THREE CENTS

SENIORS VS. LAWYERS

Junior Law Team Goes Down to Defeat Before the Upper Classmen—Senior Class Spirit Runs High.

By a score of 10 to 0 the senior academics defeated a mixed team composed of junior and senior laws together with a smattering of the first team and the scrubs yesterday afternoon.

The game was scheduled between the seniors and the junior laws but as the latter were not able to get together a full team the outsiders were put in.

Bender of the Varsity played full back and incidentally did most of the work for the lawyers.

In the first half the seniors pushed their opponents rapidly down the field for a touch down Clinton failing at goal.

In the second half the seniors carried the ball to the lawyers goal, by line bucks and pushed them over for a touch back. A few minutes later they again made a touchdown. Clinton failed to kick goal. The final score was 10 to 0 in favor of the seniors.

Nielsen was badly hurt in the second half but for want of a substitute was forced to play the game through.

Brew acted as umpire. Fifteen minute halves were played.

Class spirit runs high and the seniors feel confident of beating the sophomores when they meet to settle the championship.

ENGINEERING SOCIETY.

The Engineering society will hold their regular meeting Wednesday at 7:30 pm., in room 211 M. A. Mr. Sargent a local Civil Engineer who has done considerable government work along banks of the Mississippi will give some "Reminiscences."

ENGINEERING NOTES.

Professor Stout and his bridge class, consisting of Clinton, Searis, Larsen, Dorman and Gutleben made a tour of the Missouri river bridges at Omaha last Saturday morning. Slide-rules, notebooks and a camera were profusely used and some excellent results were obtained. The Illinois Central bridge northeast of Omaha is especially interesting in that it contains the longest swing span in the world by three feet.

The following story is told of one of the Engineers who took in the football game Saturday.

When the excursion train was made up in Omaha he avoided the rush by coming early. He seated himself on an inside chair and reserved the one next to the window with his coat, his friends meantime wondering at his apparently selfish procedure. Presently a fair co-ed appeared at the upper end of the aisle and immediately it was noticed that he moved over to the seat next to the window. However disappointment was his lot for the co-ed strutted by without even a smile in appreciation of his kindness. As no more co-eds appeared in the car he still had an extra reserved seat when he reached Lincoln.

SENIOR LAWS CHOOSE CLASS BOOK MANAGER.

The Senior laws have decided to co-operate with the senior academics in publishing a Senior book. To that end W. R. Heartt was elected business manager for the class.

The remainder of the board of editors will be elected Wednesday afternoon when the class will meet to finish the business relating to the Class Book.

The Senior laws will have a separate department in the annual.

DR. HOUGH'S COLLECTION OF ANCIENT PRINTS PRESENTED TO PENN.

Part of the library of the late Dr. J. Stockton Hough, a well known physician, who for many years lived near Trenton, N. J., has just been presented to the University of Pennsylvania by its friends. His library was well known to all interested in rare books, especially for its collection of unique books on bibliography, biography and medicine; also for his collections of rare editions of the antique classics.

The collection is the most notable one the University Library has received for years. The estimated value is considerably over four thousand and dollars, but it is impossible to accurately estimate in dollars and cents the value of so rare a collection of black-letter editions.

In the library there are twenty-five specimens of incunabula, or books published before 1500. Among these are a copy of the first edition of "Festive," published in 1488; a copy of "Rico de Mirandola," of 1498; a beautiful edition in Latin of "Avicenna on Medicine," published in Venice in 1488; a "Thomas Aquinas," of 1489, and a wonderful quarto volume published in Nuremberg in 1483, of Bartholomus. Among other books may be mentioned the "Pandex of Justinian," London, 1806, and an "Anthology of the Latin Poets," published in London in 1713. The latter is a very rare edition of one of the earliest anthologies.

Among the medical works that still remain in the collection is also a rather rare copy of "Origen," Paris, 1520; and the works of Hippocrates and Galene, published in Paris in 1519.

The collection is also very rich in bibliography and biography and contains a large number of valuable ancient and modern works.

Over half the men of the University of Wyoming are members of the Y. M. C. A.

CADET APPOINTMENTS

Officers for the Battalion Announced—Unusual Interest Manifested—Rumors of Resignations Afloat.

More than usual interest has been taken this year in the appointments of cadet officers which were announced last night. Partly owing to the change of Commandants there was an uncertainty as to who would get the plums. While the appointments were made largely on the merits of the men as shown by their records this fall and during the time they have been drilling, more than the usual attention was paid to the academic classes to which appointees belong. The old rule that seniors should as far as possible be given the commissions was adhered to as closely as practicable.

There are a number of complaints made already and it is rumored about the campus that a several resignations will be tendered in the near future as a result of blasted ambitions. It has always been the custom heretofore to show especial consideration to football men although they drill only about half of the first

THE FACULTY WOMEN'S CLUB.

The faculty woman's club will meet with Mrs. T. M. Hodgman 700 North 16th street, on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock. Members are urged to assemble promptly if possible.

Considerable disappointment is expressed over the absence of the band from the Omaha game Saturday. The reason for their absence appears to be a disagreement between some members of the band and the athletic board over remuneration for their services. The board offered them their railroad fare and admission to the game. Some of the boys were of the opinion that the total expense of the trip should be allowed them. Thus the board did not feel able to do, so the rooters went without the band.

The funeral of the late Edmund F. Turner '99, who died Nov. 3 from injuries received in an accident at Cedar Falls, Iowa, was held at the family home at Wilber, Neb., at 3:30 last Wednesday afternoon.

The facts of the accident are as follows: While engaged in superintending the laying of some heavy beams on the new steel bridge at Cedar Falls, Mr. Turner slipped and fell 18 feet to the ground below. As a result of the fall his right leg was broken and his back and head seriously injured. He retained consciousness until Saturday night. The physicians thought the blow to the head had caused a clot of blood to form on the brain and Sunday, performed an operation to remove it. The injury on the head proved fatal.

It is supposed the accident was caused by a confusion of orders by some of the men while moving the beam. Affidavits are being taken from the workmen to discover the real cause of the accident, in order to determine whether or not the accident was the fault of the company.

His parents did not receive word of the accident until Sunday, the day of his death. Mr. Turner did not think his injuries would result seriously and did not wish to let his parents know of the accident.
