

Great Heat with Little Fuel

"NOVEL SUPERIOR" Reversible Flue Heater

In selecting a heating stove, it is natural to seek one that produces the greatest amount of heat with the least fuel, that is easy to regulate, cleanly in operation, and possessing desirable features.

The "NOVEL SUPERIOR" fulfils all the above requirements and is indeed one of the best heating stoves ever constructed for obtaining good results in the use of coal.

Very little coal is needed to operate, the combustion is perfect, and the distribution of heat uniform.

The NOVEL SUPERIOR is built upon a new original plan.

FOR CONSTIPATION

A Medicine that Does Not Cost Anything Unless It Cures.

If you suffer from constipation in any form whatever, acute or chronic, we will guarantee to supply you medicine that will surely effect a cure if taken with regularity and according to directions for a reasonable length of time. Should the medicine fail to benefit you to your entire satisfaction, we promise that it shall cost you nothing.

No other remedy can be compared with Rexall Odeurine for the easy, pleasant and successful treatment of constipation. The active medicine ingredient of this remedy which is odorless, tasteless and colorless, is an entirely new discovery. Combined with other extremely valuable ingredients, it forms a preparation which is incomparable as a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall Odeurine is notable for their agreeableness to the palate and gentleness of action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience, and may be taken at any time, day or night.

We particularly recommend Rexall Odeurine for children, delicate or aged persons because they do not contain anything that could possibly injure the most delicate organism. They are just as easy to take as candy, and unlike other preparations for a like purpose they do not create a habit, but instead they overcome the cause of habits acquired through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics and harsh physic, and permanently remove the cause of constipation or irregular bowel action.

We want you to try Rexall Odeurine at our risk. We know that there is nothing that will do you so much good, as we will refund your money without argument if they do not do as we say they will. They are prepared in tablet form in two sizes of packages; 36 tablets, 25c., and 12 tablets, 10c. Pollock & Co. the druggists on the corner.

The Corn Show.

The committee appointed to arrange for a local corn show decided to have the exhibition on Saturday, November 21. The object is to select the best exhibits and enter them at the national show in Omaha. If sufficient interest is shown the committee may decide to make a county exhibit.

There are some very attractive premiums offered and the committee hopes that the Platte county farmers will show enough interest to make a creditable showing from the county.

Parties interested may receive a complete premium list by applying to the secretary, Albert Stenger.

All exhibits must be at the Firemen's hall by 11 o'clock a. m., Saturday, Nov. 21st, and will be taken in charge by a member of the committee.

Any exhibits brought in previous to the date of the show, may be left at either one of the mills, securely packed and the name of the exhibitor plainly marked on the package. The committee will call for them there.

The prizes offered by the local show are the following, 10 ears to form an exhibit.

Yellow corn—First prize $5.00; second prize $3.00; third prize $2.00.
White corn—First prize $5.00; second prize $3.00; third prize $2.00.
Any other variety, including Calico etc.—First prize $5.00; second prize $3.00; third prize $2.00.

MULE PROVED RIGHT

DID WELL TO STAY OUT IN OPEN DURING STORM.

Call it Stubbornness or Prudence, or Anything You Wish, But His Action Saved the Life of His Rider.

"Everybody knows that all mules are brainy, but the mules of Old Mexico have something on other mules for a sort of prudence of their own," said a man who has spent many years in the neighboring republic, to a New York Sun writer. "A Mexican mule will do just so much work and not a bit more.

"The riding mule, for instance, is fully aware of the distance, down to a rod, he is supposed and required to traverse in the progress of one traveling day, and all the sharp sticks or goads or dynamite on earth won't get him to do a bit more than what he knows to be the correct distance. The Mexicans have a peculiar saying in connection with this characteristic of the Mexican mule. You ask a Mexican, for instance, how far it is by muleback to such and such a point.

"Two days' journey if you are not rushed, but three days if you are in a hurry," the Mexican will reply. "His meaning is that if you don't ask any more of your mule than you should ask of him the mule will be able to make the trip in two days. But if you attempt to drive the brute he'll soldier on you, and in consequence the journey will take you three days.

"Now for the prudence of which I spoke. I don't know what else to call it. The latest instance I saw of it was when I was riding through the state of Sonora a month or so ago on an old gray mule that knew every turn and twist of the road I was taking so thoroughly that I let the bridle reins hang and permitted him to go it alone.

"Along toward evening a terrific thunder storm came up. The air was heavy with the fumes of sulphur—something I had heard about but had never experienced before—and the crashes were deafening. The road was rocky and bad and there was only an occasional scrub pine alongside.

"The old gray mule, when the storm reached its height, stopped his jog of a sudden and stood in the middle of the road, peacefully enough. He wasn't worried, apparently, but he considered that that was a pretty good place to stand during the continuance of the tremendous electrical storm, for it was out in the open.

"For myself, I wanted to get under the shelter of a pine tree about a hundred yards ahead of me. But the mule wouldn't and wouldn't see that. Him for the open, and there he stood.

"I prodded him with the spurs, but he merely looked around at me in a disgusted sort of way. Then I dismounted and tried to lead him. Nothing doing. He wouldn't budge.

"So at length, giving in to him that he knew more about it than I did, I wrapped my poncho about my head and stood at his head, waiting for the storm to pass. I hadn't stood by the mule in that way for more than three minutes before I saw a couple of balls of red fire playing around the trunk of the pine tree that I'd wanted to get under the shelter of. Then there came a positively deafening crash and when I could see again there was that pine tree stretched across the road and a good part of it in kindling wood. "I suppose maybe that old gray mule didn't know. I give it to him, anyhow, that he did."

The Pigs of Brittany.

"Brittany is all right," the traveled man said, cautiously, "but beware of the pigs there."

He had still an hour before the steamer started, and he resumed: "The Breton pig is not fat and indolent like ours. He is as lean and fiery as a wolf, and twice a wolf's size. All over Brittany you see him, swaggering up and down the white roads, in search of roots, berries, frogs, anything for he must forage for himself—his master never feeds him. Step out of his way, or he will snarl and leap at you.

"The Bretons are great drunkards. Sometimes they fall asleep beside the road. They awake with a sharp pain in the arm or leg, the pain of a hungry hog's teeth.

"And I could tell you a gruesome story of the babyhood of a handless Breton beggar whose parents once left him alone in his cradle with the house door open—but it is too horrible."

A Good Dodge.

Senator Elkins was congratulated at a dinner on his fine new yacht, the Marietta.

From yachts to yachting clothes the transition was easy, and Senator Elkins told a story.

"An old fellow," he said, "sat in a seaside cafe. He had finished luncheon; he was now drinking champagne. The sun shone on the white sand, the sea sparkled, and every little while the old fellow ordered another cold half-bottle.

"With the third order he said uneasily to the waiter:

"Waiter, is my nose getting red?"
"Yes, sir," the waiter answered, "it is, sir, I'm sorry to say, sir."
"That won't do," said the old fellow. "That won't do at all. Waiter, send out and get me a yachting cap."

Looking Both Ways.

Mrs. Gudehart—Mrs. Fair has such a sunny disposition.
Mrs. Gossip—And such a shady character.

True Both Ways.

"The die is cast!" hissed the villain.
Then, shaking their gold locks, the chorus bounded on.
"It seems," the critic murmured, "that the cast is dyed, too."

Professional Advice.

"Doctor, do you think my illness is serious enough to justify me in settling up my affairs?"
"Um—well, you would be justified in settling your account with me."

Atonement.

"Sister Shufflem," says the deacon's wife, "I am pained to hear that your husband played poker the other night and won a sum of money, and that you encouraged him in his wickedness by accepting his winnings from him. I have called to speak to you about it, and to reason with you as to—"

"Wait a minute, Sister Canty," interrupts Mrs. Shufflem. "It is true that John Henry went and played poker and won $20.40, and that I took the money he won, but I did it to teach him a lesson. I wouldn't allow a husband of mine to keep such ill-gotten gains. And I have spent the money for prizes for the bridge party I am going to give this week. You'll be here, won't you?"
"Indeed I shall, of course. I'm glad, Sister Shufflem, that you have taught your husband such a valuable lesson."
—Judge.

FIND PIRATES' HOARD

WINDFALL FOR PEOPLE OF PORTUGUESE VILLAGE.

Hidden Plunder of Long-Forgotten Sea Banditti Revealed Through the Encroachments of the Atlantic Ocean on Coast.

The inhabitants of Paradelha, a tiny fishing village on the Portuguese coast some distance south of Lisbon, have been growing rich of late on what seems to have been the hidden plunder of some long-forgotten pirate band. Some of them have gathered in as much as $1,000 worth of treasure.

That part of the coast of Portugal is suffering from the encroachments of the ocean. Many houses have been determined in the last few years and have had to be abandoned. Sometimes big slices of dry land slip off into the Atlantic ocean on a stormy night and the people wake up to find all landmarks changed.

This is what happened a couple of weeks ago in a furious gale. The waves washed far in over the upland and carried away vast masses of the upper soil, leaving the shelving beach a couple of hundred feet wider than it had ever been before. A fisherman walking along the edge of the strand saw something glistening in the slope and rooting it out of the ground found it was an ancient silver cup. He dug some more and found quantities of scattered gold and silver coins.

When the news got around the village the whole population turned out to dig. They found still more money, all dating back to the end of the eighteenth century. There were rings and brooches, crucifixes and jeweled chalices, jeweled sword handles and table plate. Nobody knows just how much the treasure amounted to, since the fisherfolk hid it as fast as they secured it, and when the official inquiries were made every one denied his own share.

They are still digging, however, and an occasional find is made. The sea seems to have broken up the cache and distributed its contents over many acres of beach. Objects are picked up as far as low water mark, and some are doubtless washed back from time to time from deep water.

It is believed that the treasure represents plunder from Spanish coast towns. It is said that long ago there were numerous bands of Portuguese pirates which committed depredations on a considerable scale both afloat and ashore, and when Portugal was at peace with Spain they were obliged to be very careful and hide their plunder. From time to time other hoards of the same sort have been discovered. When this collection was buried, no doubt, the spot was far enough from the water's edge to be regarded as safe for all time.

Serious Thoughts.

The multimillionaire was being shaved. As he lay back in his chair, looking upward, his grave face gave the impression that he was in deep study.

"Ah," whispered one of the barber-shop lotterers, "I'll wager a dollar against a toothpick that he is thinking of railroad mergers."

"No," said another, "he is thinking about bear raids in Wall street."

"Bet he is pondering over the re-bate system," echoed a third.

"I'll ask him."

Walking over to the chair he said politely:
"Beg pardon, sir, but to settle an argument, would you kindly tell us what mighty question you are studying over?"
The multimillionaire turned his lathered face around and smiled. "I was just studying two files doing hand-springs on the ceiling," he chuckled, and the trio of guessers looked so sleepily they failed to hear "Next" when it was called to them.—Chicago News.

Antidote for Ingersoll.

Colonel Ingersoll was to speak in a Western town. As an antidote for the good people announced for the following night: "An answer to Ingersoll!" Circulars were even scattered about the hall the night before, and one was handed to Ingersoll by mistake as he made his way toward the platform. He was fairly into his subject, when a mule attached to one of the vehicles about the entrance opened up an opposition, after the manner of mules. Ingersoll paused, listened intently till the music ceased for an instant, then, shaking a menacing finger in the direction whence the sound had come, he cried:
"Hold on there! You stop! Can't you play fair? This is my evening! You are advertised for to-morrow night!"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Always Good.

"Ah, yonder goes a wicked beauty," said the Fool, the while he pointed out a very handsome woman in the street.

"Friend Fool, there is no such thing as a wicked beauty," was the Sage's answer.

"But, Master Sage, that beauty I am showing you, she's very wicked!" cried the Fool. "Why, she has ruined men galore! Wicked—well, I should say she was!"

The Sage smiled simply as he made reply:

"You may be right in that the woman's wicked. But—"

He paused an instant to drive home his point.

"Her beauty, Fool, is good, exceeding good!"—Hertshberger's Weekly.

Historical Revelation.

"How could you distinguish Achilles from the girls?" asked the Greeks.
"How could you see that he was a man in woman's garb?"
"He didn't," explained Ulysses, "drop his handkerchief every time he turned around."

My! But isn't He Nasty!
Young Green—Do you know, sir, I believe that woman is really endowed with a sixth sense.
Old Grouch—Humph! Just about a sixth, all the women I've met.—Tribuna.

USED 'PHONE TO BRING THEM.

Minister's Successful Method of Gathering Congregation.

One of the most difficult propositions that a new pastor has to face, when he takes charge of a church that has fallen off in attendance and generally gone to seed, is to fill the pews and build up the membership anew. Not long ago this problem was solved in a Brooklyn church. Before taking hold the new pastor had planned a scheme which he thought would work moderately well, but which, in the end, far exceeded his hopes in its results. A few days before the eventual first Sunday he called upon a dozen of the "pillars of the church" and asked them each to call up on the telephone early on Sunday morning a half dozen at least of their friends, and not only ask them especially to come to church that morning, but also to telephone the same request to as many of their own friends as they could. They all promised to do so, and when the clergyman reached his church that Sunday he found it packed. He had prepared a rousing sermon and every one went away well satisfied.

This method of getting a congregation was continued along practically the same lines for months. As a result of the "drumming up" by telephone the size of the congregation increased enormously and the membership is greater than it ever was before. As there is not room for more in the old church they now are talking of building a new one, and the pastor's salary is $2,000 a year bigger than it was when he took hold.

Women Fishermen—Flemish Style. On the coasts of Holland, Belgium and northern France the fishermen are a familiar sight, with their great hand nets and quaint costumes. Many of the towns have distinctive costumes by which their women can be recognized anywhere. Those of Marlborough, near Ostend, wear trousers and loose blouses, while their heads and shoulders are covered by shawls. They carry their nets into the sea and scoop up vast quantities of shrimps and prawns, with an occasional crab or lobster and many small fish. They often wade out till the water is up to their necks, and they remain for hours at a time in water above their knees, rarely returning until their baskets are full.

Where Sexes Are Equal. Women are privileged to make a will when 18 years of age in Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho, and in these states the wife and minor children are entitled to a homestead and a certain allowance out of her husband's estate, which has priority over ordinary debts. Also in these states there is equality of inheritance for both sexes, women having been instrumental in making the laws of these states.

Misery. Muzzles do not worry dogs worse than suspenders and stiff collars do men.

Her Asset. A homely girl never worries of telling how many good things she can cook.

The Difference. Orthodoxy is my doxy; heterodoxy is another man's doxy.—Warburton.
