IF BURBANK ONLY WOULD

O. Luther Burbank, you have crossed the apricot and plum. You've done such wondrous things that we are fairly overcome; Your spineless cactus is superb, your white blackberry, too. However, there is one great work that waits for you to do. Can you, by any cunning trick, by any subtle wile, Cross two of last year's bonnets so they'll show as this year's style?

We praise you for the benefit we have of all your toil. For seedless prunes, for olives that are dripping full of oil. We've eaten your potatoes, and your famed pineapple-quince impresses us as something good for any king or prince. But can't you get up early, or stay up a few hours late And cross last year's bonnets till they blossom up-to-date?

A man who can make fruits and things take weird and varied forms. And grow all kinds of plants that can withstand the heat and storms— A man who coaxes roses till they blaze in wondrous hues, Can surely see his mission in the current fashion news. Your fame will race around the world, spread through each hemisphere. If you will coax a last year's hat to be in style this year.

O. Luther Burbank—you who toy with flowers and with fruits, Who know the whimsy nature of all grafts and buds and shoots, Who can, by wondrous cunning, turn the cabbage to a pink, And make a cantaloupe taste good much quicker than a wink— Come, set you out a bonnet-bed, and graft and cross and train. The last year's hats until they are in fashion once again!

HIS BREAK.

"O yes," said the bewitching maiden, "I have often tried to cook, but, do you know, it seems impossible for me to eat anything I prepare. I suppose it is caused by the worry of working over the range."

"Yes," answered the foolish man. "But, don't you know, it takes a woman a long time to learn how to cook anything she, or anybody else, can eat!"

Round Robins.

To simplify the baseball news which five times daily we peruse, let's have a form arranged to read: "We have more pitchers than we need."

"—'s ankle bothered him today; doesn't know if he can play because biz in his billiard room is showing such a wondrous boom."

"—, the wonder from Bean Hill, gives all the training camp a thrill when he unwinds his set of twists or nabs the ball with his big fist."

"Cap. — declared to me this morn: 'As sure as you and I are born my team will win that pennant, sure; we show that by our training tour.'"

"Then in the banks we'll put the name which in each city stands for fame; and, changing statements day by day we'll save a lot of time this way."

Insolvent.

"And," asks the referee in bankruptcy, after the lady has given, as best she may, a list of her debts, "is this all you owe?"

"The fair one bites her lips and thinks hard for a moment, then answers: "I owe party calls to almost everybody in town, judge. Must I put them down, also?"

Lack of Horse Sense.

"Ba, ha!" laughed the philosophical man, after his horse had thrown him. "It's a good joke on you. You are running to Greenville, and I am going to Jonesboro."

Momentous Moment.

There are moments when one wants to be alone, and one of those moments is when a fellow's suspenders break right in the middle of a two-step.—Judge.

In the Walk of Life.

Our life is a web woven by the hand of God, the thread reaching from our birth unto our death. The web is trouble, but still runs with it a web of interwoven comforts.—Adams.

Hard Luck!
He—"Tomorrow, darling, is our wedding day." She—"Yes, and it's bargain day at Silkman's, too. Isn't it just too aggravating?"—Boston Transcript.

Last Call.
If it be true that he laughs best who laughs last, the man who can't see a joke until three or four days after it has been cracked must have the everlasting call on everybody else when it comes to humor.—Judge.

Daily Thought.
Alas for the self-satisfied. He who is without aspirations is poor indeed. For all life consists of realizing unrealized ideals, and he who has no unrealized ideals is already dead, and knows it not.—Lyman Abbott.

His Philosophy.
The Sage—After forty years of married life I've made up my mind it doesn't matter how often a man and his wife disagree, as long as he doesn't let her know it.—Harper's Bazar.

One View of Patriotism.
One could have guessed without proof that in the course of his life Shakespeare, like Goethe, would rise above that parochial vanity which is to be lauded as patriotism. He was in love with the ideal and would not confine it to any country.—Frank Harris, "The Man Shakespeare."

Your Neighbor's Experience.
How you may profit by it. Take Foley Kidney Pills. Mrs. E. G. Whiting, 360 Willow street, Akron, Ohio, says: "For some time I had a very serious case of kidney trouble and I suffered with backache and dizzy headaches. I had specks floating before my eyes and I felt all tired out and miserable. I saw Foley Kidney Pills advertised and got a bottle and took them according to directions and results showed almost at once. The pain and dizzy headaches left me, my eye-sight became clear and today I can say I am a well woman, thanks to Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists.

Aid for Near-Sighted.
A German inventor has devised what he calls telescope eyeglasses. They are intended for the use of short-sighted persons by the very simple means of enlarging the image on the retina. They are especially designed for that class of near-sighted people who cannot wear the ordinary simply corrected glasses.

Hardy Siberian Horses.
Siberian horses are sturdy. Journeys of thousands of miles have been made at the rate of forty miles a day by their riders.

Death of Joseph P. Carter.
A friend of The Tribune-Journal has handed us the following account of the life and death of the late Joseph P. Carter, of Monroe. This was received too late for publication last week.

Joseph P. Carter died at his home in Monroe Thursday, June 15. He was born near Astoria, Fulton county, Illinois, July 21, 1843, where he grew to manhood. He served nearly four years in the civil war, enlisting in Company G, Eleventh Illinois Cavalry, at the age of seventeen. Later, he was one of General Sherman's escort on his march to the sea. Returning home in 1865, he was married to Miss Eliza J. Newberry, of Sumnum, Illinois, on December 3. In 1886, he moved with his family to Ashland, and five years later came to this county, which has since been his home. For the past five years the family has made its home at Monroe. He was converted in 1867, and united with the Methodist church, of which he has since been a faithful attendant, never complaining of his affliction.

Fourteen months ago he was stricken with paralysis, and since that time he has been a patient invalid, never complaining of his affliction.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church Saturday forenoon, being conducted by Rev. Phillips, assisted by Rev. Milo Rose, of Genoa. After the services, the remains were taken to Columbus, where the members of the G. A. R. were waiting with the Good Old Flag to carry their comrade to his last resting place.

Mr. Carter leaves a wife and six children to mourn the loss of husband and father—George Carter, of Meadow Brook, Minnesota; Nelson Seaman, Chester, Nettle, Myrtle and grand-daughter, Mae, of Monroe, and one daughter-in-law and three grandchildren in Meadow Brook, Minnesota, besides a large number of other relatives and friends.

Mr. Carter's death seems all the harder for the family, owing to the fact that but three months ago they were called on to part with the oldest son and brother, John Carter, of Meadow Brook, Minnesota, who died very suddenly of pneumonia.

Congregational Church.
The Congregational church offers the following services to the public next Sunday. The Bible school will be held at 9:45 a. m. At 11 o'clock the pastor will preach from the subject: "Love's Message to Human Powers." This will be the last service before the pastor's vacation. The Y. P. S. C. E. will meet at 7 o'clock. Union service at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock.

WILLIAM L. DIBBLE, Pastor.

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS.
Their action controls your health. Read what Foley Kidney Pills have done for your neighbor, Mrs. H. W. Allen, Quincy, Ill., says: "About a year ago my kidneys began bothering me. I had a swelling in my ankles and limbs, then headaches and nervous dizzy spells, and later severe backaches. I was getting worse, when I began taking Foley Kidney Pills. I kept on taking them until I was once more freed of all kidney trouble and suffering. I have a great deal to thank Foley Kidney Pills for and shall always recommend them." For sale by all Druggists.

Gruettli.
Ed Zybach sold his threshing outfit this week to Barney Tworek.

Carl Gium of Columbus, spent the past week at Hector Blaser's home.

Mrs. H. Ferrieks is reported again quite ill. She just recovered from a serious illness.

The wheat crop is being harvested. The farmers expect as good a yield as last year, though for a time it looked bad. The rain Sunday night helped the corn and oats, although the latter will be very short. John Brederoff reports that he has seen tassels in his corn field.

Gotlieb Lemp broke three ribs Friday by falling from a cherry tree.

Dr. and Mrs. Tiesing of Columbus, visited at the John Blaser home Sunday.

Mrs. Ernst of Schuyler spent several days here visiting with relatives. Ernst Funkhouser spent Sunday at the Jacob Schmidt home.

District 37 decided at their annual meeting to contract with Miss Bertha Glur of Columbus for a third year. They allowed her a raise in salary and one additional month.

Sam Imhof and Chris Bienz of Columbus attended the Henry Tieden funeral Monday.

This vicinity was surprised Saturday evening to hear of the sudden death of Henry Tieden. He had not been of the best health for some time. He was born in Germany in 1839 and moved to St. Louis, Mo., 28 years ago, one year later to his place. He was one of the old settlers here and everybody found him an honest and reliable man. At the time of his death George and Cora were taking care of the farm. There are three sons living yet, but their whereabouts is not known at present. His wife and five children passed away before him. Burial took place Monday forenoon at the Gruettli Cemetery. Rev. J. B. Braun conducting the services.
