Did You Ever Stop to Think

How easy it is for a member in the association to borrow money on his stock, with which he can discount a bill of goods. It puts him in a position to buy his merchandise FOR CASH. When he sells his goods, if he desires, he may repay the money to the Building Association. Try placing $4.00 or $5.00 a week in series "S" of the Columbus Loan and Building Association. MANY YEARS AGO.

Files of the Journal April 1, 1874.

J. C. Bouton takes the place of John Huber on the mail and stage route from Columbus to Madison.

We understand that J. A. Baker will erect a two story brick business home on Nebraska Avenue adjoining the one to be erected by Messrs. Turner & Hulst.

The Loop Fork is now cross-able again by a temporary bridge constructed in about a week. The means for building this bridge were furnished by the business men of Columbus, and the cost of it will not exceed $350.

Messrs. Turner & Hulst have purchased the corner lot on Twelfth street and Nebraska Avenue from J. A. Baker upon which they will erect a two story building 22x28 feet. The lower story will be used as a banking house, the upper for a hall. These gentlemen will occupy their old office on Eleventh street as a bank, until their new building is completed.

The spring prairie fires are again in working order. Scarcely an evening passes now but we can see from our dwelling numerous fires, some nearby, and others at a distance. Notwithstanding large amounts of property are annually destroyed by these fires, yet these seem to be a reckless carelessness on the part of those who set them out, that is difficult to account for. We believe that each individual of the community cannot exercise too much caution in regard to getting out these fires, as the past damage inflicted upon property holders of the state has been immense. Property owners should guard with a watchful eye and hand against these fires, by making use of every protection within their power.

Farmers Attention.

The executive committee of the Columbus Farmers' Institute have been asked by the commission for the National Corn Exposition to organize and interest the farmers of Platte county in making a collective exhibit of corn for the coming corn show. To further this matter the executive committee requests all farmers interested in corn growing to meet at the Farmers' hall at 2 p. m., on Saturday, April 11, for the purpose of discussing the raising of corn for this exposition. To encourage the matter the State Board of Agriculture will offer liberal premiums for the best corn raised by each county.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Connor of Shell Creek township are much concerned over the disappearance of their son Sam, who was until March 20, attending the Commercial college in this city. At the time of his disappearance he was boarding at the Central hotel, and on that evening a young man, who was a stranger in the city, called for him. He was informed that Sam had gone to his home in the country, and remarked that he thought he could overtake him before he goes far. Sam was about twenty-one years of age and had no bad habits. He had been attending the college during the winter and was taking great interest in his studies. It was his intention to drop his studies in about two weeks, and then work for Chris Hilmer in Shell Creek township. So far his friends and relatives have been unable to get any trace of him, and his disappearance is very much of a mystery to them.

Columbus people are known, far and near, as among those who enjoy an outing, both hunting and fishing. We now have a game protective association that bids fair to do much in the way of improving conditions in this vicinity. It might be well for the general public to know that this organization has about 150 members at present, and names are added almost daily. Those who are in the habit of paying no attention to the game laws had better take a second thought when they are out shooting or fishing, for this association is going to do all in their power to enforce the law. The better way is for all to assist in the protection of game birds that are to be liberated, and help the association to succeed in their undertaking.

Last Friday Clarence Umland, son of J. N. Umland, had an experience with a railroad torpedo that he will not care to go through again. A box which had contained a supply of torpedoes had been taken to the Umland home for use as a hen's nest, and among the excelsior the boy discovered a torpedo. His curiosity led him to investigate what the torpedo would do when exploded and he placed it on an old stove and struck it with a hand ax. The result was a bad wound under the chin and one on the side of the knee, which required the attendance of a physician. The boy is getting along nicely at present and will soon recover from the effects of the explosion.

G. D. Meiklejohn received a letter this week from G. R. Nunnally, better known as "Antelope Dick." G. R. is now located at Coffeyville, Kas., and has attached M. D. to his name, and is boasting a line of patent medicines for a Coffeyville concern. Dick will be remembered among the old timers here for he was the first publisher of a newspaper in Nance county which he called the Magnet and published it at Genoa. He married a daughter of Royal Smith, but afterwards was divorced.—Fallerton News-Journal.

The assessing of values this year was thoroughly discussed and County Assessor Clark instructed the deputies to assess all property at its fair actual value. Commercial Club Banquet.

The second annual banquet of the Columbus Commercial club, held at the Massener hotel last Thursday evening was ample evidence that the organization is doing some effective, boosting for Columbus. About two hundred members were present at the meeting and banquet, which was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church. Representatives were present from the Commercial clubs of Fremont and Central City, and those with members of the local club made short talks on the growth and prosperity of Columbus during the last year. But the one thing all were interested in was the power canal project. Peter Schmitt, the Shell Creek miller, who had just returned from a trip to Spokane and the northwest, told of the wonderful development made there by the utilization of water power, and compared that city before the plants were developed with Columbus at the present time. H. E. Babcock, who has been a persistent worker for the project, was the last speaker, and he had more encouragement to offer than since the beginning of his work. His talk was of great interest to everyone present, and he explained the difficulties which had to be surmounted and what had been done. That the audience appreciated his efforts was made manifest by the adoption of a resolution that the Commercial Club express thanks to Messrs. H. E. Babcock, F. Jaeggi and Mr. Winkler for their untiring efforts to finance this great power canal undertaking, and in the further resolution that the Columbus Commercial Club fully endorse the Loop river power canal project and will further it by assisting the gentlemen in their work. The rearrangement of the wards in the city necessitated the election of an entire new board, which is composed of the following gentlemen:

First ward—L. Jaeggi, G. W. Viegler, G. Frischholz, Chas. F. Segelke, F. J. Korzenbrock, W. J. Walters.

Second ward—Sam Gass, jr., C. B. Speice, George Fairchild, Chas. Wardman, S. J. Ryan, Jacob Griesen.

Third ward—R. E. Dickinson, Geo. Hecher, jr., G. C. Sheldon, H. A. Clark, C. J. Garlow.

Fourth ward—G. W. Philips, M. D. Karr, J. S. Nichols, Frank Gerhart, Henry Bagatz.

The following from the Fremont Tribune, written by one who was present is of interest and covers the ground:

Various features of water power development for Nebraska were discussed enthusiastically at the annual meeting of the Commercial club at Columbus last night. Representatives were present from Fremont, Schuyler, Central City, Grand Island and other towns. Those who went from here were President O. F. Turner of the Fremont club, E. C. Minsar and H. C. Richmond.

H. E. Babcock, who for fourteen years has been active in the promotion of the Columbus canal project, made the principal address of the evening on the canal subject. He is most sanguine over prospects, and also prominent engineers have declared the Fremont scheme to be the more feasible. Mr. Babcock still pins his faith to the one of the Platte county town. He consoled the Fremont delegates by saying that since the power could be transmitted from Columbus to Fremont with a loss of but a tenth of one per cent, it would be no particular advantage to the latter place to have its project developed, in preference to the one at Columbus. It would mean great things not only for Fremont and Columbus, but for other Nebraska towns and the state.

Mr. Babcock introduced Mr. Jaeggi of Switzerland who made the statement that he presented a foreign company that was ready to take two and a quarter million dollars worth of bonds for the scheme provided it got backing for the balance.

Babcock wants to see a twelve million dollar power scheme developed. It means 200,000 horse power, whereas the five-million dollar scheme means but 50,000. He estimates the canal could be built in a year and a half by 600 men and 600 teams.

The Commercial club meeting was a large one. Nearly all of the three hundred members were present. Leaflets containing the following resolutions of the Omaha Commercial club endorsing the proposed plant were distributed:

"Your committee on manufactures, to which was referred the matter of the proposed water power development of the Loop river, as presented by Mr. H. E. Babcock, begs to report as follows:

"First—Your committee has examined the reports of some of the engineers who have examined the plans and who pronounced the project feasible in every respect and that the earning powers of such a development would undoubtedly be great.

"Second—The reports show that the Loop river is one of the most uniformly flowing streams that the United States geological survey has gauged and that successive developments are possible, the first development being capable of producing 50,000 horse power on a twelve-hour basis every day in the year. Successive developments will greatly increase the amount of power available, a total of 200,000 horse power on a twelve-hour basis being possible.

"Third—Reports show that there is a market in Omaha, South Omaha, Council Bluffs and other adjacent cities for approximately 40,000 horse power, and should the railroads of this section be changed to electric roads in place of steam roads, a section and a third development would soon become a necessity.

"Fourth—That the cost of the first development will be approximately $4,000,000 for 50,000 horse power, twelve-hour service each day of the year, delivered to Omaha or other points equally distant from the power plant.

"Fifth—That we are assured that capitalists and manufacturers of financial strength are satisfied that this power development would be a very profitable investment and that they stand ready to assist in financing the project and that a corporation is soon to be organized known as the Nebraska Power company, with an authorized capital of $12,000,000 and an authorized bond issue of $8,000,000.

"Your committee believes that the development of this project would be of incalculable value to Omaha and to the entire state of Nebraska. Every city within 100 miles of the Columbus power plant would receive a great impetus in its growth. The growth of our neighboring cities would still further increase the rapid growth of our great jobbing interest.

But most of all, it would give Omaha that cheap power which would result in bringing large factories here, factories that would employ from 2,000 to 5,000 workmen. While Omaha is probably as favored as Kansas City, Minneapolis, Chicago or St. Louis, in the price of steam power or electric power generated by steam plants, it is the view of your committee that the development of the Loop river power would give Omaha her greatest need in becoming a great manufacturing city.

"The cheap power would give Omaha advantages over any of her rivals that would attract the attention of manufacturers the entire country over.

"Your committee therefore recommends that the Commercial club of Omaha endorse and encourage the building of a hydro-electric power plant and believes that the general plans, as outlined by Mr. Babcock, are practical and should receive the assistance of the Commercial club and the citizens of Omaha and the entire state of Nebraska."
