Patrick Henry Kelley, one of the oldest residents of Monroe, passed away at three o'clock Sunday morning. He had been in poor health for the past two months, but not until Sat-urday did his condition become alarm-ing. He came to Platte county about 1859, and served in the civil war in a Nebraska regiment. After the War he returned to Monroe and lived on his farm northeast of town, until a few years ago, when he moved to Monroe. For a number of years he had lived with his sister, Mrs. Anna Young, who came here after the death of her hus-band. His wife died several years ago, and no children were left by them. He is survived by three brothers, John M. Kelley, of Monroe, Dr. B. B. Kel-ley, of Billings, Montana, and Jesse B. Kelley who lives in Colorado, be-sides the sister. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon and interment was made in the Friends cemetery west of town. A peculiar coincident was the fact that his friends had placed his name on the prohibition ticket for county treasurer, and that on election day his friends carried him to his last resting place. He was a man who was a credit to the community in which he lived, and held the esteem and respect of all who knew him.

Louis Godelueschen, Ninth & Ful-ton Sts., Columbus, Nebraska, says: "The use of Doan's Kidney Pills in our home has proven them to be a thoroughly reliable kidney remedy. A member of my family suffered a great deal from pain in the back and other annoying difficulties caused by weak kidneys. She was often so greatly troubled that walking was difficult. Doctors brought only temporary relief and as soon as their medicine was dis-continued, the trouble returned as bad-ly as ever. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally taken and they restored her to good health. My son, nine years of age, who also had a distressing kidney weakness, took Doan's Kidney Pills with the most satisfactory results."

The Election.

Everybody seems to be glad that it is all over, and that we may now have a rest of a few months before again coming into a political campaign.

Here in Platte county the result is but a repetition of the old, old story—the democrats winning everything in 1911, but apparently with reduced majorities. Otto Heurer seems to have the smallest majority, and his will reach between 450 and 500. The majorities of the other county officers will probably range between that figure and 750.

In the supervisor districts, Adam Smith was an easy winner in the Columbus district, having more votes in each each voting precinct than the combined vote of both his opponents. The total vote of Mr. Smith was 822, as against 306 for Bergman and 212 for Mayberger. Mr. Mayberger made his campaign that the country should be represented and hoped to receive the county vote while the city would divide its votes between Smith and Bergman. This plan failed to materialize, however and Smith swept every thing in both city and country.

In the Monroe district Supervisor Wilson was sacrificed and George C. Anderson will represent that district after January, next. Monroe voting place, in Osceola township remembered very kindly the work of Supervisor Wilson in the Monroe bridge matter, and returned 90 votes for him to 14 for Mr. Anderson. On the other hand, Mr. Anderson proved to be very popular in his home township of Wood-ville, that township reversing the Monroe vote almost exactly. The other township voted in such a way as to leave Anderson a majority of about twenty. Two years ago, Mr. Wilson was elected over William Webster, by a majority of one.

There is one thing that appears in the returns all the way through to the credit of all candidates, both republican and democratic, and that is the magnificent vote received by them in their respective home voting places among their own neighbors. For instance, in his old home in Lost Creek township Fred Lecron ran about thirty votes ahead of his ticket, while Gideon Braun reversed a three-to-one demo-catic margin in Loup; John Hayes led his ticket by thirty-five in Columbus township, while John Graf's First ward vote vote was almost as much ahead of the average of his running mates. The votes on county judge and county treasurer were not wholly governed by political territory as were the others, each of the four candidates carried some precincts that under ordinary circumstances would have been counted for the other.

For congress, Dan V. Stephens has been elected over Colonel Elliott, the estimates of his majority varying from 2,530 to 4000. In the state, the entire republican ticket seems to have been elected, with the possible ex-ception that Judge Dean may have defeated Judge Hamer. These later two appear to be running closely.

One quart of the resultant dry pow-der can be mixed with four quarts of water. This preparation should be used as fresh as possible to spray the walls, partitions and floors of infected buildings. It should be run through a fine sieve or strainer before using to prevent the clogging of the spray-ing nozzle, as it is preferably applied with a spray pump.

The excellent disinfectant properties of white wash are quite generally appreciated, and no stable should miss at least one or two thorough white washings a year, as this thorough in-expensive process is not only a valu-able means of controlling disease germs, but it also adds materially to the cleanly, sanitary appearance of the interior of the barn. For the best results the white wash should be prepared from freshly-slacked lime in the proportion of one pint of lime to four of water.—Iowa Homestead.

From The Leader:

Sam Peterson who went to Colfax Springs Missouri several weeks ago for his health, returned the last of the week improved in health.

Report comes from Oklahoma to the effect that after passing them up for many years the storks have finally visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Schaffer and left a baby boy.

Governor Aldrich was in town Tues-day and took dinner at the Stillman. He was on his way to Fullerton where he spoke in the evening. George Rose and Frank Wake motored up to hear him.

The Leader joins the entire com-munity in extending sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Battles of the Look-ing Glass valley over the death of their daughter who passed away the last of the week. The funeral ser-vices were held Sunday afternoon.

If anyone save June Ellis had told the following we would not have be-lieved it. He says that Harry Wells brought him in some potatoes last week, one of which furnished potatoes enough for two meals for seven people while the remains were sufficient to feed several dozen chickens. We be-lieve it but you can do as you please about it.

This office is in receipt of a card from P. E. Slaughter, containing a picture of an alligator which said he was "waiting for something to come his way." Pete said he would write when something came his way. Whether he was waiting for the alliga-tor he did not say and we'll have to wait until we hear from him again, provided the gator don't get him.

S. T. Battles, living about two miles east of town, was awakened at about four o'clock Monday morning by the creaking in his kitchen falling down and arose to find his house on fire. He soon discovered that nothing could be done towards saving the house and turned his attention to the furniture and succeeded with the help of neighbors in saving the most of it, but the house was completely destroyed. There was no stove, pipe or chimney near where the fire started and it is supposed it was another "match and mouse" deal. The building as insured for $1500 and the furniture for $500, which will not cover the loss by a good deal. We understand he will build another house immediately.

The Halloween party at the home of Miss Rose Enid Mortenson, last Friday night, was most thoroughly enjoy-ed by some twenty young people who kept the witches and goblins busy until early morning, and voted Miss Mor-tenson "The queen of entertainers."

There will be preaching at Clear Creek next Sunday afternoon at the close of Sunday school.

Miss Ursula Wade entertained the Kensington club last Saturday after-noon.

Raymond Zack is home on a visit with his parents.

Roy Coffey is building a new hen house.

How To Disinfect A Stable.

When an animal dies on the farm of some infectious disease his carcass should be destroyed by burning. In case this precaution is rendered im-possible the body should at least be buried at a depth of four or five feet and covered with quicklime. Where a shallow grave is used the diseased remains may be subsequently disinterred by some prowling animal and an entire herd which is on pasture near by may be exposed to the disease. An-thrax, especially, is often spread by neglect of these precautions, as birds, dogs or other animals prey on the un-buried carcass and distribute the germs. Great care must be exercised to prevent the transmission of any germ-bearing disease to the rest of the herd through the deaths of one of its members. The stable which has housed an animal which has died of a contagious disease should be subjected to rigorous sanitary treatment. All the infected forage and bedding should be raked up and burned, while the walls should be well soaked with water and then thoroughly scraped. In case there is any rotten wood in the floor, feed boxes, or stanchions, it should be removed and burned. Some vigorous germicide which will stamp out all possibility of further transmission of the disease should then be used.

Lime is generally considered one of the most efficient disinfectants, because it possesses the ability to destroy or ganic matter as well as bacteria. To prepare milk of lime add a pint and a half of water to each quart of quick-lime to be slacked—by weight 60 parts of water to 100 parts of lime. One quart of the resultant dry pow-der can be mixed with four quarts of water. This preparation should be used as fresh as possible to spray the walls, partitions and floors of infected buildings. It should be run through a fine sieve or strainer before using to prevent the clogging of the spray-ing nozzle, as it is preferably applied with a spray pump.

From the Democrat:

There was a jolly gathering of rela-tives at the home of Sam Gertsch, in Grand Prairie township last Sunday. Those present from out of the neigh-borhood were Martin and Mary Smith, of Benton, Mr. and Mrs. Amel King and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Smith, of Leigh. To any one who has ever vis-ited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gertsch it is unnecessary to say that a fine time was had.

Mrs. William Stewart and baby, who have been here on a visit to the Germann, Fehring and other fam-ilies in this neighborhood, left Sunday for Princeville, Illinois, for a visit with her mother. Mr. Stewart who has also been here for some time vis-iting and doing some jobs of painting will remain here until his wife re-turns, then they will return to their home at Clay Center, this state.

Jos. Stevens was taken to the Sol-dier's Home at Milford last Friday by Attorney W. P. Sternberg. For sev-eral months Mr. Stevens has been in a very feeble condition and he became so bad lately that it was impossible for Mrs. Stevens to take care of him, so it was thought advisable to take him to the soldiers' home. A couple of years ago Mr. Stevens received a stroke of paralysis since when he has been unable to do any thing and most of the time he was unable to care for himself.

Martin Rinehart, better known as "Riney", was taken to the Columbus hospital last Saturday where he will remain for a short time after which he will be taken to the county poor farm for the winter. The reason he was taken to the hospital is the fact that he was suffering with some kind of sores on one of his feet and it was thought best to take him to the hos-pital for treatment before taking him to the poor farm. "Riney" was around Humphrey most of the summer mak-ing his home with different farmers who offered him the hospitality of their homes and he apparently enjoyed his stay here wonderfully.

Mrs. A. L. Rush expects to leave the last of the week for Albion, where she will visit her parents several days.

The Presbyterian Christian Endeav-ors who attended the state conven-tion, at Lincoln, last week will hold a special service at the church Thurs-day evening. Some of the new Con-vention songs will be sung by a quartet. Miss Margaret Nauman will head the program with "Efficiency—the Keynote of the Convention." Leland Evans will report a lecture given by one of the great young men in Endeavor work, a report full of epigrams and stories with points. Miss Vivian Jenkinson will speak about "Some First Things". Walter Nauman will define C. E. and Miss Ruby Freeman will give a talk on "Christian Endeavor on the Mission Field." This service will begin at 7:30. Come early and get a good seat.

Be Your Own Rain Maker

Did the recent long, dry spell hit you pretty hard—cutting down your crop yield and your income for the year? In the Big Horn Basin and the Yellowstone Valley farmers have raised splendid crops. Their income this year will be greater than ever and it all comes from an ample water supply. The farmer "controlled the rain" and applied the water as his crops needed it. The Government system of irrigation provides during the growing season two feet of water per acre, the equivalent of twelve heavy rains of two inches each; think what a water supply would have meant to your community during the summer of 1911.

Why not go with me on the next excursion into the Big Horn Basin, and look over that land of sunshine and bounty; new Government units of the finest kind of irrigated land near Ralston now available with perpetual water rights on the easiest of terms. These are the richest gifts the Government has had to bestow upon its people within thirty years.
