Among the plans of the historical society for the coming year, is one to make a complete set of maps of Nebraska showing the judicial congressional, senatorial, representative and other districts of the state and territory from 1854 to the present.

The historical society is endeavoring to complete its files of the United States Statutes and state papers.

Ernest A. Bessey, '96, and '98, now in charge of the section of "Seed and Plant Introduction," at Washington has just issued a bulletin of nearly one hundred pages consisting of an inventory of seeds and plants, with verified botanical names.

The Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday will be a Members' Meeting in the interests of the Toronto convention. Every member should count it a privilege to become educated on the Great Missionary Enterprise, and also to help in making it possible for our University to have a good representation at this convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Cassius A. Fisher, former assistants in the department of geology, arrived in Lincoln Jan. 19, and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Barbour. Mr. Fisher, who has just closed his sixth year in field work for the United States Geological Survey will resume postgraduate studies in this University.

A joint debate between the Union and Maxwell clubs will be held in Union hall tomorrow evening. The question to be discussed is, Resolved, that the governor of Indiana was justified in refusing to honor the requisition made upon him by the governor of Kentucky for the return of Ex-Governor Taylor for trial.

The University of Michigan has chosen the negative side of the question submitted to it by the University of Pennsylvania, viz., "That the system of compulsory voting should be adopted in the United States." The debate will be held in Philadelphia in March, and will be the fourth time the representatives of the two schools have met on the debate platform.

The buildings which the University of Pennsylvania proposes to erect within the next two years will involve an expenditure of nearly $2,000,000.

WISCONSIN MAY NOT PLAY MICHIGAN.

The proposed game between Wisconsin and Michigan is still in a state of uncertainty as the following from the Wisconsin Cardinal will show.

"When interviewed, Manager Kilpatrick said that the football game with Michigan is still unsettled. Baird of Michigan would not agree under any condition to play the game at Madison or Milwaukee. Manager Kilpatrick used every effort to have the game played in Milwaukee when he found that Michigan refused to consider a proposition to come to Madison. It is thought, however, that in the end a game may be arranged. The matter will come before the meeting of the athletic board tonight."
