Warnings to farmers are appearing in various Nebraska papers, reminding them that they are equally guilty with grocerymen if bad eggs are sold, and are liable to punishment under the pure food law. The process of candling is simple and ensures safety.
An old Scotch lady used to be attended by a doctor to whom she invariably gave a guinea when he went to see her. He had told the friends with whom she lived that her death would probably be sudden, and one day he was hurriedly sent for, as she appeared to have become unconscious. On his arrival he saw at once that the old lady was dead, and taking hold of her right hand, which was closed, but not rigid, he calmly extracted from it the fee which she had provided for him, and as he did so he murmured: "Sensible to the last."

We learn that Rev. H. Zinnecker last Sunday morning informed his hearers that he wasn't going to withdraw from the ministry, as stated in the Gazette last week, but will have two small charges at St. Edwards. Well, we are always glad to make any correction. But more than one informed us that he was going to withdraw from the ministry and if a newspaper man had to go to headquarters for every item published and have an affidavit attached, he wouldn't be able to publish a paper semi-annually. The Gazette wishes Rev. Zinnecker success no matter where he may go.

Here is a prize lightning story from Robinson, Kas. "A whole family was stunned by lightning at Janvier, four miles from here, during Sunday's storm. The family of David Ringer was sitting about the room talking when, according to narrative of the persons involved, a bolt of lightning came down the chimney, entered an cupboard and shattered many glasses and dishes, passed across Mr. Ringer's arm and killed a valuable dog he was patting on the head. Mr. Ringer's arm was paralyzed and useless for three hours. Then the bolt ran across the floor and affected the knees of Mr. Ringer's daughter, then paralyzed the son's leg and finally jumped to the cradle making a red streak across the baby's breast."

Forty-five hundred dollars was offered and refused for forty acres of land a short distance from Platte Center last week. This is at the rate of $112.50 an acre. And the improvements on this land, outside a fair orchard, are practically nothing.

Frank Hughes had the misfortune to break his nose last Monday. The accident happened while he was trying to take a chunk of ice from the chest in Zingg's shop. The elevator crank slipped striking Frank in the face and causing the fracture.
Uncle Tom Maher is confined to his home by illness. Mr. Maher, who makes his home with the Maher family, south of town, is 83 years old, and (what few of us can say) this is the first time in his life that he has ever been sick or under the care of a physician.
The family of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lynch was made happy by the birth of a daughter on the 18th of July at their home in New Plymouth, Idaho. This is the first daughter in the family. Their other child is a boy, 13 years old, and this little miss is doubly welcome.
Last Friday a three year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Keogh, living several miles northwest of town, soaked a piece of bread in some Daisy fly poison liquid, and then ate the bread. The result was a very sick child, but a physician reached there in time to save its life.
Among the passengers to the county seat Wednesday we noticed Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Luobinger, Mrs. Ed Rogan, Mrs. W. T. Ripp, Mrs. Will Soulliere and Misses Mayme Cronin and Julia Lease. Mrs. Soulliere and Julia Lease went down to visit their mother, Mrs. Mary Lease, who is a patient at St. Mary's hospital.
A ride of from six to eight miles west of town will give one an idea of what the hail storm of three weeks ago means to the farmers. On the road directly west you have to go but about six miles to notice the effects. Not a shock of grain in sight, but in their place, if the grain be wheat, will be seen long windrows of blackened straw, much of which owing to continuous rain, has been spoiled since mowing in the hope that something might be saved. Oat fields have commenced to grow up green again and if nothing better is realized there will be an abundance of fall food. Those fields of wheat are being threshed, but the most that is being realized is about five bushels of inferior grain to the acre, and in most instances less even than that. The best of it yields but little more than what of threshing. The corn, most of which was beaten to the earth, is coming on again lively, but under most favorable conditions will make but a fraction of a crop. But those who were effected have not lost courage, they are looking pleasant and saving what is left.

GENOA.
From the Leader.
Mrs. D. E. Jones of Beaver Valley is entertaining her mother from Columbus together with her aunt and cousin from Chicago, this week.
The cement sidewalk men are busy these days and by fall Genoa will have twice as much cement walk as any town of its size in the state, in fact there will be but little walk that is not cement.
We have heard people claim they could hear loorn grow but this is the first year in history that you can see it grow. Sit down and watch a good healthy stock of corn for a few hours and you can absolutely see it shoot heavenward.
We have always heard that Hell was in it with Texas and now we know it. A dispatch to the daily papers from that state the first of the week announced the thermometer down there last Sunday registered 197 in the sun and 117 in the shade and that cattle hogs and people dropped dead.
The post office department collected last year over $97,000 in fines from people who were caught sending letters enclosed in packages upon which they paid less than letter postage. Don't send letters in your packages you send by mail for if Uncle Sam catches you at it he will make you jump sideways.
News is received from St. Edward to the effect that Harry Casey, son of Jack Casey, formerly of this section, was drowned in the mill race at that place on Monday afternoon. He drove into town Monday, put up his team, got some dinner and then securing a fishing pole went to the race to fish. This was the last seen of him. Search was made for him yesterday morning and his hat and fish-pole being found on the river bank, the mill flume was dragged and his body found. He was 21 years old.
The agricultural editor of the State Journal is responsible for the following essay: "The farm laborer has passed. Now the man on the farm rides out to plow corn carrying an umbrella over his head. He does the fall plowing with a sulky implement carrying a spring seat. He rides to town in a phaeton. The harvesting is done by machinery, and the threshing has but little of the manual labor once attached to it. The farm boy comes to town once in a while now, but that is usually after he has secured enough money to go into business, or has laid plans for following some city business that does not require manual labor."
A trio of bums struck Genoa last Saturday. One of them claimed to be an umbrella mender while another was selling wire forms for coats, etc. In the evening they congregated south of the track and proceeded to bowl up and Marshal Rester ordered them to either go to a hotel or quit the town. They went to a hotel. In the morning while eating his breakfast one of them insulted the woman waiting on him and was thrown out by the proprietor, Julius Phillips. After they were out on the street a scrap began that was dignified. The fellow was finally landed in the cooler where he laid until Tuesday when Judge Gresh told him to fly and be slow.
