

BE IT KNOWN

That—in accordance with the custom of our forefathers, and the Recommendation of His excellency, the Governor of this Commonwealth, we shall set aside Thursday, November 25 as a day of Thanksgiving and feasting—and the merchandising of this store, and all sundry shall cease for the time being.

BE IT FURTHER KNOWN

—That we hereby designate the days from now until November 25th, inclusive, as Days of Preparations—bringing forward (for the benefit of all good housewives, who visit this store) all the paraphernalia which may be needed to make Thanksgiving a joyous occasion in each and every home.

—And selling it—whether it be plain or fancy linens, domestics, silverware, cutlery, china, glassware, pleasing raiment for young or old, or other timely and appropriate merchandise, for less than—for smaller prices than rule at other stores.

This is to be a GREAT THANKSGIVING SALE

—An opportunity for wise folks to save money on each purchase made on the days we have mentioned.

THE SALE CONTINUES UNTIL THANKSGIVING

When the Fairies Are Noisy.

Among the flowers which are said to be very popular with fairies are bluebells, harebells and wood sorrel. All these flowers are used by the fairies to attract the attention of their friends who are at a little distance. If you are ever out in the woods when the bluebell or wood sorrel begins to peal in delicate, soft tones you will know that the little fower is being awayed to and fro by some visiting fairy. The foxglove, known also as the fairy bell, are also said to be used by the fairies for charms, but when the little people wish to sound a real resounding blast that shall awaken from slumber some tiny friend in a nearby flower bed or thicket they use not a bell, but a rose leaf rolled up into a very charming horn.—Lexington Leader.

Ready Wit.

Many good stories are told of the "Poet" Craig, for so many years a familiar figure on the London cricket and football grounds. On one occasion Craig began at the Oval, "Gentlemen, this is my favorite ground," when some one interrupted: "Craig, you said that at Leyton last week." "Yes, sir," returned the unabashed poet, "and I shall say it at Canterbury next week. The ground on which the noble game is being played before an assembly of intelligent and enlightened purchasers of my poetry is always my favorite ground for the time being." But Craig knew how to keep an impertinent interrupter in his place. Once a stout, red faced man broke in on one of his speeches with: "Craig, you're making a lot of money out of fools. When are you going to set up a 'pub'?" "When you come and live next door to me, sir!" was the answer, and the red faced man turned crimson. Another man at the Oval once said: "Now, Craig, tell us how much you've made out of bad poetry." "More, I venture to say, sir, than you've made out of bad manners!"—London Scrap.

The Best Proof.

Little Ted, seven years old, was sent to the bathroom for a "good scrub" before dinner, but returned so quickly that his mother declared he couldn't possibly have washed himself. He replied, "Truly I did, mother, and if you don't believe it you can just go to the bathroom and look at the towel."—Delineator.

Wanted—An Interpreter.

It was a case of assault, and the literally downtrodden wife was laying her grievances before the magistrate. "He started by giving me a buff on the nut," explained the angry complainant.

"My good woman," rebuked the magistrate, "you mustn't talk like that here. I suppose you mean he gave you a blow upon the head."

"Yus, yer washup. An' then 'e tried ter do me in by checkin' 'is 'baccy box at me."

"By which I presume you mean," interposed the justice of the peace severely, "that he tried to injure you by precipitating his box of tobacco at you. Pray proceed and avoid slang and inform the court what other injuries he inflicted upon you."

"Well, then, he—er—he—" "Come, come!" snapped the magistrate, really beginning to lose his temper. "Don't waste the time of the court."

The ill used wife looked about her helplessly.

"Excuse me, yer washup," she exclaimed at length, "but I was wonderin' what was the pet name in this 'ere court for a buff on the jib!"—London Answers.
