The following request by Mayor Phillips should be followed to the letter: "I take it for granted that every good citizen of Columbus joins me in the desire that our city as a whole may always present an attractive appearance to our own and visiting eyes, and in the belief, and in the further belief that best results may be accomplished by concerted effort, I have thought best to call upon our people to set aside certain days to be devoted to the cause of cleanliness in Columbus. I hereby designate 13, 14 and 15 as "clean up" days, requesting every home-owner to employ those days in removing from his home grounds and the alleys adjoining all mass of unsightly rubbish. The city as usual will do its part in the work by carrying all streets to be carefully cleaned, and I feel that private citizens may rally up to burnish private property and remove from home grounds and alleys every measure pile, old tin can or other object offensive to the eye. In order that our "clean-up" days may bear good results for the future, I suggest that at every home a box or barrel be provided as a receptacle for tin cans and other like rubbish, so that such refuse may be conveniently carried away at regular intervals. I earnestly urge the business houses to procure metal receptacles which to burn the daily waste. I believe this request with perfect confidence that it will be received in the right spirit, and that the "clean-up" days appointed will result in making Columbus a city as neat and clean as any in our state."

Obituary.

A beautiful soul waited to a better land at her home in Columbus Neb., on May 11th at twenty minutes to eight p. m. Mrs. John M. Mahan, nee Mary Griffin departed this life.

Deceased had been an invalid for thirty years, and helpless for twenty. She had been seriously ill since October, and so critical was her condition that death's knell was expected to strike almost at any moment. Finally it came last Saturday. The funeral services were performed at the St. Bonaventura's church on Tuesday May 14th. Rev. Chas. A. Becker, of Geneva Neb., sang the Requiem and performed the funeral obsequies at the grave. Rev. Marian Glenn O. F. M. delivered the funeral oration. He took as text the words of St. Andrew on the death of the Emperor Theodosius: "We have loved him (her) during his (her) life and we will not abandon him (her) until we have conducted him (her) by our prayers, to the House of the Lord."

So said in substance; The funeral obsequies of a dear relative or friend is always a source of sorrow and grief to the dear ones left behind. Yet there are such that afford us so much joy and consolation, that we find it difficult to discern which predominates, the sorrow for being bereaved of our dear ones or the felicity we experience at the thought that they must be in a better land free from all the trials, afflictions and temptations of life. This is prominently the case in the present instance, as you will all acknowledge when I relate to you the story of her life.
