The funeral of George Washington Erb, mention of whose death was made last week, took place Saturday afternoon, the remains being shipped here from Central City that day, and being met at the train by members of the family and of the Modern Woodmen, of which order he was a member. He was also a member of the Royal Highlanders and the Knights of the Macabees, holding his membership in all three orders in Alliance. The following sketch of his life is taken from the Central City Non-partisan:

At 12:15 yesterday morning George W. Erb passed away, following an illness of about three weeks. He suffered from stomach and bowel trouble and this ailment caused his death. He had been a sufferer for nine years from stomach trouble and rheumatism and had been unable to engage in active work for much of that time. The funeral services will be held at the Methodist church Saturday morning at 10:30 and the family will then accompany the body to Columbus, where interment will take place in the Shell Creek cemetery. George Washington Erb was born in Columbus, Ohio, February 22, 1856, and was thus 55 years, 5 months and ten days old. When he was nine months old his parents came to Nebraska, settling near Columbus, where he grew to manhood. On November 28, 1882, he was married to Amanda F. McCormick. To this union two sons were born, Michael C., who died at the age of seven, and Harry A., who survives. In 1891 the family moved to Alliance, where they resided for six years, then removing to Central City, where they have since resided. Mr. Erb had been a member of the Methodist church since 1889 and was a regular attendant at all its services whenever it was possible for him to attend. He was a man of strong faith and his life was a reflection of his faith. Besides his widow and son, Harry, there is an adopted son, Allan, nine years of age to mourn his departure. Mr. Erb was the oldest of fifteen children, of whom one brother and four sisters are still living—Andrew C. Erb, of Clarks; Mrs. J. G. Engle, Clarks; Mrs. H. B. Reed, Columbus; Mrs. Henry Engle, Richland; Mrs. J. W. Byrns, Fullerton.

I. J. Lane, manager of the Nebraska Telephone company, who has been in the city during the week, showed us a coin with a history the other day. Since that time it has been kept in the Lane family as a cherished keep-sake and as a memento of the famous soldier.

The members of the committee having in charge the preparations for the Y. M. C. A. lecture course for next winter announce that they have arranged for the program, which is an exceptionally strong one. The course will consist of four numbers and every one is a gem in its class. There are two lecture numbers, the lecturers being Francis J. Heney, the great graft prosecutor of San Francisco, who will tell the story of the overthrow of graft in that city, and Edward Amherst Ott, who chooses for his lecture the some what abstract subject of "Sour Grapes." But whatever about the subject, the lecture itself has attracted large crowds of appreciative people wherever it has been delivered. Another number will be Montaville Flowers the impersonator, who comes in a Shakespearean role. A number of Columbus people will remember Mr. Flowers as having appeared here a number of years ago in a reading of "Ben Hur," at a meeting of the North Nebraska teachers' association. The fourth number of the course is the Chicago Glee Club, which is now traveling in its thirteenth year, and is sure to prove a treat for the music lovers of the city. The sale of season tickets will commence before long, and the task of selling enough of the season tickets to insure the procuring of this strong course is a large one. Let us remember that nothing is too good for Columbus, and everybody help to insure its success.
