MEBRASKA NEWS AND NOTES. ttems of Interest Taken From Here and There Over the State.

Four hundred birds made noise and attracted attention when the Dodge county poultry show opened at Fre-

Gen. Casement, who died recently at Painesville. Ohio, laid the original rails of the Union Pacific as far west as Cheyenne. He is well remembered by many old-timers in Omaha and throughout the state.

Joseph Dukes, who was one of the prize winners at the fiddlers' carnival in Nebraska City captured a sixtythree-pound catfish from the Missouri river, near his home at Minersville, and brought the captive to the city alive and put him on exhibition.

Denver dispatch: Hogs sold at a new record price in the Denver market, when a carload from Wauneta, Neb., sold at $8.471/2. A carload some days previous went at $8.40, the previous highest price having been $8.27½ in February.

Charles Cercl. son of a Saunders county farmer, will not be tried on the charge of being the father of the child of Miss Rosie Sanda of Lancaster county. The case has been dismissed and it is understood a marriage between the complaining witness and the accused is to follow.

Uncle Sam takes deep interest in road building and in the government exhibit at the National Corn exposition, had quite an extensive exhibit on roads. There was a large steam roller at work showing just how to roll the roads and how to prepare them in various forms.

The plans and specifications for the new wing of the Normal building at Kearney are now ready and bids will be called for for the construction of the building. The plans call for a fireproof construction, and the building will add greatly to the convenience of the school and also give it a chance to expand.

Adjutant General Hartigan's office is busy furnishing a tabulation of the records made by the Nebraska guards to the war derartment. The individual score of each member must be submitted. Compared with other states Nebraska will not make a very good showing, although the record as a whole will surpass last year's.

Judge Hostetler gave Robert Radcliff one year in the penitentiary for forging a cneck on the Union Pacific hotel of Kearney last April. Radcliff is the man whom the sheriff of Buffalo county captured at Des Moines and had difficulty in getting him from lowa, owing to attorneys fighting the granting of a requisition for his return to Nebraska.

Emphasis on the attention that should be paid to the proper preparation of the younger people of the state for their part in the agricultural life, which constitutes the backbone of all the business of Nebraska was the burden of a speech by W. C. Coupland, member of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska, delivered at the National Corn exposition.

Physicians of Fairbury were summoned to the home of August Theye, living seven miles west of the city. to attend a young son of Mr. Theye, who met with a very serious accident. While running with an open pocket knife in his nand the lad fell in such a manner that the blade of the knife penetrated the abdomen. He will warm.

The supreme court directed mandamus to issue to compel the Board of Regents of the university to locate and maintain two experimental stations in the sand hills, according to the provisions of an act of the late legislature. The law provided that the money should be paid out of the university temporary fund, and the regents alleged this money could not be spent for that purpose.

A series of important experiments are to be started in Columbus by the department of agriculture, beginning early in the new year, for the testing of corn, as to the moisture contained and as to its keeping qualities. The corn to be tested will be placed in bins which will be electrically wired, so that the temperature of the corn in the interior of the bin can be tested as accurately as that at the edges.

On complaint of his wife John Patton of Buffalo county was arrested for incest. A full confession was made and Patton was sentenced to fifteen years at hard labor in the state penitentiary. Patton is about 35, and industrious, but ignorant. His wife is a rather comely young woman of average intelligence, and they have six bright children, the oldest of whom, a girl of 13, was the victim of her inhuman father.

A. Zapp met with a peculiar accident at Emerson Saturday. He was working in his planing mill alone when in some unknown manner he was caught in the belting of the machinery. Every thread of clothing was stripped from him and he was thrown unconscious to the floor, where he lay for several hours suffering greatly from the cold. While he is bruised and sore it is thought he is not dangerously hurt.

Will M. Maupin, head of the bureau of labor, is getting out an innovation in the form of a blank to be sent to all labor organizations. The blank contains a long and comprehensive list of questions in regard to the wage schedules existing over the state.

E. C. Hurd, engineer in charge of the work of finding the physical valuation of railroad property under the stock may go hungry before apring farmers having pure-bred flocks will provision of the physical valuation Any farm produces more feed of the find an occasional cockerel which it law enacted by the recent legislature has submitted his report to the State of stock kept can consume, at least ing pen. The owner instinctively feels in the corn belt, but some just refuse that more cash would be realized from made a part of that body's report to to put it in shock. We bought a corn the sale of such fellows as breeders

Frank Schmidt was arrested in Belville, Kan., and brought to Fairbury, charged with forgery. It is alleged that Schmidt, who was working for R. M. Tyson of Tobias, took a blank checkbook and wrote a check in favor sections of the country this season, all wrong. It is true that when one of himself and signed Mr. Tyson's bees were unable to secure much goes on the road away from home he

of a branch department that will be tue to the protracted drought, it will ten-dollar bill at a sale, providing it covered myself, as quartermaster gen- cial devotion of the church could be have married. opened soon at Omaha.

Keep chick free from mites.

with a dust bath.

A lazy hen will soon be a sick hen. Make her stir around.

Warm milk is better for fowls than that which is very cold.

The croon of the thresher is part of der galls.

the world's popular music. done before winter sets in.

Too heavy feeding is ant to cause breaking down among the poultry.

Truck teams used in the large cities are mated as carefully as coach teams.

There is good in all breeds; but it is true that while all are good some are

When pigs are growing grazing is til fully eighteen months of age. important, and is conducive to health and profit.

Time in live stock breeding is one of the most costly factors that enters into the business.

New corn is not a safe feed for fowls of any kind. Let it get fairly seasoned before you begin on it.

value of draft horses as well as in will die. coach or driving horses.

to success in anything else.

made in the cattle herds of the coun- before you put them away. Get them

The water used in the barn and for cleansing the milk utensils must be absolutely free from contamination.

A decrease of from 10 to 50 per cent. in milk yield follows exposure at this season, or any other, for that matter.

when dairy cattle are included, ranks old.

If there is anything about the farm worth all its costs, it is a windmill

Be careful of the brood mare as foaling time draws near. Light farm work will not hurt her if you use good judgment.

Sheep despise a low, muddy place. They will not thrive there, but will soon have sore feet and will be all wrong every way.

No person having any communicable disease, or one caring for persons who have, shall be allowed to handle the milk or milk utensils.

The use of any preservative or colcause for the exclusion of the product from the market.

If you wish to kill an evergreen tree, girdling will do it. If you wish roost in the branches.

There is no better time than before muddy feed yard, this winter.

More hogs are being raised in Colorado than for some time and it is predicted that it will not be long before stroyed. the state will supply a large portion of its own consumption of pork.

enough was up.

Owing to the extreme dry weather which has prevailed throughout many name to it.

A well-earned promotion has come Beekeepers will do well to be very to a former Lyons boy now of Des cautious in offering such honey for not pleasant to get a ton of fodder on. Moines, Ia. Harry Durrie, who has sale, or they may get into trouble for only a few rods from the house, and been working for the last three years violating the pure food laws. As this have a wheel smesh or an axie break with the Bankers' Accident Insurance aoney is likely to be of fair quality. But a wagon that could not be sold company, has been placed at the head and bees short on stores for winter for a dollar with a box on, sells for a wild stamped for safety came, I diswith the Bankers' Accident Insurance | noney is likely to be of fair quality. But a wagon that could not be sold pe well to feed this product back to carries a rickety rack and is called a the bees.

Sheep are efficient weed killers.

The sow should be large and roomy. If the hens are too fat they will lay oft shelled eggs.

The watched clock never strikes "Come thou up higher!"

A brooder will raise more chicks than the average old hen.

It is just as easy to grade your flock up as it is to grade it down.

A brooder can easily be kept free from vermin. Not so the hen.

Good management of the poultry plants allows no waste or leaks.

Wood ashes are good in their place, but that place is not in the hen house

Too constant sitting makes the hens Be sure that the hens are provided of bad disposition and difficult to man-

> Molasses is highly recommended as a portion of the ration for draft

Many farmers are finding the use of hameless collars a remedy for shoul-

Roots should not, generally speak-Get as much painting as possible ing, be fed alone, as they carry too much water

> Some trees will bear planting quite thick, while heavy foliaged trees must be set far apart.

> The hands of milkers must be washed and thoroughly dried immediately before milking.

> Sheep of the common mutton breeds are not even fairly well developed un-

> Buckwheat is fine food for young turkeys and should be given them as soon as they are old enough to eat. Swine need more room, more free dom, more grass and succulent feed than they get on the average farm.

If an orchard is on low ground it should be drained because air must Style and finish count in the market be admitted to the soil or the trees

Breeders should be in no hurry to There is no short cut to success in dispose of rams in service, as somepoultry raising any more than there is times lambs of little promise develop into good sheep.

The improvement that is now being | Clean the chicken coops thoroughly

Wyandottes, like other breeds that are not listed to lay pure white eggs do so in individual cases, or under certain systems of leeding.

A two-year-old tree can be started more easily than a three-year-old. The dairy industry is one of the With some varieties a one-year-old large industries, and in valuation tree is even better than a two-year-One cannot afford to pay for gain Petatoes are good for swine, but on an animal, then lose it. Making they are best when cooked and mixed stock live on scant pasture, when with some meal into a mash and fed there is plenty of feed in the field, is poor economy.

The more than usual number of wormy apples this season is a remindand pump pumping water just where er that we must spray the trees thoroughly in the spring in order to have clean fruit in the fall.

> Since the farm is the source of our wealth it behooves us to learn more of our property, and the methods to keep it at its fullest producing capacity without impoverishment.

If there is a patch of late corn, cure and store it away: When chopped valuable feed, when all green forage to turn my reluctant ambition toward the flag of the United States, to which ence of the inevitable globe-trotter, alis sealed up with snow and ice.

Were the turkeys good judges of human nature they would know that the sea. Unfortunately for the reali- vessel as a passenger without possessthe extra feed and kindness now be- zation of their more secret hopes. I ing the necessary papers properly oring matter in butter or milk is an ing bestowed upon them are but the took to that hard, adventurous life as vised, nor could I even ship as seaadulteration and its use is sufficient beginning of a plot for their downfall.

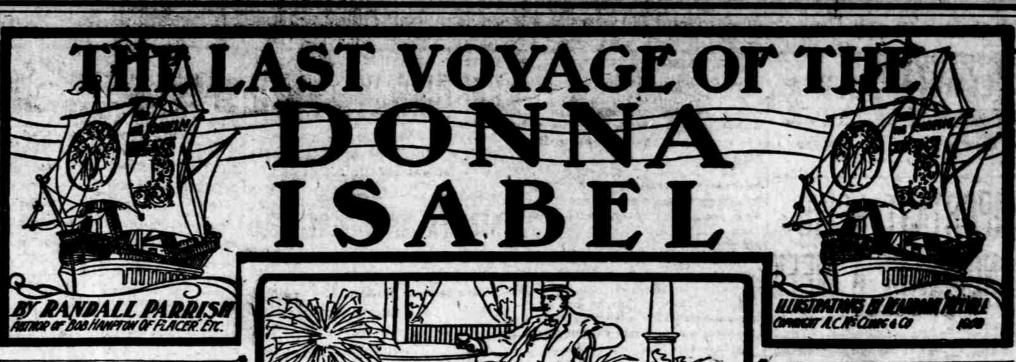

Do not have pullets and hens in the same pen, for if you do it will be impossible to so feed that the pullets will come to laying at the right time. to avoid the labor of girdling there The house should be kept open and is an easier method; let the poultry the pullets allowed outdoor conditions as nearly as possible.

When cabbage is to be stored over you'll need it to build a feed floor for winter, the heads should be examined that bunch of shoats. It certainly critically and diseased ones rejected will not pay to shovel corn into a and kept by themselves. Black rot may be detected by breaking off the lower leaves and examining the stalk. If the fibers of the leaf stalk are blackened the head should be de-

The farmer is not dependent on the prosperity of his neighbor for success. Old, over fed, under fed or neglected The husbandman is close to nature breeding stock can never profit the and derives his wealth from her inowner. The eggs are few and weak exhaustible resources while other inor infertile. If the egg don't hatch, it dustries depend on success in the exisn't the fault of the egg but of the ploitation of their fellow men. The duck that laid it, or perhaps the man farmer looks to the soil for his sucthat failed to care for the duck that cess and becomes responsible for his

There is more feed in the shock on In grading the surplus poultry and some farms than there will be stock dividing it into lots for fattening, .fter to est it, while in other instances the plan suggested a few weeks ago, rough nature than the usual amount seems a pity to send to the slaughterbinder this year just to keep us from than in the form of market poultry. getting tired of corn cutting before and he is tempted to remove them before the lot enters the fattening pen.

> The notion that any old kind of a wagon will do for the feed wagon is feed wagon.

CHAPTER I.

In Which Begins Adventure. Some may question the truth of this narrative, yet they will scarcely be found among those who "go down to the sea in ships." To them the unfathomable mystery abiding upon the face of the great deep, the constant marvel of huge, heaving leagues of watery solitude, secret and profound, must ever remain so vast, so inexplicable, as to be beyond any interrogatory of the finite—the strange, the unexpected, lurking everywhere. To others, mere landsmen, confidently imagining that all phenomena can be reduced within the contracted limits of human comprehension, I need say no more than that witnesses still survive to corroborate the principal incidents of this story, which I now purpose writing in the full glow of a memory still dominated by the events to be recorded.

It had come to be the 5th day of April, the year 1879. I, John Stephens, aged 24, occupied a rather comfortable seat upon the shaded balcony of that large, ultra-fashionable hotel at Valparaiso, which, as travelers will recall, clings to the steep hillside overlooking both the city and harbor beneath. I was alone, not having as yet ordered the serving of the evening meal.

A gayly attired military band was playing noisily in a near-by plaza, and through the intervening distance I was able to distinguish plainly the patriotic notes of national music. I even believed that a medley of shouting voices, mingled with an echo of cheers, was borne to me on the rising night wind, and I leaned above the low railing to gaze down, slightly interested, as a regiment of Chilean infantry-regulars of the line, from their white trousers and stiff hatsswept swiftly past the hotel corner in rapid time, to disappear sucdenly of the quay. Far away, toward the right, where the long row of graystone barracks was still dimly visible against the darker background of surrounding hills, was to be discerned a glimmer of steel, as squadrons of cavalry and artillery engaged in dress parade, their numerous banners flapping against the sky. At the moment these several occurrences served to awaken the merest interest, tending rather to bring home to memory a freshening knowledge of the desperation of my situation.

It can all be told in few words: was persona non grata to the Chilean authorities, with apparently every possible avenue leading forth from the country fully and effectively barred. While personally unknown to those officials, thus far successful in mask ing my movements under the guise of a foreign gentleman of leisure temporarily resident at a fashionable hotel, I nevertheless discovered it imof watchful government spies and through the various grades, to the nonthe Vulcan, trading between New York and South American ports.

Soon after I attained this berth my father died suddenly, leaving behind him a fair amount of property, a goodly share of which came to me in cash. It chanced that, during a previous voyage, a passenger on board had suc- unable to discover any venturesome ceeded in interesting me deeply in certain mining operations which he was conducting under a Bolivian concession. Finding myself in possession of placed upon my shoulder. I might. abundant means, and experiencing by thus continuing to skulk in the that occasional disgust for sea life dark, delay the result, yet the final common to all sailor-men, I embarked with boyish enthusiasm in this new I was cornered, and the time was ripe enterprise, not only investing a con- for the eager acceptance of any recksiderable amount of money, but likewise giving the company my personal services as assistant superintendent.

Beyond doubt our concession was an extremely valuable one, but, as we were soon destined to discover, it came to us with an unfortunate flaw in the title, there developing a spirited controversy between the constituted authorities of Bolivia and Chile, over which country the territory involved belonged. From barsh words in public, and the private exchange of diplomatic notes, the argument rapidly advanced to blows, and was finally referred to the arbitrament of the rifle. As our financial interests were entirely Bolivian, and our invested money still in possession of a considerable general an outpouring of enthusiasm. sum of money, to which no one else Still, the thought held me barely for possessed any better claim, the un- a moment; my own personal affairs healed scar of a Chilean bullet in my were far too serious and insistent for shoulder, and an exceedingly flattering any wasted attention upon the saints. chance of being summarily shot by I turned back from the rail and drumhead court-martial if caught. All glanced carelessly within. The great opportunity for retreat across the Bo- dining hall was already brilliantly illivian frontier was already effectively luminated, and a number of the tables some early opportunity for escape.

ter disappointment. The Chilean aushake the Chilean dust from off my by visions of the war-chest, rumored ents, despairing of ever doing better, the harbor. Manifestly it was imposfinally consented to apprentice me to sible for me to depart on any foreign a duck to water, so that, at the end of man before the mast without running five years' service, I had risen, the gantlet of numerous suspicious officials especially warned to appreorable position of first officer in the hend me. In brief, though possessing old Leyland line, my steamship being ample means, I was a helpless prisoner, my only safety the keeping out the narrow confines of the hotel. Sitting there in solitude that even> ing I thought it out al! over again for the hundredth time, bitterly cursing myself for a stupid fool, yet utterly prospect of ultimate escape. I was trapped as securely as though the hand of actual arrest was about to be ending was inevitable. Beyond doubt less opportunity. Yet, desperate as I was, I could perceive none; everywhere arose the same blank wall of Chilean power, impassable, unassailable, insurmountable. Saint Andrew! mine was a situation to chill the blood. The stars began to gleam in the black void of sky overhead, those brilliant, scintillating stars of the south in their unfamiliar constellations, forever reminding me that I was an alien and a stranger. The city itself, wrapped within the deepening folds of this early night mantle, appeared unusually noisy and demonstrative. I dimly wondered at it. There was a ceaseless blare of bands, a medley of inarticulate cries, mingled with the that we should openly ally ourselves along the roughly paved streets. I with that struggling faction which the could distinguish nothing definite as Chilean authorities promptly de I hung curiously over the bal-mishes wherein ill-equipped and poorly the distant mouth of the harbor a fortofficered paisanos were pitted against ress battery was firing salvos of arregular troops of the line, and, as we tillery, the swift flames of discharge received from Bolivia no more sub- cleaving the black shadows in vicious men? stantial aid than vague promises, our spurts of yellowish red, the sullen re- "It's a cinch. resistance, though rather stubborn, verberations of sound shaking the ho- "Upon what grounds blocked, but, after several weeks of were surrounded by guests. It formed excessive hardship, skulking amid the a cosmopolitan scene, the grouped dark recesses of Indian huts in the faces being representative of a wide mountains. I succeeded in stealing un- variety of races, the scraps of converobserved into Valparaiso, feeling con- sation which floated to me through the fident that, as a sailor, I should be open window revealing half the lanable to discover in that busy seaport guages of Europe. Swarthy Spaniards. volatile Frenchmen, silent sons of Al-This confidence was doomed to bit. bion, talkative Yankess, bewhiskered and bespectacled Germans, blonde, possible to break through the cordon thorities were especially desirous of rosy-cheeked Swedes, together with apprehending me, inspired doubtless representatives from half a dozen South American countries, were indisfeet. A rapid explanation will suffice. to be of far greater value than truth criminately mingled in sudden broth-A native of Massachusetts, of excel- could justify. They were both alert erhood. This motley, interesting comlent family connections, together with and suspicious. The American consul pany was composed principally of prospects of furure wealth, I early de was obdurate to pleading, refusing men, exhibiting here and there the veloped the unrestrainable propensi- peremptorily to become involved in glitter of military uniforms, or some ties of a rover, and after a vain effort the affair, while no war vessel floating peculiarity of attire attesting the presone of the learned professions my par- I might flee for protection, entered though the majority were plainly tion of self, the outer expression of a enough commercial gentlemen, interested in various lines of trade, and drawn into this vortex from the four tery of which was invitation. corners of the globe in the wild scramble after gold. No foreign passenger English with that lack of in the past 24 hours, and I had al- customed to having discreet see ready studied those faces before in the behind their chairs, the man great of sight from all in authority within watching a Chinese attendant lighting ness on the personal appearance of thousand miniature stars.

inclined to beckon a waiter and order | English family party. the serving of dinner, a newly arrived

ting in stately dignity at what might be considered the head of the board, a broad napkin spread across his right knee, was typically aristocratic, of spare figure, stern lean face, with irongray hair, and mustaches trimmed to perfect point, his eyes, cold and emotionless, gleaming like steel points behind gold-rimmed glasses—a man certainly over 60, possessing to the extreme that irritating hauteur possible only to an Englishman of recogaised family and position. The lady occupying the seat opposite him, whom naturally presumed to be his wife, was fleshy enough to own an ample double chin, which drooped to a vaster expanse below; most expensively gowned, her fingers laden with dismonds, and a lorgnette at her eye, through which she deliberately surveyed the assembled company. Her evident attempt at duplicating the calm haut-ton of her emotionless companion was nevertheless somewhat of counterfeit, as it failed to conceal wholly a slight twinkle of amusement curving the corners of her mouth, and a certain slight vulgar uneasiness of manner. His ideal was evidently that of a. marble statue, cold, immaculate, his slightest movement revealing the frigidity of one born to the purple, while my lady retained some semblance to flesh and blood, although well veneered by long social artifice. He was nature, while she had evidently been developed by skill; yet the matron, to my thinking, proved far the more interesting specimen of the two. I must confess, however, wasting precious little attention upon either. for my eyes early rested upon the younger woman seated between the company of guests had taken posses sion of the small round table just within the open window. Three were in the party, apparently father, mother and daughter, beyond question of high social class. Paterfamilias, sit-

two, and hence directly confronting er picture of womanhood just when the lovely flower becomes a blossom fully blown, yet assuredly none other ever possessed for me the same indefinable fascination, the same ineffable charm. Twenty-two, possibly, although her age was difficult to guess, with oval face and clear, fresh skin, the rich, red blood of perfect health; crimsoning the rounded cheeks; eyes of deepest, darkest gray, the kind of eyes pledging a thoughtful soul behind to yield them such rare power of expression; a face reflecting the joy of living, yet responsive, and, in mements of quietness, saddened beyond its years; an entrancing dimple visible in the rather broad chin; the lips moist and rosy with health, sufficiently parted to reveal a tantalising glimpse of white, regular teeth behind: the forehead low and broad, the wealth of shadowing hair of darkest brown, yet with an odd gleam of reddish gold causing the gathered masses to seem an aureole of beauty. But it was not the outward face alone, nor any combination of pleasing features, which yielded such rare and indescribable charm-it was rather a distinct and unusual personality which gave to these both life and attractiveness. Her slightest glance or movement, natural secret inward life which I instinctively longed to penetrate, the guarded mys-

The three conversed little, speaking steamer had entered the harbor with- common to those who have have been vague, shadowy hope of discovering a bling icily over the quality of food for friend. I lit another cigarro, out of nished and the indifferent service, my sheer nervousness, and sat silently lady commenting with audible distinctthe colored lanterns suspended along the various people present, the girl the balcony roof. A sudden rocket contenting herself with an occasional went swiftly and sizzling up from out monosyllable when directly addressed. the center of the great plaza below, I dispatched my own order, and, while and my eyes followed its swift flight idly waiting the return of the servant, into the black sky until it burst into had my attention attracted toward a group gathered about a second table When I turned once again, now half just beyond the one occupied by the (TO BE CONTEMUED.)

Getting Along All Right.

quired a very good knowledge of Eng. which symbolize the circumstances of lish went out to deliver a lecture in our Lord's death and passion. The that language. On his return, says leaves represent the spear, the tenthe Hartford Courant, one of the in- drils the cords with which he was structors asked if he had a pleasant scourged, the ten petals the ten apostime. He replied: "Yes, very." tles who deserted him, the central "How did you get on with the lec- pillar the cross, the stamens the ture?" "Oh, quite well, but the audi- hammers, the styles the nails, the inence smiled at some things when I ner circle round the center the crown could see no jokes." "Could you give of thorns, the white hue of the flower me an instance?" "Well, I opened my is typical of innocence, and the blue lecture by saying that although I was shade a symbol of heaven. The fact new in English language I thought I that the Passion flower remains open smiled." Now, doubtless the audience represents the death, burial and resursmiled at what they thought was the rection of our Lord.—Home Notes. nounced as insurrectos, and proceeded cony rail, staring idly down, yet adapted a bit of American slang; but ready way in which a foreigner had

Proving It.

good Ragi

The Passion Flower. A young Japanese in one of our in- | The lovely Passion flower takes its stitutions of learning, having ac name on account of its characteristics.

Send for the S. P. C. C. to crush.

It was plainly evident that the entire he did set understand the smile because for the alleged injurious effects of rocking on babies."

A "Young Mother" asks our opinion of "the alleged injurious effects of rocking on babies."

We must frankly say that we con sider it a brutal practice. As the "You may women are smarter than father of a great many bables, of all ages, we never rocked on any of them intentionally, and we would probably be arrested if we expressed our full opinion of any woman who would presume to do so.-Lippincott's