California...

Has numerous Natural Bridges, Caves, etc. of no little interest. The Mammoth Cave of Calaveras, discovered by miners in 1850; the Alabaster Cave; the Crystal Palace Cave, c ntaining a number of attractive subterranean apartments, such as the Br'dal Chamber, the Crystal Palace Room, and a curious apartment called the Music Hall, where the deposits of aqueous origin not only take the form of organ pipes, sounding boards, etc., but also emit when struck musical sounds and vibrations. Near linquents, all of whom will, without this cave are two natural bridges which the tourist can visit and return to the railroad within half an hour,

The only natural way to reach these scenes of interest is via "The Overland Route," comprising the Union and Southern Pacific, now really one line. The only line running through trains to San Francisco from Omaha.

Tumble Weeds.

We have looked over with some care and growing pleasure a little volume of verse, by Will Reed Dunroy, issued by the University Publishing Co., entitled "Tumble Weeds." We find Mr. Danroy an interesting person. He undertakes large things, and approaches them in a large way. He aims evidently for nothing short of the highest work, It will be carious to see what a young man with this ambition can achieve. Mr. Dunroy seems to be distinctly a western man-one of those who are quite content with their own environment as a sphere for action and growth. His themes are things that exist, and that he can see around himself: it is men who can take this view, it seems to us, who are going to count on the future of our western civilization. One little poem on "Dawn" attracted us particularly, and another on Sergeant Floyd. We wondered a little at Mr. Dunroy's having thought it necessary to put a pretty little thing about Nebraska into apostrophe's dialect. A peculiarity that struck us was a strain of devoutness that runs through some of the poems, together, with some tokens of displeasure with the church organizations.
