ENGINEERING NOTES.

L. C. Brown of the Mechanic Arts class of '00 paid a short visit at Department headquarters yesterday. He was really surprised at the improvements in the shops and steam laboratory. He is located at Omaha as mechanical expert in charge of the machine shop of the Avery Manufacturing Co.

Messrs. Kendall and Brooke, seniors in Electrical Engineering, have taken for the subject of their thesis the much-talked of Fremont and Omaha electric railway. This scheme includes the construction of a large dam in the Platte near Fremont, and the transmission of the power, thus made available, to Fremont, Omaha, and intermediate stations where power and electric lights are needed. Messrs Kendall and Brooke have spent several days surveying in the neighborhood of the site of the dam in order to obtain data upon which to base their figures. As they have begun "pushing" their side-rules, some tangible results are soon to be expected.
