Y. M. C. A. NOTES

This is it. We mean the full account of the final entertainment given by the boys or junior gymnasium classes last Tuesday evening. All this year the gymnasium classes have worked hard and faithfully in an endeavor to accomplish something really worth while, for themselves, the association and those interested in athletic work.

The program was essentially the same as the one given at Genoa by these same boys a few weeks ago. It is no wonder at all that the people at Genoa and Monroe were so well pleased with the exhibitions given in their gymnasiums. As one person put it, "It was a hummer with rings around it and I'll wager there ain't a better bunch of athletic youngsters in the state." "Them's just my sentiments," agreed everyone in the crowd. The boys made a circus look like eye cents (counterfeit money), those taking part being Bert Phillips, Jim Colton, Jim Hagel, Raymond Thompson, Jacob Glur, Walter Gass, Earl Colton, Charles Dickey, Earl Babcock, Ray Rathbun, Clarence Newman, Art Fleming, Richard Newman, Charles Leavy, Ward Drake and Everett Welch.

The interested spectators were given a treat from start to finish, the program opening with a fancy marching drill, after which the triangle, cross and the letters Y. M. C. A. were formed to perfection. And it sure brought the applause from the crowd. Next was the combination dumb-bell drill. At different times each of the four lines were working on a different exercise to the same count. But it was the pyramids, consisting of ten different exercises that kept the interest at fever heat. In some of the pyramids the boys were piled three deep and in the squish they were five deep. Several of the exercises included feats of balancing and the last one was the elephant which made the crowd laugh until the tears came.

Charles Dickey and Earl Babcock then proceeded to show the crowd what they knew of that game. They gave way to the celebrated clowns, H. Everett Welch and Chimney Colton. What they didn't do you couldn't mention. They chased butterflies to perfection and Jim succeeded in catching one after he had climbed half way up the east side of the brick wall. They also sang a song that could not be explained and later took "A trip around the world" in 57 and 6-100 seconds, breaking all speed records. Ask Welch about it.

The leaders and clowns performed some combination work on the parallel bars. At times there were five working on the bars together executing combinations that required skill and practice.

The tumbling team presented work far above the expectations of the audience, the work of Jim Hagel, Earl Colton and Charles Leavy especially pleasing the crowd. All of the boys performed in great style and you might just as well have closed your eyes and picked the best man.

The hostilities ceased with an old-fashioned barn fight. The lights went out and the two contestants appeared ready for battle. For three rounds they soaked each other like real champions, then Battling Nelson punched Ad Wolgast below the belt and the seconds and trainers mobbed the referee. The sheriff appeared on the scene and attempted to stop the fight, but his gun failed to work, so a pall of water was used instead, which hastily separated the contestants and the decision was awarded to the water carrier.

The entire program went off without a mistake and in general was one of the best that has been given this season. The remainder of the season will be conducted to boys' hikes and camp, tennis club and other outdoor sports. The first boys' hike was taken last Saturday to McPherson's Lake and every one of the boys pronounced it a decided success.

It may be of interest to the people of Columbus to know something of the other activities and other form of work that has been conducted in the gymnasium during the season, such as base-ball and basket ball leagues; also regarding the class work, attendance, etc.

There have been eleven different leagues conducted during the season of which three were base ball, with a total of nine teams, and eight were basket ball, with a total of 28 teams. The total number of games played in all of these leagues was 427. These leagues have been conducted in a manner so that all attending classes could take part.

The total number of classes held during the season was 460, of which 250 were Junior or boys' classes, while the other division shows 210, which is considered very good.

The attendance to the boys' or junior classes for the season is 4249, while the other class shows an attendance of 2044, making a total of 6293 attending all classes. The class attendance has been very regular in all classes and the work accomplished is considered far above the average. Physical Director Anderson has had a well organized class of Leaders, consisting of 12 boys, which have been of great assistance to him in carrying on his class work. These boys have met once each week and received special instructions regarding this work, which has made them a very efficient class of leaders.

There have been seven exhibitions given in the gymnasium during the season, of which four were given by the seniors and intermediates and three by the boys' department. Two out of town exhibitions were also given, one at Genoa and the other at Monroe. These exhibitions were given for the benefit of the church clubs and their athletic associations and to show other towns what is being done in association work.

Summing the work up for the season it must be said that it has been a great success, and the prospect for a greater work for next season is very bright. It is hoped that all will show their usual interest in next season's work.

The next hike will be Thursday the 8th. It is the plan to hike up the river a few miles and camp out overnight and return the next day. This will be the second hike of the season, and if everything turns out as good as the first one which was to McPherson's lake it certainly means that the summer hikes will become very popular. For the last big hike of the season Mr. Anderson is planning for a hike to Omaha, and a large number is expected to undertake the trip.

LOOP THE LOOP

Will Be Feature Attraction of Reiss Shows During Convention and Carnival Week Here.

What seems to be the acme of daredevilry will be seen in this city with the Nat Reiss shows during the Eagle state convention and carnival week commencing Monday, June 12.

Chefalo is the dare devil's name. Ascending a runway 60 feet high he mounts a bicycle and at a speed, estimated at 80 miles an hour, loops the death trap loop.

This loop is so constructed that the rider must release the spring which causes the trap to open, allowing him to pass out. Should the trap fail to open the rider would be crushed to death. This is not the only chance, however, to escape. After making his exit from the loop there still remains a gap of 20 feet, which he must cross before he reaches the ground.

This act is to be seen twice daily in the Stadium, which is the feature attraction of the famous Nat Reiss shows.

Besides the above act, the Stadium

presents more feature acts than any circus on the road, consisting of rope walking, aerial acts, Roman ring artists, contortionists and acrobats.
