TWO WORLD FAMED GRANNIES

One of These Talented Women is Sarah Bernhardt and the Other Ellen Terry.

Two famous grandmothers are distinguished visitors to this country. Referring to these talented ladies: The Rochester Post-Express says: "One of the grandmothers is Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, the other is Ellen Terry. Both actresses have reached an age when it is permissible to retire from active life; but the French actress is said to be as energetic as a woman half her age, while Ellen Terry is declared to be as young as ever she was in the palmy days when she and Henry Irving ruled the theatrical world of England. Miss Terry has retired from the stage so far as acting is concerned, and has taken to lecturing on Shakespeare's heroines. And who could do better than she who has played so many of the womanly women of the great dramatist? Readers of her breezy biography know what she thinks of Portia, Beatrice, Vola, Rosalind and other famous women of the tragedies and comedies, but no printed page could charm as does the wondrously expressive features and the velvet voice of the greatest living English-speaking actress."

Why Do They.
Why women like the baldheaded man it is somewhat difficult to define. It may be because he appears to be: Thoughtful and kind. Trustworthy and confiding. Whimsical. Past the follies and frivolities of youth. Usually successful. A man of property. Opinions why women like the baldheaded man obtained by the Daily Mirror are as follows: He is not silly like young men. He accepts refusals of marriage so discreetly that one is sorry one did not accept him. The bald patch looks so clean and nice. One would like to kiss it. A doctor welcomes baldness when it comes to him, as it is a sign of serenity and dignified bearing, which invariably increases his practise.

A Long Chance.
"I took a long chance when I asked her to marry me."
"She rejected you, eh?"
"No, that was the long chance I took. She accepted me."

But you can't be sued for nonpayment of a debt of gratitude.

CHILD SAVING INSTITUTE, OMAHA

Some Facts and Figures From Annual Report.

Three hundred and sixteen Nebraska children of all ages and in all conditions, deserted, orphaned and some left to die because of physical helplessness, have been taken into shelter, given medical attention and expert nurses' care and all but thirty-nine of them placed in good homes at a cost of $46.95 each.

Such is the remarkable story told in the annual report of the Child Saving Institute, an Omaha home for deserted and orphaned children of Nebraska, which is supported entirely by voluntary gifts of the people. The report is just out showing receipts of $14,836 and expenditures for twelve months of $14,672. For thirteen years the institute has been doing this work and has provided temporary shelter and given into good homes 2,890 children. Less than half of these are children of Omaha parents—they have been brought to the institute from all over the state wherever the call for help has been sent.

To make it possible for the men and women interested in the work to care for more children, the people of Omaha have just given the institute a new and substantial home with more room, where from 29 to 35 per cent more children can be cared for better.

One of the most important features of the Child Saving Institute work is the medical attention given babies. From the time they arrive at the institute until they are placed in permanent homes they are watched by the most skilled physicians, who do their services absolutely free of charge, and nurses who work for a mere pittance. Sometimes an orphan receives attention from the medical staff or has an operation performed to enable the child to develop, which would cost the average family hundreds of dollars. The proper food is also given them and they are thus brought back to life.

With this amount of work being done for the children these adopting them are sure the children they take are above the average in health—they have a fast start physically when they go to good homes.

Just now the institute is making a campaign to secure regular subscriptions to its maintenance fund and donations from the people out over the state of Nebraska from where most of the children and babies come. The people of Omaha are contributing more than their proportion to the work and will continue to do so, but it is the earnest desire of those back of the work to have people out over Nebraska send in donations and thus help meet expenses.

The treasurer of the Child Saving Institute is C. W. Lyman of the United States National Bank, Omaha, and it is to him that these donations are being sent by good people of Nebraska who are seeking to increase their happiness by adding to the happiness of others at Christmas time.

Baby Left on Doorstep.
Beatrice.—Snuggly tucked away in a basket, a girl baby was left on the doorstep of Mr. and Mrs. George Young, living a mile east of Barnes-ton. Mr. and Mrs. Young had retired and were awakened by a rap on the door. On opening it they found the babe on the doorstep. In the basket was $50 in greenbacks. Mr. and Mrs. Young will keep the little tot, which is well and hearty.

Mrs. Eddy's Publisher.

NOT RISK SQUABBLE

PROSPECTIVE SPEAKER WILL NOT NAME COMMITTEES. AGREEABLE ON TARIFF ISSUE

Falls in Line on Revision of One Schedule at a Time Yielding to General Demand.

Washington.—Representative Champ Clark issued a statement fully outlining his platform as the prospective speaker of the democratic house of representatives in the next congress. He proclaimed himself in favor of the appointment of committees of the house by a committee, rather than by the speaker and he states his belief that the tariff schedule should be revised, not by a single bill, but by two subjects, says Mr. Clark, the two ones upon which he has been continually importuned to make some statement.

The democratic members of the house sent out a call for a caucus January 19, of the democratic membership of the next house of representatives. Mr. Clark's statement is both an explanation of the call and a declaration of his own platform as the probable speaker of the house.

The caucus will select a ways and means committee and a rules committee, somewhat larger than the present committee of seven. Mr. Clark believes one of these committees should be empowered to select the other committees of the house.

"There are two theories of tariff revision," says Mr. Clark, in his statement. "Revision by one general bill and revision by separate bills for separate schedules. This is a matter of principle, but of method.

"I individually prefer the scheme of separate bills for separate schedules, taking the schedules with the most obnoxious features first, perhaps in certain cases having separate bills for particular items."

The statement proceeded to say that whatever method is decided upon a full hearing, as comprehensive as that which preceded the framing of the Payne-Adlerich law will be had by the new ways and means committee.

"The assumption, growing out of ignorance in certain quarters," says Mr. Clark, "that President Taft or Senator Cummins or any other republican has discovered something new in tariff revision by the separate schedule scheme is preposterous. As far back as the Fifty-second congress Chairman Springer introduced separate bills for separate schedules and even for particular items, which were denominated 'Springer's poupon bills' by rival republican speakers and writers, and several years before Mr. Springer was chairman of the committee on ways and means Mr. McKenzie of Kentucky achieved great renown and the sobriquet of 'Quinine Jim' by the securing of a bill putting quinine on the free list and touching no other item whatsoever in any tariff schedule."

Mr. Clark declares that he is heartily in favor of inviting to the caucus all the democratic members-elect. He goes on to say that his efforts for the last two years have been directed to the unification of the democrats in the house, and for that reason the members-elect should be given every opportunity, if that unification is to be maintained, to express their choice in the naming of the members of the committees.

No Weapons by Mail.
Washington.—Notice has been received by the postoffice department from the postal authorities of Mexico, that President Diaz of the Mexican republic, has issued an order prohibiting in general the importation into Mexico by mail of arms and ammunition of any kind.

To Abolish Bath Room.
Washington.—Members of the house of representatives who desire to take baths in the future will have to do so at some place other than the elegantly appointed room in the house office building fitted up for the purpose, provided the house finally adopts and the senate concurs in an amendment to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriations bill.

DIRECT VOTE ON SENATORS.
Subcommittee Adopts Tucker Resolution Providing for It.

Washington.—The senate subcommittee has adopted the Tucker resolution passed by the house in 1892 for election of senators by direct vote. The Bristow resolution was held not to provide sufficient machinery to put into force direct election of senators, but the end sought by the Kansas senator is declared to be accomplished by the measure agreed upon.

Capital Bill Passed.
Oklahoma City, Okla.—The measure locating the permanent capital of Oklahoma at Oklahoma City, and the resolution favoring the northeast site for a capitol location, were passed in the senate and in the house. The emergency clause was attached.

Gun Battle with Burglars.
London.—A police sergeant was killed and four policemen wounded, one probably fatally, in a revolver battle with burglars trapped in the second floor of a jewelry shop in Cutler street, Houndsditch.

Express Companies Next.
Baltimore.—A letter received by a well known Baltimore man indicates that within a couple of weeks the interstate commerce commission will begin investigation of the rates and charges of express companies operating throughout the United States. The investigation will be based upon complaints received from more than 200 commercial organizations in different parts of the country and will, it is understood, include the money order business conducted by express companies.

TWO OF A KIND.

Dobbins—Is there a list of millionaires published?
Bronson—Not that I know of, but you can probably get a list of the fellows who dodge their taxes.

Russia's Growing Population.
This year's census of the Russian empire adds another five millions to the population as enumerated in 1908. The year's subjects now number 160,000,000 and increase every year by 2,500,000 despite wars, epidemics and internal disturbances. As there is no lack of cultivated soil in Russia there seems no reason why this big annual increase should not continue.

Fulfillment.
"Two great desires of my life have been gratified. One was to go up in an airship."
"And the other?"
"To get safely back to earth."
