DISASTER BY A DAM

OVER EIGHT HUNDRED LIVES SAID TO BE LOST.

GREAT STRUCTURE GIVES WAY

Many of the Bodies Recovered So Maimed that Recognition is Utterly Impossible.

Austin, Pa.—More than 800 persons were drowned and untold numbers were maimed here when the great dam of the Bayless Pulp and Paper company, holding back more than 500,000,000 gallons of water went out Saturday. Forty bodies have been recovered, many of them so maimed that recognition is impossible. Governor John K. Tenor of Pennsylvania has been asked for help and a relief train is on the way from Coudersport, fourteen miles away. The survivors are in a frenzy. There is no organization, the town being seized by the force of the calamity, which came without a moment's warning. Burgess Michael Murn has not been located and it is feared he has been drowned. Hundreds of men, women and children are searching through the ruins of the village for their families and friends. The only light is the glare of hundreds of houses which caught fire from broken gas pipes almost before the flood had passed. Chaos reigned from the moment the mighty wall of water tore through the town and there will be no relief until help comes from the surrounding towns. Meantime many bodies lie in the wake of the flood.

The curtain of night, which was rung down upon the Austin flood Sunday scarcely before its victims had all been claimed and its surviving spectators fully realized how great a tragedy the elements of water and fire had enacted in the natural amphitheatre of the Allegheny mountains here, was lifted by dawn, revealing a ghastly scene of death and devastation.

Austin, itself, Saturday a busy mill town of 2,000 persons, many of whom were enjoying the fine autumn afternoon as a Saturday half holiday, is only a ghost of a town now. Torn to pieces by water and eaten by fire the wet and charred remnants of its buildings, believed to hold the remains of 200 or more persons, were strewn along the valley edge, piled in rows where the main street business section was swept in scattered masses far down the ravine.

Spectators, many of whom barely escaped being victims of the disaster and hundreds of persons from surrounding towns, looked down from the steep hillsides on Austin and Costello through a veil of fog Sunday morning to see the wreckage here of some 400 houses, a score of business blocks, three churches and several large lumber mills and three miles further down the river at Costello the ruins of more than fifty buildings.

Latest estimates greatly reduce the loss of life, but the real facts will not be known for some time. The property loss will exceed $6,000,000, and it is the general opinion that the town never will be rebuilt. Two at least of the large plants will not be reconstructed and a majority of the business men of the place have been ruined financially.

Bullet Kills Railroad Attorney.

Chicago, Ill.—Curtis W. Remy, for many years known as a corporation lawyer, died Sunday from a bullet wound inflicted while he was in his room in a downtown hotel. At a hospital Remy said he had shot himself while cleaning a revolver. Remy was born in Hope, Ind., in 1852.

A REMARKABLE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA

Munyon's Stomach Treatment Performing Miracles.

MUNYON TELLS YOU HOW TO GET WELL FREE OF CHARGE

"A few days ago I received a letter from a young man who states he is 22 years of age, and has occupied several important positions, but owing to indigestion and inability to sleep he has been unable to concentrate his mind upon his work and has consequently been discharged on the ground of neglect of duty. He goes on to say that he is a young man of steady habits, but for years he has suffered from dyspepsia, which has so affected his nerves that he is unable to sleep, and that it is not neglect upon his part, nor lack of interest in the business, but simply physical weakness. He asks my advice in this matter.

"For the benefit of a large number of those similarly situated I propose to answer this letter publicly, hoping that it may be the means of helping many who may be affected in this way.

"In the first place, the stomach must be made well before the nerves can be made strong. One can sleep well, no one is capable of doing his best who is in any way troubled with indigestion or any form of nervousness. The greatest general health is based upon a strong and indomitable will. They have had perfect digestion, being able to eat well, and digest all they ate.

"It is said that Napoleon lost the battle of Waterloo because of a fit of indigestion. Grant's enormous power was due to a well stomach. Abraham Lincoln said that he did not know that he had stomach trouble until he was elected president. He would eat 12 or 13 o'clock in the morning, go to bed and sleep soundly until 9 o'clock and get up refreshed, ready for a new day's work.

"From Taft is another type of healthy manhood. Who thinks for one moment that he would be the President of the United States today had he been a dyspeptic or affected with some nervous ailment? I claim that two-thirds of all the failures in professional and business life are due to weak and deranged stomachs.

"No business house could care to employ a dyspeptic representative to sell goods for them on the road. One-half the men who stand behind counters today, earning from $2 to $5 a week, never get beyond these figures, for the reason that they are physically weak. They lack the nerve power and commanding strength that come from a good, sound stomach.

"No one cares to hear a dyspeptic preacher. No matter how plain he may be, he is bound to reflect his bilious and jaundiced condition. He will unconsciously fascinate his hearers with his melancholy feelings.

"No one would think of entrusting an important legal case in the hands of a dyspeptic lawyer, any more than would you care to entrust his own life, or that of a dear one, in the hands of a physician who is nervous, irritable or a dyspeptic. Men must have good digestion, strong nerves and vital manhood in order to render a clear and decided opinion either in medicine, law or business.

"I believe that more than half of the diseases that are traced to ill health, I want every dyspeptic to try my stomach treatment for it cures all forms of indigestion and nervousness. It makes old stomachs almost as good as new. Its marvelous power for curing all forms of indigestion and nervousness, getting the best out of it makes for good rich, red blood. This, in turn, strengthens the nerves, builds up the general system, and will surely prolong life and make it a pleasure to live and do the things allotted to us.

Professor Munyon makes no charge for consultation or medical advice, not a penny. Address Prof. J. C. Munyon, Munyon's Laboratories, Fifth-third and Jefferson streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

Keeping Busy.
