LEIGH.

From the World.
After a long drawn out legal battle between the Roman Catholic church and the heirs of the estate of the late Joseph A. Connor, a settlement was finally reached last week whereby the church is to receive $40,000 of the estate.

A sad accident befell the little three-year-old daughter of Henry Dasenbrock last Monday evening. Her father was at work about the machinery of the corn elevator and the little girl was playing nearby when in some unknown manner she got too close to the shaft and sustained a broken limb. The injured member is getting along nicely.

BELLWOOD.

From the Gazette.
In a storm at sea the chaplain asked one of the crew if he thought there was any danger. "Why," replied the sailor, "if this continues we shall all be in heaven tomorrow morning." The chaplain, horrified, cried out, "The Lord forbid!"

Miss Ida Jacob, who did not return with her parents to Bellwood from Austria, was united in marriage Sept. 12th to a Mr. Hajek of Austria. Ida as she was always called, has a large circle of young friends in Bellwood and vicinity and the Gazette joins in with them in extending congratulations across the stream.

SHELBY.

From the Sun.
E. E. Bonner moved with his family to Columbus last week, where they expect to make their home.

A party of about a dozen U. S. soldiers established a camp on the Blue river southwest of Shelby the fore part of the week. They stated that they were doing some survey work for the purpose of checking up the maps of the country.

Shelby's water supply system was knocked out of commission in short order yesterday when B. F. Kneer's team ran away and wrecked the windmill. The team started in the alley at the rear of Merrick's store and by the time they reached the street at the south end of the alley were going at a high rate of speed and failed to make the turn west short enough to miss the mill tower and forced themselves between the posts of the structure. The wagon struck one of the posts of the steel tower and twisted the frame to such an extent that the whole structure fell like a weed clipped with a scythe. The mill is a complete wreck. Neither the team nor the wagon was damaged to any extent.

ST. EDWARD.

From the Advance.
Letters received from Max Wolf who is in France with forty head of horses ready for shipment to the United States, informs friends that owing to the railroad strike now on in that country he will not be able to ship to the coast until about Nov. 5. He had been hoping to ship out about October 29. He reports that a strike in France is not slow and that considerable military display is needed to maintain quiet.

Mrs. C. D. Wheeler arrived last Saturday from Grand Junction, Colo., and MONROE.

From the Republican.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gates arrived Saturday for a visit with relatives in Monroe and vicinity, returning Tuesday to their home in Council Bluffs.

Misses Letitia and Susie Mould left Saturday noon for their home in Montgomery, N. J., after an extended visit with their cousin, Mrs. Ovas McWilliams.

Mrs. Roy Thurston accompanied by Francis Ziegler left Wednesday for Hartford, Kansas, where they went to spend a week with their sister, Mrs. Fred True-love.

Thursday was moving day for the Monroe Independent Telephone Co., their switchboard being removed to the new quarters, west of the livery stable. As a result there was no telephone communication that day.

Earl Walrath of Omaha is here this week assisting in checking up the yard and turning it over to the new manager, J. W. Campbell, who took charge Nov. 1. Mr. Thurston, who has been manager of yard ever since it was bought by the present owners, will remain with them until December 1.

John Koziak has been about the most unlucky man we know of. This spring, just as he had commenced spring work, he was taken down with appendicitis, and spent several weeks at the hospital in Columbus, and last week a team ran away with him and he had an arm broken and was nearly killed.

B. K. Jackson of Genoa has opened up a Racket store in the Munter building and already has a portion of his stock here. Mr. Jackson's father is engaged in the same business at Genoa and he concluded there was a good opening in Monroe. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are living in the rear of the store, as there are no vacant houses available.

Some years ago Mrs. Keller bought three quarters of land in the sand hills, near Loreto in Boone county, at $7 per acre. People laughed at her at the time, but this week she had an offer of $25 per acre and Mrs. Keller is going to sell it and settle down on the old home place and enjoy the remainder of her life. Every one who knows her will say that she deserves the good luck in her investment.

Last Friday afternoon a defective flue was responsible for a small blaze at the home of F. B. Kelley. It caught in the roof, but was put out without calling on the fire department. Sunday morning gasoline was responsible for a small blaze at the home of Wm. Webster, but the neighbors succeeded in controlling the blaze before any damage resulted. The children were alone in the home at the time and in an attempt to light a fire used gasoline instead of kerosene.

Tuesday evening at the home of D. W. Ziegler, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thurston were pleasantly surprised by their many friends who had gathered to spend an evening with them before their departure to Salem, Oregon, their future home. The evening was spent in conversation and music after which a dainty lunch was served, and as a token of friendship and esteem they were presented with a silver bread tray bearing the inscription, "Monroe, Neb., November 1, 1910." After which the friends bade them farewell and departed for home.

GENOA.

From the Times.
The farm department at the Indian school finished harvesting the vegetable crop this week, and stored for winter use 4,000 head of cabbage, 150 bushels of onions, 600 bushels of potatoes and a quantity of turnips and beets.

Hereafter when a fellow wants to take a drink in Fullerton it will be necessary for him to go outside the corporate limits of the city or run the risk of a fine from ten to one hundred dollars for violating a prohibition ordinance. Any person caught drinking liquors in alleys, stores, livery stables or any public buildings, shall, upon conviction, be fined the amount stated above.

That woman's need of nerve shocks is the primary cause of "long tongues" and that the prevalence of gossip among the female sex is grounded in a definite physical need, is the declaration of William I. Thomas, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, presented at a lecture to the National League of Handicrafts. "Our primitive ancestors led exciting lives," Professor Thomas explained. "We share their appetite for excitement, and in woman discussion of the terrible things the neighbors have done gives that necessary shock to their motor systems they got in earlier ages out of hunting, fighting and escaping from dangerous animals."

A Breach of Good Form.

There is a little east end girl, still under six, who reaches the limit in the matter of sensitiveness. Likewise she has her points in respect to dead game. She was taken about a week ago to spend a few days with her aunt. The little miss played around in front of her aunt's place for awhile. Then her aunt let a playful young terrier into the yard, saying to the child: "This is your little four footed cousin."

Five minutes later the aunt returned to the front yard to call the kid into the house, but she wasn't anywhere to be seen. The fox terrier was playing alone. There was a scrambling hunt for the child and all kinds of alarm, but the little girl didn't turn up. The aunt hustled into town. The little girl was home with her mother.

She had walked right to the car for town as soon as the fox terrier pup was presented to her. "Why didn't you stay at aunt's?" her mother asked her in surprise. "She introduced me to a dog!" replied the naughty young person.—Cincinnati Post.

"The Soul of Golf."

One who knew the soul of golf saw it and described it. It was a tricky green, with a drop of twenty feet behind it. To have overrun it would have been fatal. There was a stiff head wind. The player would not risk running up. He cut well in under the ball to get all the back spin he could. He pitched the ball well up against the wind, which caught it and, on account of the spin, threw it up and up until it soared almost over the hole, then it dropped like a shot bird onto a yard from the hole, and the back spin gripped the turf and held the ball within a foot of where it fell. It was obvious to one man that it was a crude shot. It was equally obvious to another, who knew the inner secrets of the game, that it was a brilliantly conceived and beautifully executed stroke. One man saw nothing of the soul of the stroke. He got the hunk and the other took the kernel.—P. B. Vaile in North American Review.

Slightly Mixed.

He wasn't good at conundrums, but when his turn came to ask one at a little social party he thought he could remember a good one he had heard. It was the old riddle: "Why is a woman like the ivy?" The answer, of course, is the gallant explanation: "Because the more you're ruined the closer she sticks."

But he got it mixed and asked: "Why is the ivy like a woman?" None of the ladies present could give an appropriate reply, so he himself ventured this maladroit solution: "Because the closer it clings the more you're ruined."

Made Her Pay Well.

A certain queen of Hanover once upon a time when traveling stopped at an inn called the Golden Goose. She remained two days to rest herself and receive such entertainments as was needed and for the same was charged 300 thalers. On her departure the landlord besought her with obsequious deference to favor him with her patronage on her return. "If you desire that, my dear man," replied her majesty, "you must not again take me for your sign."

Very "Respectful."

The villagers used to make love in a solid, stolid fashion. "I'm sure, m'm," said a servant to her mistress, "nobody could have had a respectfurther young man nor what Thomas has been to me. We've been courting two years come Martlemass, and he's never yet offered to kiss me!"—From "Recollections of a Yorkshire Village," by J. S. Fletcher.

A Striped One.

"Now, children, what is this?" asked the teacher, holding up a picture of a zebra. "It looks to me like a horse in a bathing suit," answered a little boy.—Our Dumb Animals.

SILVER CREEK.

From the Sand.
Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Landy came home from Columbus Monday. Mr. Landy is still suffering from his injuries in the railroad yards at Columbus.

Friday evening, October 28, 1910 at the Congregational church in Silver Creek, Edward O. Lucas and Mary Gray were married. There was a large crowd of friends of the bride and groom present when Rev. Fr. Miesler of Columbus pronounced them man and wife. Later a reception was had at the splendidly furnished home which had been prepared for them, and the guests enjoyed themselves with refreshments served them.

Tuesday last the restraining order against the building of the Havena bridge which had been granted by Judge Lewis Peterson was dissolved in district court, the judge holding the board of supervisors had the right to spend the bridge funds as they saw fit. Inasmuch however, as the building of this unnecessary structure would so deplete the funds needed to maintain bridges already in existence and erect others over the country that are unnecessary, it would seem that pressure might yet be brought to bear on the board to stop this useless piece of extravagance.

CENTRAL CITY.

From the Nonpareil.

Even the grand old game of base ball has been invaded by the blight of prohibition. The new contracts for the Pittsburgh national league players will contain a clause prohibiting the players from taking even one glass of beer a day. Some temperance fanatic has evidently butted into the management and we refer to the matter to the Omaha Examiner for consideration.

Judge Hollenbeck and Reporter Maher came to Central City Tuesday prepared to hear the arguments of the attorneys on the application for an injunction in the Havena bridge case. The matter came to a sudden and unexpected end, however, shortly after court convened when Attorney Martin for those applying for the restraining order asked that the case be dismissed without prejudice. As there was no objection to this on the part of the other side Judge Hollenbeck proceeded to comply with the request and the motion was granted. It is not likely that this will end the matter, the action being dismissed by the attorneys for the remonstrators because the answering petition for the board of supervisors set forth that the resolution adopted only showed the sentiment of the body. Should further action by the board be taken it is probable that another restraining order would be asked for.

CURING CATARRH.

Accept Our Advice and Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membrane. The mucous membrane is, one may say, the interior lining of the body. Catarrh therefore may exist in any part of the system.

When the catarrhal poison attacks the mucous membrane, inflammation and congestion are produced and nature fails to throw off the accumulated poisons. The organ which has been affected ceases to perform its proper function as nature intended it should. The result is, complication upon complication, which may lead to other even more serious afflictions.

We honestly believe Rexall Mucosa-Tone will do wonders toward overcoming catarrh. It is made from the prescription of an eminent physician who made a long study of catarrh, and his great success with this remedy was an enviable one.

We want you if you are a sufferer from catarrh in any form, to give Rexall Mucosa-Tone a thorough trial. Use it with regularity and persistency for a reasonable time, then if you are not satisfied, come back and tell us, and without question or formality we will hand back to you every cent you paid us. This is certainly the fairest offer that any one could make and should attest our sincerity of purpose. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at—the Rexall store. Pollock & Co. corner 13th and North streets.

Once a Sailor Always a Sailor.

Charitable institutions often find it hard to learn the occupations of those admitted. A man who has followed several trades when asked his occupation names the one he regards as most dignified, even if he has not followed it for years. The Survey tells of a case that happened in the Cook County Infirmary. The man "at the age of nineteen was a sailor for one year. His career as a sailor ended with an accident on the ship by which he lost a leg. For the next thirty-six years he took various jobs as caretaker and the like, such as a crippled person can obtain. Yet when after thirty-six years of independence he was finally forced to take refuge in a poorhouse he puts himself down on the entrance card as a sailor, and one feels in that word the pride of a Norse son of the sea."

A Nickname For Barrett.

Lawrence Barrett, the tragedian, was subject to dyspepsia, and when he was suffering from that disorder he was cold and distant toward his company. One irreverent fellow always refused, however, to be suppressed. He said one day: "Just look at Cassius. He looks as solemn and righteous as if he'd swallowed the sword of justice. Let's call him the Scabbard." And the Scabbard he was—out of his hearing—for the rest of that season.

Costly Dressing.

Mrs. Washington Terrace consented to be interviewed. "What? Dress on $600 a year?" She made a wry grimace with her face and hands. "Why, I couldn't dress my maids on $600 a year," she said.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Mrs. Grundy.
The first mention of Mrs. Grundy is found in Morton's clever comedy "Speed the Plow." Farmer Ashfield, at table with his jug and pipe, is talking to his wife on her return from market.

"Well, dame, welcome whom. What news does thee bring from market?" "What news, husband? What I always told you—that Farmer Grundy's wheat brought 5 shillings a quarter more than ours did."

"All the better for her?" "Ah, the sun seems to shine on purpose for him."

"Come, come, missus, as thee has not the grace to thank God for prosperous times, don't three grumble when they be unkindly a bit."

"And I assure you Dame Grundy's butter was quite the crack of the market."

"Be quiet, wool ye? Always ding dinging Dame Grundy into my ears? 'What will Mrs. Grundy say?' 'What will Mrs. Grundy think?' Canst thee be quiet? Let ur alone and behave thyself pratty!"

Hate All Around.
The famous English chief justice Holt and his wife hated each other to the limit, and when she fell dangerously ill he was so delighted that he became disgracefully tipsy. But his wife was equal to the emergency and sent for the great Dr. Radcliffe, who hated Holt, and therefore out of spite when the case was presented to him came with great promptness and saved her life.—Westminster Gazette.

"Miss Footlitt's reputation and her complexion are very much alike."

"Meaning that they are both full of blab, eh?"

"No; they are both made with a puff."—Boston Transcript.

A Similarity.
"He's quite wealthy and prominent now," said Mrs. Starvee, "and they say he rose from nothing."

"Well, well!" remarked Mr. Border. "That's just what I rose from—at the breakfast table this morning."

Closing the Incident.

Send these figures to your friends in the east. They will interest them. The first railroad to build in Nebraska was the Union Pacific; that was in 1863. Today the Union Pacific covers 3,411 miles of splendid roadbed, safeguarded by an automatic electric system of signals.

More than 26,000 freight and passenger cars and 1,000 monster locomotives are required to meet the public demands. An army of men receives millions per year in wages.

Such activities are important factors in the building up of a state, and Nebraska needs prosperous railroads as the Union Pacific needs the support of the people of Nebraska.

We have a book on Nebraska and its resources which will be mailed to some friend in the East for the asking. Please send us his address. Every Union Pacific ticket office is a bureau of railroad information. Make your wants known there or write to me.
