise of my novement to go on, he halted, glanced round eagerly, as if he hoped the sound had been made by some one he wished to see. His glance fell on me. He stopped short, was for an instant disconcerted: then his face lighted up with devilish joy. "You!" he cried. "Just the man!" And he descended more rapidly.

At first I could make nothing of this remark. But as he drew nearer and nearer, and his ugly mood became more apparent, I felt that he was looking forward to provoking me into giving him a distraction from whatever was tormenting him. I waited. A few minutes and we were face to face. I "HOW outwardly calm, but my anger slowly lighting up as he deliberately applied to it the torch of his insolent eyes. He went on. "I'll be frank. A year ago, ishe said, and gave a great sigh of was wearing his old familiar air of if any man had faced me with a claim relief. She leaned against a tree and his recovered fortune, he had recov- I'd probably have dealt with him as here? Then tell him." forgotten its tumble. And I was won- low a new light. There is the vanity me take you to the Vivians." lering again that I, so short a time of so-called honor; there is also the threw out his arms in a wild, pasbefore, had been crude enough to be demand of justice-of fair play. As I fascinated and fooled by those tawdry have told her, so I now tell you-she posings and pretenses. For the man, is free to go. But I shall say one thing as I now saw him, was obviously shal- to you that I did not say to her. If low and vain, a slave to those poor you do not deal fairly with her, I shall "man-of-the-world" passions-ostenta- see to to it that there are ten thorns tion and cynicism and skill at vices old to every rose in that bed of roses on as mankind and tedious as a tread- which you lie. You are contemptible mill, the commonplace routine of the in many ways-perhaps that's why idle and foolish and purposeless. A women like you. But there must be clever, handsome fellow, but the more some good in you, or possibilities of pitiful that he was by nature above good, or you could not have won and the uses to which he prostituted him- kept her love."

He was staring at me with a dazed He fought hard to keep his eyes stead- expression. I rather expected him to ily on mine; but they would waver and show some of that amused contempt shift. Not, however, before I had with which men of his sort always found deep down in them the begin- receive a new idea that is beyond the nings of fear. "You see, you were range of their narrow, conventional horn. mistaken," said I. "You have nothing minds. For I did not expect him to understand why I was not only willto say to me or I to you."

bottom of his real self, and had seen woman whom I could hold only by dents, said the baboon stood four feet and a dose of opium powerful enough the coward that is in every man who asserting a property right in her. six inches in height and was very to poison ten men was also given has been bred to appearances only. And I do not think he did under- wild. About a week after leaving him in a bottle of lemonade without Up rose his vanity, the coward's sub- stand me, though his manner changed Cape Town it broke out of its cage, effect. Eventually a large grating was many," said he: "I have often had a presentiment that my day of wrath kitchen. would come." He lifted his hat, bowed at me without looking at me, and, drawing the tatters of his pose still further over his wounds, moved away toward the landing.

I, still in a stupor, watched him until he had disappeared. When I turned to her, she dropped her eyes. "Uncle Howard will be back this afternoon," said she. "If I may, I'll stay at the house until he comes to take me."

A weary, half-suppressed sigh escaped from her. I knew how she must be reading my silence, but I was still unable to speak. She went to the horse, browsing near by: she stroked his muzzle. Lingeringly she twined her fingers in his mane, as if about to spring to his back! That reminded me of a thousand and one changes in her-little changes, each a triffe in itself, yet, taken all together, making a complete transformation.

"Let me help you," I managed to say. And I bent, and made a step of my hand.

She touched her fingers to my shoulder, set her narrow, graceful foot upon my palm. But she did not rise. glanced up, she was gazing wistfully down at me.

"Women have to learn by experience just as do men." said she, forlornly. "Yet men will not tolerate it."

I suppose I must suddenly have looked what I was unable to put into words-for her eyes grew very wide, and, with a cry that was a sigh and a sob, and a laugh and a caress all in one, she slid into my arms and her face was burning against mine. "Do you remember the night at the theater," she murmured, "when your lips almost touched my neck?-I loved you then-Black Matt-Black Matt!"

And I found voice: and the horse wandered away.

[The End.]

Let

He

Lively Time With Baboon to shake off the powerful beast. In

Broke Loose on Shipboard and for his effort to release himself Herr Windhorn tried to force open the jaws Two Days Had a Circus. of the baboon with his hands. He

An exciting story of a baboon's was in a measure successful, but the escape from its cage on the Union- baboon quickly fastened its fangs in Castle liner Comrie Castle was told Herr Windhorn's right hand, which when the vessel reached Plymouth, was injured even more extensively England, on the way to London with than the leg. The keeper, who hura large collection of wild animals on ried to his master's aid, quickly beboard, including five wolves and eight came the subject of attack, the zebras, the property of Herr Wind- baboon inflicting several bites on him. while the boatswain of the liner was

Herr Windhorn, who for 30 years also bitten. The beast afterward refused to be has collected wild animals which he He knew I had looked straight to the ing, but even eager, to relinquish a sells to dealers and zoological gar- overcome by half a bottle of whisky to a sort of grudging respect. He but fortunately the escape was dis- fixed outside the companionway and ago to the graduating class of a wom- "You think I am afraid of you?" he was, I believe, about to make some covered before the animal reached the then by means of a display of fruit or two days, however, it was the brute was coaxed near it and as cross stitch in a uniform manner-all these are essential to neat work in the

She Made Pretty Portieres.

It is not always easy to secure material for portieres that are at once pretty and inexpensive. One woman who has been searching the town over for a fabric combining the two qualities was almost in despair when a friend, a decorator, suggested that she get mocha canvas for her sleeping-room doors and velveteen in a soft reseda shade for her library doorway. As the walls were green the colors harmonized charmingly, and all told did not cost more than $12 for the two nairs

The canvas is loosely woven and resembles burlap in appearance. though much softer, and hangs much more gracefully. It costs 50 cents a yard, and is very wide. The velveteen, which is also double width, can be obtained in a number of soft colorings, and while handsome is not so rich looking that it kills everything else in the room. It is especially effective with mahogany or dark oak and with Circassian walnut.

Homemade Candy.

Everton Taffy .- Take one pound of brown sugar of good quality, two ounces of butter and one-half a glassful of water. Let the sugar and water come to boil till it forms a hall in cold water, then put in the butter. boiling all till it cracks when threaded. Add six drops of lemon essence. stirring briskly. Pour into buttered pans. Separate the taffy while still warm with a knife.

Butter Scotch .-- Boil together one pound of brown sugar and four ounces of butter. As soon as it cracks when threaded add a good pinch of cooking soda: let it boil two minutes longer. then run into buttered pans. Before It is quite cool mark lightly in squares the required size, give a brisk tap and it will separate. Set in a cold place.

Hominy Crumpets.

These must be "set" over night Beat well together one pint of milk. one-fourth of a cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, four cupfuls of flour and one cupful of well-boiled hominy. Add one com pressed yeast cake dissolved in four tablespoorfuls of water and a tea spoonful of salt and set in a warn place. Half an hour before breakfast is served add one-fourth of a tea spoonful of soda, dissolved in a lit tle hot water, beat thoroughly for five minutes, partly fill muffin rings, and stand in a warm place for half an hour. Bake quickly and serve plping hot.

Cleansing Agencies.

Soft cheese cloth wrapped loosely about a long handled broom, passed over the wallpaper once or twice a month, absorbs the dust. Thick crusts of stale bread rubbed downward will remove soil.

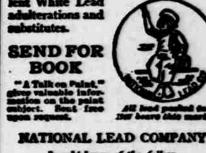

To extract grease stains from wall-

Little One's Prayer.

Mary always gets a little piece of candy every day to keep her from being naughty. One day she was naughty, and she did not get her candy. That night when she was going to bed she said her prayers as follows: "Our Father, who art in heaven. please give me my daily candy."

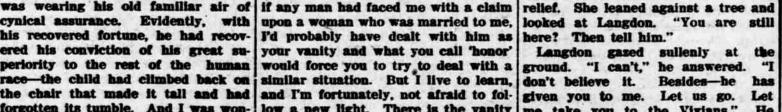

Pare White Lead Paint protects property against repairs, replacement and deterioration. It makes buildings look better, wear better-and sell bet-ter. Use only Pure Linseed Oil and Pure White Lead made by the Old Dutch Process, which is sold in hegs with this Dutch Boy trade mark on the side. This trade mark protects yo against fraudu-

In whichever of the followine cities is morrest you:

THAT HORRIBLE FEAR CHANGED MY WHOLE WAY OF LOOKING AT HER. AT HIM. AT EVERYTHING!"

