FROM THE TIMES.

Miss Stella Krane returned from Columbus Monday where she had been visiting relatives.

Last Friday, at a depth of twenty feet, the men at work on the village well unearthed the skull, horns and jaw bones of an animal that one day roamed over the plains of Nebraska. The horns resemble those of a buffalo, but the jaw bone indicates that the animal was of a different species of buffalo from the one that fed on Nebraska grasses at a later date.

Thirty-four years ago last Monday occurred the last battle between the Pawnee and Sioux Indians on the Republican river in Kansas, in which our townsman, John Williamson, was an active participant. The Pawnees had left their reservation at this place a few weeks previous in charge of Mr. Williamson. The government granted the Pawnee permission to hunt buffalo, provided they were accompanied by a white man in the capacity of trail agent. Several well known western characters applied for the position of trail agent, among them Texas Jack, backed by Buffalo Bill, who came to Genoa and made a personal appeal to the chiefs to select his friend for the position. But the chiefs decided in favor of Williamson and he was appointed to accompany the hunting party. The Pawnees, numbering 700, including women and children, were camped on the Republican river, when they were suddenly attacked by 1200 Sioux warriors early in the morning on the 5th of August, 1873. The Pawnees put up a good fight, but were finally forced to retreat in the face of superior numbers, leaving 200 dead on the field—half the number women and children. A few weeks after the battle, Williamson and Wild Bill were sent to the scene of the battle to bury the dead.

D. line, main traveled valley road to town. Possession March 1, '08. Reasonable terms can be had and this place is offered at $22.50 per acre. The Democrat in receipt of a letter from Phillip Weidner who is living at Portland Oregon, in which he says the heat has been something awful this summer, the thermometer registering as high as 110. Fruit is plentiful out there but corn and small grain is nothing as compared with Nebraska. "I'll take Nebraska every time," Phillip says, and we rather admire his judgment.

The Democrat editor is in receipt of a letter from Dr. Harry Lamb asking us to change the address of his paper from St. Paul, this state, to Orleans, in the southern part of the state, and while he did not say anything about his change of location, we have it from good authority that he sold out his practice at St. Paul to his partner, Dr. Higgins, and has located permanently at Orleans.

J. N. Heater, of Columbus, one of the old republican war horses of the state, was in town Monday attending to business. Agent Still of the Northwestern is soon to leave Lindsay. Who is to be his successor has not been learned. Mr. Still has been here several years and it is regretted by his many friends that the officials have seen fit to make a change. He goes to Plainview.

Eugene Maier of Ottumwa, Ia., but recently of Columbus, where he had been employed in the Nebraska Biene has been engaged to stick type for this office. With the assistance of Mr. Maier we hope in the near future to be able to get things moving in a better shape.

J. P. Johnson, manager of the Lindsay Butter and Egg Co.'s, business says they have paid out $253,061.00 for butter and eggs the past month. They bought 11,125 1/2 pounds of butter and 7380 dozen eggs. Lindsay can always be relied on for paying the highest price, which explains the reason for the above amount of business.

SILVER CREEK.

Ed Williams was up from Columbus Saturday renewing old acquaintances.

The storm Monday blew down 14 big trees on the river bank on the Westveer place southeast of town. This was the place selected for the Farmers institute picnic and some other location has been selected on account of the destruction.

Lester Sutton, who was riding the saddle horse was thrown against one of the wheels and sustained a badly bruised leg. Darkness was the cause of the accident.

Last Saturday evening a Mr. Loy Garmon of Burr Oak, Kansas, happened into our town, and as a result of his presence here Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cubbison have left for parts unknown. Mr. Carmon asserts that Mr. Cubbison was a married man before he left Kansas, some six years ago, and that his lawful wife and three children are still living at Burr Oak. Garmon claims to be a brother-in-law to Cubbison, they being married to sisters. The case has stirred up considerable comment in our town, and the news came like a thunderbolt out of the clear sky to the people in this vicinity. Garmon did not claim to have come here for the purpose of instituting proceedings against Cubbison, but merely to confirm a report that Cubbison was married here and living with another wife.—Platte Center Signal.
