MANY YEARS AGO.

Files of the Journal, March 11, 1874. The board for building a bridge across the Loup river near to and south of Jackson, in this county, carried by a vote of 61 for, to 57 against, being 34 of a majority in favor of the bonds.

Wild geese made their appearance last week in the Platte valley, but they came down from the north, which some old settlers say indicates cold weather, and others predict, foreshadows an early spring.

A homesteader up on the Looking Glass, digging around on his claim, came upon a leather sack which contained about three bushels of gold and silver coin—unfortunately for the homesteader the coin turned out to be bogus.

The legislature of Iowa has passed a railroad tariff bill which reduces the earnings of Iowa roads about forty per cent, and the passenger rates one-half a cent a mile. We think, from the sample of freight charges we publish elsewhere, the railroads of Nebraska need a maximum law.

We noticed two young men at the entertainment the other evening, who made it a point to stamp their feet and clap their hands at the close of every performance. We formed two opinions of them, either they had not judgment enough not to know when to applaud or that they were trying to see how much noise they could make. In either case their conduct was unbecoming.

Two sets of delegates from this county those appointed by the county central committee and those selected by the convention, attended the republican congressional convention, held at Norfolk, Tuesday, and the contest was taken before the convention and settled by the committee on credentials in favor of the delegates selected by the convention. The action of the congressional committee at the time the convention was called seems to be responsible for the contest. At that meeting among the matters discussed relative to the convention was the manner of choosing delegates, and when this was brought up the committee was informed that Stanton county had selected their delegates by appointment, and in the discussion that followed the sentiment seemed to be that there would be a number of appointed delegates at the convention. The result was a resolution intended to give the power as far as the congressional committee was concerned, to the various county committees to appoint delegates to the congressional convention at Chicago, and J. C. Elliott of West Point and C. R. Wright of Genoa alternates.

The horse races at the State Fair, the first week in September, as announced by the committee, are as follows: Steaks to close May 1st; 2:35 and 2:31 trotting, for purses of $1000 each, 3-year-old; 3-year-old 2:45 for Nebraska bred colts, trotting, each for purses of $500, and a 2-year-old trot for $250. 2:30, 2:32 and 2:14 pacing, each for a purse of $1000, 3-year-old; 3-year-old, 2:40, for Nebraska bred colts, each for a purse of $500, and 2-year-old pace for $250. The classes closing August 10th will be as follows: 2:30, 2:35 and 2:17 trotting, each for $500; 2:35, 2:35 and 2:18 and free-for-all pacing, each for a purse of $500. Raining; 2-year-old Nebraska bred colts, 4½ furlongs for $300, and a Derby 1 1-16 miles for $500, besides seven other running races ranging from ¼ to 1 mile. We would suggest that our horsemen write to W. R. Moller, secretary, Lincoln for further particulars.

In response to a call issued by President Carr of the Commercial club, the citizens of Columbus met Tuesday evening to discuss the proposition of the Union Pacific railroad to either remodel the present passenger depot in the new future, or wait a year or two and a new depot, costing in the neighborhood of $100,000 would be built. The sentiment was in favor of waiting until the new depot could be built if satisfactory assurance that this would be done was received from the company, as the repairing of the old depot meant that the structure as remodelled would in all probability be the permanent depot. The idea of a new structure is the right one, as when the change in the depot is made one should be built that will be a credit to the city and the railroad for many years to come.

The Nebraska Bione, the German newspaper owned by the late J. E. Johannes, was sold last Friday to Emma J. F. Siems and Henry Wilkens, the firm name being Siems & Wilkens. The new proprietors will look after the business department and employ an editor to look after that end of the paper. The policy of the paper will be independent, and the local side will be pushed. The new proprietors have an excellent newspaper property, and with ample capital at their command, will no doubt make a success of the venture.

New Spring Dress Skirts at Gray's. The Italian car in the New York City automobile race passed through Columbus Monday evening about six o'clock. No stop was made here as the party expected to make Grand Island before stopping. The party were pilot-ed across the Loup bridge by Max Gotthard, and then took the road straight west for Dunca. Those aboard were surprised at the roads in Nebraska, they being quite different to the ones they were accustomed to.

Beginning with Monday morning the freight service on the Spalding branch was put back on the six day schedule. There was no good reason for taking this train off every other day, as during the last two weeks the old schedule has practically been in force, when extra freights are enclosed. Instead of getting lighter the business on this branch has been getting heavier with the approach of spring.

Mr. Buschman is married and leaves a wife and children. The Journal made a mistake in its last issue in connection with the sale of the John Cover hide business. F. P. Williams was mentioned as one of the new firm, which is not correct, he having no interest whatever in the business. The present firm is C. D. Williams & Co. The latest things in Ladies Spring Suits at Gray's.

Doing Beats Promising

But we've got to do some promising—so that you may know what to expect at this season.

When we promise you that we have your interest at heart fully as much as our own, we expect it to be believed—because it's the truth.

When we charge you a certain price for an article you can be as sure as anything that you couldn't get it for less any where else in the country.

Yes, doing beats promising—but we like to promise—and we like to do as we promise.

WHERE AUBURN LOCKS ABOUND.

Found in Great Numbers in North-eastern Part of Scotland. Red hair is found in distinct zones north of the Grampians, and especially in the northeast of Scotland. A scientist who has made the question of pigmentation a special study, and has just been helped to conclude a color survey of the school children—over 50,000—of Scotland, announced this as one of his results.

In most European countries, he said, there is a distinct predominance of one type over the others. In north Germany and Sweden it is the blonde type; in Italy the brunette. No such predominance is found in Scotland. Dark hair and fair are present in equal proportions. The dominant color among Scottish children is brown, and it has to be shown how far brown is really a blend of fair and dark. The proportion of red hair throughout the country is a little over 5 per cent.—high compared with the continent. One cannot overlook the reference of Tacitus to the red haired Caledonians. Some curious facts brought to light suggest that red hair is not entirely or strictly a racial trait. It may have some peculiar physiological if not pathological connection.

USED HIS STORED KNOWLEDGE.

When High School Learning Came in Handy to Business Man. "I used for the first time to-day something I learned 15 years ago, said a writer in the Milwaukee Sentinel. "It was the application of a principle in geometry in relation to the inscribing of a hexagon in a circle, which I learned when at the high school. I had an order placed for some taboretts (that is flower stands) given me and the party that gave me the order wants the tops 16 inches across. Well, that was easy enough to fill, but beside that the sides were to be hexagonal, so I had to sit down and figure out how much five-eighths-inch wood would have to be layed off to have the parts fit exactly. Here is where I used my geometry.

"Daniel Webster is quoted as saying that he once used a fact which had lain dormant for 14 years, so I have him beaten by a year. "You often hear people say 'What is the use of learning this?' seeing no use for it at the time, but things which at the time seem most impracticable are often later of use. That is one of the complaints in our public schools, but as in my case it may some day prove of use."

Funny Stories Cured Him. "Having vainly tried many and various remedies to restore to health a business man whom I know and who had fallen into a morbid condition owing to years of overwork, a famous Baltimore physician at last persuaded his patient to take a course of funny stories, one at each meal, with an extra two at dinner," says a correspondent. "The patient, a solemn and stately fellow, at first rebelled, but finally falling in with the idea adopted the course recommended and was in the end restored to health; the effect of laughter being entirely to change his mental and bodily condition. Laughter, in fact, is one of the cheapest and most effective of medicines, breaking up stagnation of mind and body and sending a healthy vibration through one's system. There is very little matter with the man who can enjoy a hearty laugh."
