What to Do Before the Doctor Comes

Fractures (Broken Bones)
By DR. W. H. BAILEY
of the Kansas University Medical School at Rosedale

There is no difference between a bone that has been fractured and one that has been broken, although the term fracture is sometimes used when the bone has been only cracked or split and not broken entirely apart.

Fractures are usually caused by some external force as a blow with a club or a fall, but sometimes, especially in elderly people, a sudden muscular movement may cause the bone to break.

A bone may be broken anywhere throughout its length or it may have just a little corner broken off one of its ends. The longer bones of the extremities are of course more often fractured than the shorter and irregular bones.

Fractures often accompany sprains and dislocations and it is important that a physician be called in to see whether or not a fracture also exists, as the proper treatment of the case depends upon this knowledge.

Dangers.

Some of the dangers of fractured bones are the injuries to the surrounding structures, as rupture of blood vessels, tearing of nerves, and puncture of organs, as of the lung in fractures of the ribs. In fractures of the skull the bleeding, although often slight, may be within the skull and cause death by pressing upon some vital part of the brain. The infection following compound fractures may result in a general blood poisoning and death.

As a bone that has been fractured is weaker than normal for a number of months, even after the six to eight weeks usually considered necessary for its healing, the part should be used carefully in order to prevent a second fracture.

The Diagnosis.

The diagnosis of a fracture is sometimes very easy, as when a long bone is broken near its middle and the limb bends at that point. When a long bone is broken near its end or when a small irregular bone is broken, it is sometimes very difficult without the assistance of an X-ray photograph to tell whether or not the bone is fractured. Some of the other symptoms which help to diagnose a broken bone are pain which is rather acute and becomes very sharp on any attempt at movement. This pain is a little different from the more dull ache of a dislocation. When the ends of a broken bone rub against each other there is a peculiar rattling sensation that can be felt and sometimes heard. This is called lony crepitus. The broken fragments should not be moved back and forth in attempting to bring out this

Poisoning—Preventive and Remedial Measures

The preventive treatment of poisoning we must remember to keep all poisons in the household locked up in some closet or drawer, so as to guard against children getting hold of them. They should be kept in a separate place from other medicines in the house, as it has often happened that some person has been taken sick in the night and going to the medicine chest, by mistake has taken some poison instead of the remedy intended. It is a dangerous practice to put poison in paper, rat poison, etc., around where there is possibility of children reaching them. Many cough remedies, most soothing syrups and headache powders contain large amounts of poison and should never be taken unless prescribed by a physician. They usually only relieve the symptoms and do not counteract the cause of the trouble.

There are a good many poisons that have two ways of producing their bad effects: 1. Chronic action, where the results come from taking small doses of the substance during a long period. 2. Acute action, where the results are seen promptly and follow a large dose taken at one time. The chronic results are often just as injurious and more fatal than those caused by the acute poisoning, but it is only the acute poisoning that one would be called upon to treat as first aid.

There are some methods or principles of treatment which should be remembered for all poisons. One which hardly needs to be mentioned but which is very important is to stop the taking of the poison at once. This is best illustrated by impressing upon one's mind the importance of moving to the fresh air a person who had been found unconscious from gas in a room. The next point to remember is to remove as much of the poison as possible, in case where it has been taken into the stomach, so as to prevent its absorption into the system. This is done by causing the patient to vomit, or by washing out his stomach.

How the Indian Proposed

A clever woman of Mount Pleasant was speaking the other evening of a girl friend whose newspaper vocation had brought her into touch with many very interesting phases of life. "She was absolutely charming," said the fair Washingtonian, "and, considering that she was neither very pretty nor very stylish, the fascination she had for the sterner sex was little short of marvelous. But she was not much given to boasting of her conquests; in fact, she was unduly reticent about them. Only one day over the tea-cups, she told me about her most unique experience in the way of proposals." She was at that time reporting for a newspaper in a small but thriving western city. In this town were a number of youthful full-blooded Indians, who, however, had been educated at Carlisle and had returned to their native heath as very, very modern young braves. One, an excellent specimen of his race, met the girlish reporter and immediately succumbed to her charms, the charms of which she was seemingly so un-

St. Joe Man in Jail.

Crops in Cuming.
Cuming County—Corn throughout this county is practically made and the major portion of the crop is beyond the reach of frost. The hay crop is exceedingly poor, the lightest in years. Potatoes are a very light crop, one three-acre patch near the city, which promised well early in the season, produced only ten bushels.

Had to Return Money.
Nemaha County—A man appeared in Auburn recently soliciting funds for a church and the more he was questioned the less he would say. He had quite a list of recommendations, several of which proved to be fakes when the parties whose names were attached were called. He had $109 on his person when arrested. He was finally allowed to return the money he had collected in Auburn and take his departure.

Beet Sugar Grind Begins.
Hall County—The Grand Island factory of the American Beet Sugar company has begun the manufacture of sugar from the season's crop of beets. The tonnage is reported good and the sugar content of the beets is higher than for three years. There will be a long campaign, there being a good acreage this year. The company is already putting out contracts for next year at the same terms—$5.00 per ton flat.

Sneak Thief Gets $325.
Dodge County—Checks and money to the extent of $325 were taken from the residence of Joseph Snyder, three miles east of Fremont, by a sneak thief who entered the place while Mr. and Mrs. Snyder were milking the cows. Mr. Snyder had been in Fremont during the day to sell some grain and produce. He took the money home in a grip. While he was milking the grip disappeared.

Private Soldier Decapitated.
Douglas County—Elihu, by accident in attempting to board a Missouri Pacific freight train upon which it is supposed he intended to beat his way to Fort Leavenworth, Kan. or by committing suicide from some one of several reasons. R. G. Carrott a soldier of Company K, of the engineer corps, was killed in Omaha Saturday night by a train at Fifteenth and Pratt streets.

Funeral of a Suicide.
Colfax County—Joseph Cerin, who committed suicide by throwing himself into a neighbor's well and then putting a bullet into his brain, was laid to rest in the Clarkson cemetery. Cerin was a young man of twenty-three and married. He lived on a farm about nine miles south of Clarkson. Last week he was summoned for jury work and was on the panel last Friday at Schuyler, and at night returned some without being excused. Cerin did not understand English very well and the day's transactions were beyond him and he decided he would not serve longer. Friends explained to him what he had done and he promised to return Monday. It is thought he brooded over the matter and decided to take his life.

Corn in Good.
Frontier County—Many farmers are bringing in samples of corn. It is all to the good and will run from twenty to fifty bushels per acre. The recent showers have put the ground in excellent shape for winter wheat.

Fairbury Woman Suicides.
Jefferson County—Mrs. Ella Pickering, wife of Ross Pickering, committed suicide at her home at Endicott by hanging. She had been in poor health and had grieved constantly for her child, which died last spring.

Wolbach's Corn Show.
Greeley County—The first day of Wolbach's second annual corn show opened under very auspicious conditions, large delegations of people from Greeley County, St. Paul, Fullerton and other surrounding towns being present, and there was only one opinion expressed, that being that it was the best corn show that was ever held in this or any surrounding town and would be a credit to any agricultural community. The display of farm products generally was large and of the finest quality.

Sabbatus, Maine.—"You told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills before childbirth, and we are all surprised to see how much good it did. My physician said 'Without doubt it was the Compound that helped you. I thank you for your kindness in advising me and give you full permission to use my name in your testimonials.'"—Mrs. H. W. MITCHELL, Box 8, Sabbatus, Me.

Trouble in the Troupe.
"They've had a frightful time in the No. 5 Tom Company. Hear about it?"
"Nope."
"Busted an' walkin' back. That's right. Went to smash on the Vincennes circuit. Utility feller they picked up at Sawville got mad 'cause he was doubled as Marks an' a bloodhound, an' sawed the legs off the ladder, an' Eva fell out 'o' heaven, an' landed on Papa St. Clair, an' Simon Legree landed on Uke Tom, an' the real dog bit a hole in Aunt Ophelia, an' there was merry hades to pay until the local manager called the patrol wagon and had the whole bunch dragged up the pike and dumped in the woods. An' the worst of it was there was a record house, with nineteen good dollars in the box!"

She Has Changed Her Opinion.
"I hear your maiden aunt is visiting you."
"Yes. Came yesterday."
"How long does she expect to stay?"
"Oh, I don't know—probably for some time."
"I feel sorry for your wife. I believe I heard her say not long ago that she despised the old lady."
"She used to, but she has changed her opinion—in fact, has great respect for her now. Aunt Hetty brought three trunks, two of them filled with things she smuggled in from Europe."

Uncalled For.
"I hear the old bridge outside of Plunkville has collapsed."
"Yes; and the town council can't understand it. We had just given that bridge a coat of paint. Why, it looked like new."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mrs. Briggs' Speech.
If brevity is the soul of wit, one of the wittiest speeches on record was made by a woman. Mrs. Briggs lived in the northern part of Indiana, long distance from any village. Hearing that the Rev. Mr. Goodwin was to preach in a township some twenty miles distant, she resolved to be present, and as no other way offered, she walked the twenty miles.

The pastor heard of this, and was so pleased that at the close of the sermon he mentioned the fact to the congregation, and called upon Mrs. Briggs to tell them how she came.

Rising slowly, she looked over the audience with great solemnity, and said:
"I hoofed it."
Then she sat down again.—Youth's Companion.

He Came by It Honestly.
Lend me your pencil, Johnny. The small boy handed it over and teacher continued to correct the exercises of the class. When she finished she suffered a sudden lapse of memory and laid the pencil away in her desk. As she stood up to excuse the class she encountered the scornful gaze of Johnny's eyes. Rising in his seat he fixed her with an accusing forefinger and uttered the single word "Graft!" Johnny's father writes for a current magazine.

Editorial Favor.
"A month ago you rejected a story of mine."
"I remember. Thought it was rotten."
"I had offered it for $7, and you turned it down."
"So I did."
"Well, I sold that story for $40. Here's another story. May I ask the favor of one more rejection? It seems to help."

Consulting the Playwright.
"My star can wiggle his ears and whistle through his teeth."
"Um."
"Now, can you build me a first-class comedy around that?"
