SILVER CREEK.

From the Sand.
M. J. Harry who has been nursing his broken arm at the Columbus hospital came up last Friday for a visit. His arm seems to be completely paralyzed from the elbow to the tips of his fingers and it is feared it will remain so, although it is still being treated in hopes of improving its condition.

It was a year last Tuesday that the last internment was made in the Silver Creek cemetery. Solomon Sheperd, aged 77 years was buried March 8, 1909. Our people must go away to die or else they are a mighty healthy lot. At any rate our cemetery population is not growing very rapidly.

GENOA.

From the Times.
Farmers in Madison county who have a supply of 1908 seed corn on hand demand $5 a bushel for it. This is a case of one farmer skinning another farmer, something which does not very often occur as the opportunity seldom presents itself. In Iowa seed corn sells for $2 a bushel.

G. A. Molin received a message last Monday from the office of the White Star Steamship Co., in New York stating that Mrs. Thorsen had been discharged from the hospital and that a bill of $105 as hospital services was due, and asked that an attendant be sent to accompany her to Genoa. In response to the message Mr. Molin informed the steamship company that Mrs. Thorsen had money in the First National Bank of Genoa, and that when she forwarded her certificate of deposit with instructions to defray the expense of an attendant, one would be sent.

BELLWOOD.

From the Gazette.
Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Summe and two children, who spent the winter months with relatives and friends in this community, started for their home in Canada Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jacobs and daughter, Miss Ida, expect to leave for the old country the 15th of this month. On their return trip to America Mr. Jacobs says they will make their home in Oklahoma.

The eight months old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Micek died Tuesday noon after a short illness. Funeral was held at St. Peter's Catholic church Wednesday.

PLATTE CENTER

From the Signal.
Mrs. John Loeke came up from Columbus last week for a few days visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Regan.

A man opened up a trunk full of watches, jewelry and other truck on the bridge last Saturday and sold at auction for a couple of hours. He was surrounded all the time by a crowd of eager buyers, and reaped a generous harvest. A peculiar thing about such things is that nearly the same string of "suckers" is caught every time some stranger comes along and throws out the bait.

Last week it seemed to be the general opinion among farmers with whom we talked that winter wheat had suffered severely during the winter; many of them reporting whole fields killed; others only portions of the fields. Talking with some of the same men this week they tell us it is not so bad as they thought it was; that fields which last week seemed entirely dead are this week showing life, and would probably come out all right. No doubt many fields are injured in spots, but not so seriously as reported. Early reports every spring kills many acres of wheat that afterwards produce a good crop.

This community was greatly shocked last Sunday when a dispatch from Sioux City announced that Louie Loeke had died at a hospital in that city that morning, where he went the Monday before for an operation for appendicitis. Few of his acquaintances knew that he was thus afflicted, or that he had gone away for treatment. It seems that he had been doctoring for several months with no relief, and finally decided upon an operation, and last week Monday, in company with his sister, Mrs. Chris Marten, he went to the hospital. The operation was performed Tuesday afternoon and so quickly did he rally from it and feel so strong that his sister, thinking all danger past, came home Friday. Unfavorable symptoms developed after she left, and his wife was dispatched for and she reached his bedside Saturday evening, but he passed away at 4:20 Sunday morning. The remains reached here Sunday evening and were conveyed to his home six miles northwest of Platte Center. The funeral was held Wednesday from the Lutheran church at Oldenbush, and interment in the cemetery near by. Louis C. Loeke was the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Loeke and was born on the old Loeke homestead April 1st, 1874. He owned and lived on a farm which joined his father's farm on the west. He was one of our most progressive farmers and stock-growers. He is survived by his wife and three children, his father and mother, three brothers and two sisters.

CENTRAL CITY.

From the Nonpariil.
"I am not worrying so much about an early spring," said J. Mack the other day, "as I am about the quality of my seed corn. The re is a lot of poor corn in the country and some of it is going to be used for seed, which means a poor stand. I have rigged up a little box and have planted some selections from my crop. By testing it out in this way I hope to get the best corn for seed." If every farmer in the county would follow Mr. Mack's example there would not be much danger of a short crop next year on account of a poor stand.

The long Platte river bridge was the scene of a "snaway" Thursday afternoon that threatened dire results for a time and did result in a broken collar bone for Mrs. V. Hill Campbell. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were returning to their home in Hamilton county from a visit in Central City and when crossing the bridge one of the tugs came down. This scared the team and they began to plunge about, loosening more of the tugs and finally dropping the tongue. With the tongue so down they ran a short distance until the tongue ran under the railing of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were thrown or at. The former was not injured beyond a few bruised hands and knees. Mrs. Campbell, however, was thrown a gainst the railing of the bridge in such a manner as to fracture her collar bone. They managed to right things finally, and Mrs. Campbell was taken home.

The new agreement entered into by business men requiring people soliciting for aid to refer their credentials to a committee for examination has been in operation for about a month and has already done some good. A mendicant who started to work the business streets ran up against the new rule and not caring to submit his case to the committee he resubmitted his operations to the residence where it is presumed he is successful. One solicitor was the O. K. of the committee and glad of the privilege of establishing a genuineness. The rule, however, effective should be observed in the case section and when a beggar calls on the lady of the house should demand his credentials from the committee. If he can present them she can use her own judgment about extending him charity, but if he has no credentials she should refuse him forthwith. The ladies will be spared much annoyance if they apply the rule to all who call.

Jock Scored.
"Well, Jock," said a lady to one of her servants, "you are getting very fat. Why don't you stand up straight like me, man?"
"Ma, ma," replied Jock, "ye see that 'eef corn o'er there? Weel, ye'll see that the full heads hang down an' 'ab empty ees stan' stracht up," London Telegraph.

Willing.
"Ma, at the table we wish to be served with alacrity."
"All right, mum. Will you have it for the soup?"—London Answers.

BACH'S MUSIC.

Some Advice as to How it Should Be Interpreted.

The interpretation of Bach must always be noble, broad and firm, rather too hard than too soft, explains Ferruccio Busoni, the great pianist, in the Delicatore. Affected methods, such as a "souffle" swelling of the phrases, coquettish hurrying or hesitating, too light staccato, too smooth legato, pedal debauchery—all these are vicious and out of place here. If used with a proper sense of proportion a certain elasticity of the tempo, giving the interpretation greater freedom, will improve the playing of Bach materially. The modernization of Bach's compositions by such masters as Liszt and Tausig and many others is accepted by all clear thinking musicians as not derogatory to the master's style. It affords rather a completeness of expression. Witness the fact that Raff has orchestrated Bach's "Chaconne" without making it seem ridiculous. Many others have followed with happy results Raff's example of arranging Bach's music for the modern orchestra.

The ease with which Bach's music lends itself to this adaptation is proof of his comprehensive genius. He was not for his day, but for all time. Bach's "Prelude" and "Fugue No. 10," important and not too difficult, show the many sided branching of the present day piano technic. The legendary tradition of playing Bach without the use of the damper pedal is obsolete.

ALBION.

From the News.
J. Albert Johnson, who has lived near St. Edward for the past twenty-five years, leaves this week for Tulsa, Texas, to make his home. He has bought land there and expects to farm on a pretty large scale.

George Benton sold his farm three miles south of town Tuesday to William Oruch for a consideration of $125 per acre. We have not learned just what Mr. Benton expects to do but understand that he will reinvest his money in Boone county soil.

Last Sunday evening a broken rail was discovered on the Northwestern track south of the depot, near the oil tanks. It was a complete break and, had it not been discovered, it would doubtless have resulted in a wreck. The section men, however, replaced the broken rail before the morning passenger train.

P. J. Mullen was in town Monday and said that he was testing his seed corn and had, so far, found considerable of it poor. He was surprised at the amount of poor seed. Others who are testing are finding much of their seed to be worthless. The large percentage of poor seed throughout the north half of the state is due to the early winter. It is evident that the corn in Boone county is no exception and that unless care is taken in selecting seed this spring the crop will be short. Those who find their stands of corn spotted and poor, will doubtless blame the cut worms.

MORRIS.

From the Republican.
Mrs. Minnie Steinbaugh of Council Bluffs is visiting her father John Kelley.

Misses Grace and Pearl McWilliams went to Dunbar last week to visit a few weeks.

Emil Hart who has been to South Dakota for the past week or so returned Saturday.

Who said spring had arrived? By the appearance of the snow storm Wednesday, winter is still with us.

Clarence Buckley moved his family here last week from Humphrey. They moved in the John Evans residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Edwards of Lake Crystal, Minn., are here visiting with friends on the north part of the route.

Miss Emeline Lawrence who has been visiting her mother for the past three weeks at College View returned Sunday.

John Nansel and family moved into the Okay neighborhood Saturday. They will farm one of Paul Gertach's farms this year.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McOartney left for their home in Illinois last week, after spending the winter in this locality. They had the pleasure of seeing W. L. and Bert Smith finish harvesting their last year's, 1909, crop of alfalfa, and he thinks that is going some.

SHUYLER.

From the Sun.
One of the big real estate deals of the past week was the purchase of the Huben Dickinson farm of 160 acres by Chas. Dworak for $36,000 or at $150 per acre.

The Board of railway Commissioners at Lincoln decided that the Burlington at this point could not be compelled to run a spur up to the Union Pacific in order to make transfers. The matter was brought before the board by the Wells-Abbott-Neiman Co.

The remains of Mr. John Jira were brought in on the train from Columbus Thursday morning for burial in the Schuyler cemetery. He was aged 83 years and had been in the hospital for about a year. He leaves one son and two daughters to mourn his death.

The Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies have inaugurated a new service that will be a great convenience to the business public. They have announced that they will handle fifty word messages to be transmitted during the night for the same rate as a ten word day message. This will be a nice way to communicate a long distance.

CANARY BIRDS.

The Care That Should Be Bestowed Upon These Songsters.

Those who are charmed by the singing of the canary will find in the following directions much that will increase the happiness of the songster. Provided the hints are heeded:

Place the cage so that no draft of air can strike the bird. Give nothing to healthy birds but rape and canary seed, water, cuttlefish bone and gravel paper or sand on the floor of the cage; no hempseed; a bath three times a week. The room should not be overheated—never above 70 degrees. When moulting (shedding feathers) keep warm, avoid all drafts of air. Give plenty of German rape seed. A little hard boiled egg mixed with crackers grated fine is excellent. Feed regularly at a certain hour in the morning. By observing these simple rules birds may be kept in fine condition for years.

For birds that are sick or have lost their song procure bird tonic at a bird store. Very many keep birds who mean to give their pets all things to make them bright and happy and at the same time are guilty of great cruelty in regard to perches. The perches in a cage should be each one of a different size and the smallest as large as a pigeon.

If perches are of the right sort no trouble is ever had about the bird's toe nails growing too long, and, of all things, keep the perches clean.—Exchange.

The Solid Hoofed Hog.

There are some solid hoofed hogs in the world, but they are few and far between. Darwin has a great deal to say about such pigs in his "Origin of Species," as there were only three in England at the time he wrote this book. The solid hoofed hog is not a freak of nature, as many suppose, but a genuine case of reversion to a primitive or ancestral type. It seems that, unlike the prehistoric ancestor of the modern hog, which has four toes on its hoofs, the old cloverhump, from which animal all members of the swine family are descended, had a solid hoof, and in the course of ages, as the old parent form died out and the modern wild boar, domestic hog, peccary, etc., were evolved this solid hoof became through what Darwin calls "adaptation" and "natural selection" divided up into two parts, so that all modern hogs are cloven hoofed. Occasionally, however, a hog is born with the old original solid hoof of the primitive hog ancestor, thus demonstrating the tendency in all animals to revert now and then to the parent form.

Acute Heart Trouble.
"Yes, I remember him," said Alkali Ike. "He died very sudden."
"Heart disease?" asked the eastern tourist.
