MANY YEARS AGO.

File of the Journal Nov. 22, 1876.
Wolves are not very numerous, but we occasionally hear them. J. J. Bump killed a large one the first of the week. Wouldn't it be fun for some of our sports to organize a wolf hunt?

Mr. Kilbourne, the mail carrier for John Huber, on his return trip Friday night from Genoa, met with a painful accident. His team got off the road and upset him, dislocating his shoulder. It took five men to put it in place.

Reading precinct, Butler county, has organized fire companies to guard their property from destruction by prairie fire. We commend the system to all the precincts in the state. It might save annually thousands of dollars worth of property as well as valuable lives.

Geo. W. Brown started on Saturday last, with his stock, for his new home on the Cedar, about forty miles west of this city. His family will soon go forward to join him. (Mr. Brown was one of the first settlers near what is now the town of Cedar Rapids, and his son, E. G. Brown, is the Union Pacific agent in this city.)

Nebraskans usually eat apples with such a relish as to make all lookers on hungy for that article. Let us all hurry up and have orchards of our own. The cultivation of the new soil and proper wind breaks will aid in making fruit plentiful in this state. Every man who owns land should begin at once with his wind break and fruit trees.

Tuesday morning, after the snow of the preceding evening, opened up bright and beautiful, just the way Nebraska deals out her weather to a grumbling populace who complain about its fickleness. We still repeat that men who work out of doors in Nebraska can get in more days' work, summer and winter, than in any other northern middle state in which we ever lived.

W. B. Patton's New Play.

"The Blockhead" is a beautiful comedy, embodied with great heart interest, refined and high-class, furnishing ample opportunity for beautiful costumes and scenery. Mr. Patton has firmly established himself as one of the quaint entertainers with the theatre going public, and his personal magnetism, his easy droll manner will always insure him liberal patronage. He is surrounded by a company equal to every demand of the comedy, and is announced for an engagement at the North Theatre, Tues. Day Nov. 23, when the theatre no doubt will be packed to its utmost capacity.

Columbus will have another jewelry store, making four in all, and it will be located on Thirteenth street. Edw. D. Fitzpatrick, who has been an expert in this line has decided that Columbus will be about as good a town as there is in the state for such an opening, and left Monday afternoon for Chicago to purchase his opening stock. He is having the east side of the Fitzpatrick dry goods store arranged for his jewelry department, and expects to have as up-to-date a store as there is in the state. And another of the improvements in this locality for the near future is a new and modern front, for this building, and also for Deck's drug store and the L. W. Snow building, owned by Mr. Arnold Schleicher.

In compliance with election law regarding expenses during the campaign, the expense accounts have been filed by the county candidates. The democrats had but one contest, that of sheriff, and it cost Henry Lachnit $47.65 to secure his election certificate. Treasurer Held, Judge Ratterman and County Clerk Graf had no opposition, but they nevertheless donated $25 each to the county committee. Superintendent Leeson, who had no opposition also donated $25 to the committee and in addition paid out $5 for livery hire. The successful candidates, Coronor Gass and Surveyor Rosser did not find it necessary to expend any money during the campaign.

Edward Arthur Miner, formerly of Columbus, and Mable Irene Davis of Council Bluffs were united in marriage Wednesday at high noon, November 10, 1909, at the home of the bride, by Rev. James W. Williams, pastor of the Methodist church. Just the immediate friends and relatives of the families were present. The young couple took a short trip to this city, visiting among old friends. Mr. Miner is a traveling salesman for a news company. They will go to housekeeping at once in their home at 2914 Avenue A, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Columbus people were very much surprised to learn of the arrest of Dr. and Mrs. L. B. Doxey last Monday evening on a charge of adultery, which had been filed by Miss Kate Eder, who, with her mother had arrived from St. Louis that day. After the arrest Dr. and Mrs. Doxey were held as prisoners at the Meridian hotel under the charge of Constable Ed Rossiter, when they were taken before Police Judge O'Brien Tuesday morning and released on $500 bonds, until their hearing Thursday of this week. Miss Eder and her mother charge that Mrs. Doxey married Miss Eder's brother, Wm. J. Eder, at Clayton, Missouri, on April 19, 1909, and lived with him in St. Louis until the first part of June, this year, when she returned to Columbus and lived with Dr. Doxey until the latter part of the same month. She again returned to St. Louis and lived with Mr. Eder for a few weeks, when he was taken sick and died in a few days. Mrs. Doxey then settled up his affairs and collected his life insurance and returned to Columbus and again lived with Dr. Doxey. Mrs. Doxey, however, denies that she was ever married to Mr. Eder and says she is the wife of Dr. Doxey to whom she was married in August, 1906, and produces a marriage certificate to prove her assertion. Since the matter has been looked into it has been learned that Mrs. Doxey, at different times, has gone under six or seven different names in various places. Dr. Doxey first came to Columbus last April, and was on his way to Erickson, this state, but after going there and looking over the field decided to return to Columbus, which he did, opening up an office in the German National bank building early in May.

In order to show the splendid resources of a district along the Great Northern line in Montana, eleven commercial clubs of that state collected an excellent display of grains and fruits from that locality for an exhibition car, which was in Columbus all day last Wednesday. The car, which is in charge of two men, being taken over the Burlington lines and left Montana about a month ago, is being taken over the Burlington lines and left Montana about a month ago, is being taken over the Burlington lines free of charge, the company donating the transportation as their portion toward showing what that section of the northwest can produce. It was an interesting exhibit, and before the car finishes its mission, will have visited many principal towns in Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa, making a stop at a day at each place. This is done to advertise a portion of Montana that is yet open to homesteads, and which the government will not advertise, in the hope of including prospective settlers to investigate it.

Wm. Hollingshead of Monroe, and one of the early settlers in that locality, died Monday, death being due to old age. He came to Nebraska in the seventies and located about a mile northwest of Monroe, and about seventeen years ago moved into the village, which he has since made his home. He was a veteran of the civil war, having served in a Wisconsin regiment. Besides his aged wife he leaves five sons, Jesse Hollingshead of Chicago, Milt and A. N. Hollingshead of Gadsden, Tex., J. H. Hollingshead of Arcadia and C. W. Hollingshead of Monroe, and one daughter, Mrs. D. W. Jenkins of Monroe. Funeral services were held at Monroe Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, being conducted by the Methodist pastor.

On Tuesday Nov. 23, when Mr. Patton will be seen here in his newest comedy success, "The Blockhead" there will be little standing room at the North Theatre, judging by the universal satisfaction attained here last season. The play contains an interesting story, told in an uncommonly interesting way. The story is elaborately and beautifully staged with a complete new production of elegant scenery and electrical effects and a specially selected company.

The hotels and restaurants of Columbus who are serving butterine, or imitation butter, are displaying the required signs advising the public as to what they are serving. This is in compliance with the law, which requires that where imitation butter is served these signs shall be displayed. The penalty for failure to observe this law is a fine of $100 and costs, and the local men are not taking any chances on being brought up, and the additional notoriety the arrest would give them.
