THE CENSUS FIGURES.

REPORT OF THE BUREAU MAKES INTERESTING READING.

How the Whole World Contributes to the Population of the United States—Females Increase More Rapidly Than Males.

In June, 1900, there were in the United States proportionately a few more females than in 1890, a greater proportion of the population was native born, and there were also proportionately more whites; or, stated conversely, there were proportionately fewer males, fewer foreigners and fewer blacks than ten years ago.

During the past ten years the number of women has been growing slightly more rapidly than the number of men; the native born population has increased at nearly double the rate of increase of the foreign born, the foreign element having increased at less than one-third of the rate of increase of the foreign born during the preceding decade, and the number of whites has increased to quite an extent more rapidly than has the number of blacks.

These are the main conclusions derived from a study of the figures presented in a recent Census Bulletin.

The total population of the United States on June 1, 1900, was 76,303,387, including persons enumerated at military and naval stations and naval ships abroad and in Alaska, Hawaii, Indian Territory and Indian reservations.

This great total consisted of 39,059,- 242 males and 37,244,145 females—a majority for the males of 1,815,097. Expressed differently, of each 10,000 inhabitants 5,118 were boys and men and 4,882 were girls and women. Ten years before there were 32,315,063 males and 30,754,693 females, or of every 10,000 inhabitants 5,124 were males and 4,876 were females. The females have thus increased only a very little more rapidly than the males. In 1900, in 10,000 inhabitants there were 236 more men than women, whereas in 1890, in the same number of inhabitants, there were 248 more men than women. Expressed in percentages, there has been an increase in males of 20.9 per cent and in females of 21.1 per cent.

Of native born persons there were 65,843,302 and of foreign born 10,460,- 085 in 1900, that is, of every 1,000 persons in 1900 863 were born in the United States and only 137 outside the borders of the country. In 1890, on the other hand, there were 63,761,665 native born and 9,308,091 foreign born, or of every 1,000 persons 852 were native and 148 foreign born.

During the ten years the native born increased at nearly double the rate of increase of the foreign born, the former increasing 22.5 per cent and the latter only 12.4 per cent. If we exclude the foreign born counted in Hawaii, Alaska and at military and naval stations abroad, in the United States itself the foreign element increased by only 1,- 091,729, or 11.8 per cent, whereas during the preceding decade it increased by 2,569,604, or 38.5 per cent.

element increased at less than one-third of its rate of increase during the preceding decade. In absolute numbers there was an addition to our native born population of 12,081,637 and to our foreign born of 1,151,904.

There are 1 Japanese, 2 Chinese, 3 Indians, 116 negroes and 878 whites in every 1,000 of the population.

The totals of the different classes are 66,990,802 white persons, 8,840,785 persons of negro descent, 119,059 Chinese, 85,986 Japanese, and 266,750 Indians, or a total colored element of 9,312,585 persons.

If you want a share of the bargains at Sanderson's you had better go at once. Chances like these don't come every day.

A Riley program was given Friday night by the Palladians, and enjoyed by all present. The opening number was a piano solo by Miss Griffin, whose playing was warmly praised by the audience. Mr. Elliott then told some laughable anecdotes of the life of the Hoosier poet. One of Riley's poems of child-life was read by Miss Wells. The quaint humor of the selection kept the audience in continual laughter. As the last number one of Riley's short but very interesting poems was read by Miss Bednar.

Of course you'll have to keep your room warm this winter
